Jimmy Reese

We have received several clippings snipped from the Anchorage (Alaska) Daily Times telling of the hockey exploits of Jimmy Reese, the former Prowler and Thieves hockey player.

Jim, who is one of the fastest-skating players to wear the Prowler hockey togs here, is a member of the Hohn Plumbers of the Anchorage hockey league. The team won the league title this season, fulfilling a four-year ambition. Says a clipping: "Jim Reese was the difference between the two teams scoring six goals for a double hat trick. The feat has never before been accomplished by a Hohn skater." This item referred to the Hohn's 8-2 win over the Fort Richardson Pioneers.

And another item states, "Jim Reese scored five times in subzero weather last night as the Hohn Plumbers set back the Civilian Club at Elmendorf, 8-3".

And in the annual Fur Rendezvous hockey tournament, Reese's team, by a 7-1 score, defeated Elmendorf to win the Governor's Cup trophy. Jim is centering the Hohn's first line, and apparently doing a first-rate job.

Real Close

Al Brunelle, proprietor of the Family Bowl lanes, really had Playing in the mixed doubles the pins scrambled last Sunday. league, Al racked up nine consecutive strikes, had a spare in the tenth frame, added nine pins and chalked up a huge 276 score. Al was very close to a 300 game. He had a thin hit in the 7th frame, but got a strike; and in the tenth he came in with a pocket hit, but he left a spare, which he cleaned.

Prowler Quintet Survives Semis

Thief River Falls and Crookston moved through the semi-final round of the 31st district basketball tournament Tuesday night by scoring victories over Red Lake Falls and Climax. The Prowlers defeated coach Al McCarthy's Red Lake Falls Eagles 60-47, and coach Al Droen's defending champion Crookston Pirates, by virtue of a strong fourth period of play, pulled away from the Climax Vikings to win 62-49.

The Prowlers in their convincing triumph over the ever hustling Red Lake Falls played a steady brand of ball and except for a couple of lapses in the second period, when the Eagles pared the Prowler lead to five points, 21-16, coach Hartley Story's club had control of the game.

In the opening period the Eagles, on six points by Jason Huseby and a field goal by Tom Bye, rushed into 8 to 5 lead. Ron Hanson, covering the rebounds in adept maner, scored four field goals, getting a pair of tip-ins and looping in a couple of one-handed tosses. Don Ulferts, who shared the game's high point honors with Hanson with each player hitting for 17 points, drove in for a lay up. A free throw by Ulferts and a drive in shot by Bob Pearson moved the Prowlers into an 18 to 8 lead.

After a few jittery moments in the second period the Prowlers regained their poise and moved into a commanding 26 to 20 lead at the intermission.

A 18-point production in the third period boosted the Prowler lead to 24 points, 55-31. Coaches Story and McCarthy sent in numerous reserves in the fourth period, during which the Eagles outpointed the locals 16 to 11.

Jason Huseby who fouled out late in the fourth period led Red Lake Falls scorers with 15 points. Forward Ted Fladeland also hit in double figures having 10 points on five field goals.

41st Birthday of the American Legion to Be Noted Next Week

"Without the American Legion's 41 years of patriotic service, this would be a very different America from the country we have today," said Harold M. Johnson, commander of the Ninth district American Legion commenting on the Legion's 41st birthday, March 15-17.

Some of the American Legion's achievements for the good of America were listed by Johnson as follows:

Vigorous unrelenting and effective opposition to Communist infiltration of American life.

Winning the award of adjusted compensation to World War I veterans, and the early payment of this compensation which helped break the grip of the Great Depression.

Encouraging the development of American virtues in the youth of the country through support of character building youth organizations and awards for achievement.

Using the united voice of its large membership to demand adequate compensation and the best of care for disabled veterans, and protection for widows and orphans of veterans.

Enactment of the G.I. Bill of Rights for returning World War II veterans, and Korean War veterans, vastly benefitting veterans and improving the educational level and economic stability of the nation.

Continuous campaign for adequate national defense which helped prevent complete disarmament of United States after World War I, and gave the country something more than empty hands at the start of World War II.

The American Legion's "Back to God" campaign which increases individual and national spiritual strength.

More than 17,000 community American Legion Posts and their 14,000 American Legion Auxiliary units will put on one of the greatest collective birthday celebrations in the nation. The month of March will be highlighted by these post and unit parties. Many posts will make the annual birthday party a special occasion to honor their charter members and past commanders. Others will make it an occasion for initiating new members. This month will also mark a stepped up membership effort in order that the 1960 goals can be reached at the earliest possible date.

Moose Census Is Now in Progress

Being Conducted on Two North Minnesota Ranges

If there are moose on the loose in Minnesota, their numbers will soon be known by the Minnesota game and fish division.

Officials of the U. S. Forest Service are presently cooperating with division technicians in an aerial census of the two major moose ranges in northern Minnesota.

According to Milton Stenlund, northeast regional game manager, 17 statistically selected townships will be censused in the Superior National Forest in Cook, Lake and St. Louis counties, and 11 will be checked in the bog area north of Red Lake in Beltrami and Lake of the Woods counties.

A forest service plane will census the Superior Forest routes while a state game pilot and observer will fly the Red Lake area.

In general, the state's moose population appears to be increasing in northern Minnesota and the present census is expected yield better information on the numbers of moose present on the two major ranges.

Mishaps in State Traffic up 6,000 in 1959 over 1958

64,227 Traffic Mishaps Occurred in Minnesota Last Year, Report Shows

Traffic accidents reported to the Minnesota Highway department for 1959 jumped nearly 6,000 over the previous year, an annual summary of motor vehicle traffic accidents revealed today.

The accident records section of the department received reports from 64,227 traffic accidents which occurred in Minnesota last year. This compared to 58,344 reported during 1958. Over 160,000 separate reports were received during the year as more than two accident reports are completed for each mishap—from each of the one or more drivers involved and from the investigating traffic officer if on the scene.

While all classes of motor vehicle accidents had increased, the largest increase was that of motor vehicles in collision with another motor vehicle. During 1958 there were 47,148 reported, but during 1959 an increase of 5,235 reported collisions brought the total for last year up to 52,383.

Other types of motor vehicle accidents which increased in 1959 were:

Pedestrian	1920,	13 over '58
Railroad train	229,	24 over '58
Passenger bus	660,	102 over '58
Farm tractor	158,	4 over '58
Animal	436,	34 over '58
Fixed object	2930,	318 over '58
Ran off road	4553,	115 over '58

During the same period, motor vehicle registrations increased from 1,537,000 in 1958 to 1,579,122 last year; while motor vehicle miles driven in Minnesota increased from 13,262 millions to 13,704 millions of miles in 1959.

Dowell to Retire from University Staff Next June

A man who is a noted college administrator, student leader, farm economist and one time livestock specialist will retire in June after 38 years on the University of Minnesota staff.

He is Austin A. Dowell, director of resident instruction and assistant dean since 1952 of the College of Agriculture, Forestry and Home Economics.

In recent years, Dowell started a program for informing prospective students about St. Paul campus instruction, set up a course evaluation committee and helped coordinate an extensive building program.

He was superintendent at the University's Northwest School and Experiment station, Crookston, from 1927-37. From late 1933 until September, 1934, he was in Washington to study direct marketing of hogs for the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

In 1937, he returned to the St. Paul campus to teach and do research in agricultural economics. He co-authored two books—"The American Farmer and the Export Market," with O. B. Jesness, and "Livestock Marketing," with Knute Bjorka.

Details of the 1960 beaver and otter trapping seasons were made known today in St. Paul by James W. Kimball, state director of game and fish.

In general beaver may be trapped in that portion of the state north of a line beginning at Duluth and running northwesterly through Virginia, Grand Rapids, Cohasset, Remer, Pontoria, Backus, Park Rapids, Detroit Lakes and terminating at Moorhead from March 26, 1960 to April 30, 1960, both dates inclusive.

Otter may be trapped in this northern zone from April 16, 1960 to April 30, 1960.

South of this line beaver may be trapped from April 2, 1960 to April 24, 1960.

Otter may NOT be trapped in this southern zone.

Mille Lacs and Talcott Lake state owned game refuges and public hunting grounds are closed. The following state owned game refuges are closed: Thief Lake, Rothsay and Roseau River, and that part of Lac qui Parle posted with state "Do Not Trespass" signs.

The following wildlife management areas are closed: Klinker Marsh, Murray county, Altona Marsh, Lincoln and Pipestone counties, Danvers Marsh, Swift county, Mud Goose, Cass county; Kunkel Marsh, Mille Lacs county, Dalbo Marsh, Isanti county, and Marget Lake Marsh, Isanti county.

The Paul Bunyan statutory game refuge in Hubbard county is closed, as is the Rice Lake National Wildlife Refuge in Aitkin county.

Beaver may be trapped within the Mud Lake and Tamarac National Wildlife Refuges by permit only, issued by the refuge managers, from March 26, 1960 to April 30, 1960.

Not more than ten beaver and not more than three otter may be taken by any one licensed trapper during said seasons.

It is unlawful to set or tend any trap set for wild animals between the hours of 6 p.m. and 6 a.m.

Donald Balser, state fur specialist, reports in spite of two years of heavy harvest the beaver population has held up in most areas. The recent statewide to be down eleven per cent from last year. Those areas showing the greatest decline, namely Pine, Crow Wing and part of Cass counties, are scheduled to be closed. Other special areas are to be closed this year also where damage complaints are not serious, in order to provide additional wetland habitat for waterfowl and other game species.

Editorials . . .

"When people ask me, 'What can I do—I'm worried about the state of the world?' — I tell them to study public affairs so they can make their own decisions on the basis of knowledge, not on the basis of prejudice or pure partisanship. I tell them to take an interest in their own community affairs—that's where it all starts. Unless we live up to our own values in public service of some kind, our national freedom isn't going to mean very much at all. It's just as simple and fundamental as that."
—Lester Pearson

We Do Not Object

The Big Ten has decided against continuing the Rose Bowl football games, which means that, to this extent, the ten universities that are the Big Ten have decided to de-emphasize athletics. This would be a more significant development if the decision against the Rose Bowl games represented the unanimous judgment of all of the Big Ten schools. That was not the case however. The vote was a tie and the schedule ended only because a majority did not favor it.

We have no fault to find with the decision. We are satisfied that athletics are overemphasized in our schools to the extent that education suffers, and that is not good. We assume that education should still be the main interest of our public schools.

The Long-Range Objective

We seem to be making some progress toward a unified farm front, seeking reasonable solutions for the problems of agriculture. Farm leaders now appear to be in agreement that there are surpluses, and that is a long step forward.

One recent convert to the obvious now advocates stricter production controls even to the extent that farmers should be strait-jacketed under a system of government licenses. Some individuals and groups insist on extremes.

It is encouraging to know that we gradually are thinking straighter about the need for production controls whether they are imposed by the natural workings of a free market, by controlled production and marketing directed by the producers themselves, or by government controls. The end results probably will be about the same, the main differences being in the distribution of the cost of the controls,

We probably are approaching the time when all agricultural controls, both production and marketing, should be turned back to the producers themselves. That will have to be a gradual procedure but it would seem that should be the long range objective of any new farm program considered by congress.

Let The People Decide

We are not enthusiastic about proposed laws to protect the public from the kind of radio and television trickery that brought on the quiz show and payola scandals. Maybe present laws should be strengthened but we are satisfied that we should proceed cautiously before giving added powers to any regulatory boards.

As a result of the disclosures that have already been made, and the widespread publicity they have received, the radio and television industries are greatly concerned about the problem and it is reasonable to assume that they will take steps to do an effective job of regulating their own operations. And the organizations that direct the spending of the advertising dollars are going to be very hesitant about becoming parties to any type of program that might result in widespread public disapproval.

We of course are influenced in our thinking by our attitude toward proposals that are made from time to time to regulate the press. Newspapers traditionally oppose any and all attempts to regulate the press that may prove to be a step in the direction of censorship. This attitude has general public acceptance as being in the public interest and fundamental to the liberties we associate with our ideas of free government.

There are newspapers that abuse their freedom-of-the-press privileges, but they are the exceptions. Most newspapers maintain high standards in their news coverage, in their acceptance of advertising, and in their encouragement of reader expression on controversial matters. Those newspapers that do not maintain reasonably high standards generally are short-lived.

Actually, under our system, the public gets the kind of newspapers and radio and television programs that the public wants rather than what a board of bureaucrats thinks the public should have. In the final analysis, our decision as to whether it should be the public or a board that should do the deciding will be determined by whether or not we believe the public over a period of time, will come up with the right answers. We have confidence in the long-range wisdom of the people.

We'll Settle For Less

On any question as to what we have a right to expect from our newspapers, and other information and entertainment media, there would be much disagreement. It would not be possible to establish standards that would be acceptable to all. All of us would resent having the standards of others imposed upon us against our will, and so we tolerantly recognize the rights of others to live according to their own standards so long as they do not interfere with the reasonable rights of others.

This may not be "the best of all possible worlds" as Voltaire ridiculed it. At best it is a world of average people, some very good, some very bad, and the vast majority a combination of good and bad. These are the people we must somehow try to get along with.

If we had the responsibility of deciding in what kind of a community our grandchildren should spend the formative years of their lives, we think we would select an average community as the best place to learn how to get along in this world of average people. In that average community they would be faced with temptation and would become a part of the struggle between good and evil. They would have opportunities to observe the errors of others, and probably experience the consequences of a few errors of their own.

We would not want them to live in a community in which there were no evil, nor would we want them to live in a community in which there were no good. The average community would, we believe, provide the best background for understanding, the kind of understanding that would encourage them, as average people, to live normal, useful healthy and helpful lives. We will gladly settle for less than perfection.

And we will be glad to settle for less than perfection in passing judgment on our newspapers or those who inform and entertain us over the air. Those who provide these services for us are not perfect people.

Why Attack Us?

The administration's budget calls for a 41 billion dollar appropriation for national defense for the next fiscal year. Heads of the armed services have agreed to this figure under administration pressure but it is said that they are secretly plugging for at least two more billions for pet projects. There are few men in Congress who believe a couple of billion dollars is worth worrying about and so the appropriation probably will exceed the budget request.

A criticism of military spending by the general accounting office, made public last week, attracted little attention. Comptroller General Joseph Campbell told a congressional committee that the navy had continued placing orders for certain types of equipment "despite certain known deficiencies" that had been discovered in testing. He estimated the cost of this equipment "incapable" of satisfactory performance at $607,800,000. There was a time when the wasteful spending of nearly two-thirds of a billion dollars would have become a national scandal.

Why should Khrushchev risk an air attack that surely would bring devastating retaliation when he knows that if we just continue to follow our present course we will soon destroy ourselves.

A Balloon Deflated

The self-righteous Minneapolis Tribune, generally willing to advance a plausible excuse in defense of the conduct of any of the city's native sons serving in high places, last week spoke out with commendable clarity in criticism of two of its distinguished citizens. It had to do mainly with the efforts of Attorney General Miles Lord to get himself appointed to fill a Supreme Court vacancy, and for whom the Tribune revealed total and complete contempt. A more moderate spanking was administered to Governor Orville Freeman for not puncturing Lord's trial balloon earlier, and for not having given greater consideration to the recommendations of the bar in making past judicial appointments. Said the Tribune:

"Gov. Freeman deserves public thanks for shooting down Lord's trial balloon, but he also deserves criticism for permitting the situation to develop in the first place. If Freeman had made it clear to Lord when the vacancy occurred that the attorney general was not under consideration, the Lord-propelled boom for Lord never would have been started.

"The governor now says that he is going to consult with committees of the state bar as well as other people before the appointment is made. The governor has paid little attention to the recommendations of the bar in the past, and we hope that he will give them closer attention this time.

"But at least we are spared the appointment of Miles Lord to the state supreme court. What a travesty on justice that would have been. Fortunately, in seeking the appointment, he proved to be as inept a politician as he is an attorney general."

That is very well stated and with all of it we wholeheartedly concur. We will be greatly relieved when this era of state government will have passed. Now, whenever we pass the very imposing state capitol we instinctively look up and count the gold horses that paw nervously over the main entrance. But they still are all there.

Freeing the Slaves

(Wall Street Journal)

One might have thought that Cuba, for all its current government's anti-Americanism, liked the idea of having the U.S. pay considerably more than world prices for Cuban sugar.

Not so, says Ernesto Guevara, the extreme leftist who is head of Cuba's National Bank. In fact, he told a Cuban TV audience, this generosity enslaves the Cuban people.

Well, we have not been among those who think the U.S. should respond emotionally to all the insults emanating from Havana—such as by chopping the sugar quota merely as a device of retaliation. Yet it is true that the sugar quota is part of a nonsensical attempt to rig the market, and it would be healthy, quite apart from the Cuban mess, to junk the whole thing.

Mr. Guevara didn't go so far as to say he no longer likes the taste of the $150 million a year sugar overpayment. But if the Castro crowd now considers it such an indignity, then by all means let's free the slaves from their sweet bondage.

If you are approached by a stranger offering "Bargains"...
ASK YOURSELF THESE QUESTIONS:
1. Do I know anything about the Salesman or the Company offering "Bargains" on Roofing, Siding or Insulation?
2. Will they be in business 5 or 10 years from now, and financially able to fulfill their guarantees? How will I find them??
3. Have I checked their price on the job with my local dealer?
4. If I pay for the job on an installment basis, do I know what finance company will have my note — and what their interest rates are?
5. Do I know the brands and grade or quality of materials I am getting?
6. Am I being fair to myself and my community if I sign an order without checking with my local dealer first?

If the answer to ANY of these questions is "no"—be careful. Before you sign a contract with any unknown firm, consult the Lampert Lumber Company — in business in the Northwest for 65 years.

Put "Gold" in Your Pocket With Gold Star C.B.C. Breeding

No amount of feed will make a cow produce past her inherited ability. That's why the service of an outstanding sire like "G 220 Alexis" gives you calves that put money in your pocket.

Look at this record. Alexis, his sire, and his dam, all have received the coveted Guernsey Gold Star award. What's more, thirteen "Alexis" daughters averaged 501 pounds of butterfat . . . further proving his ability to transmit money-making characteristics to his daughters . . . your calves.

And "Alexis" isn't the only CBC sire of the famous "Boulder Bridge" line. Other CBC sires also carry "Boulder Bridge" breeding. Call your CBC technician. He'll show you how to line bred profitably . . . and he'll help you pick a sire that's best for your herd.

Vehicle Safety Check Lanes Are Scheduled in Many Cities in '60

Voluntary vehicle safety check lanes have been scheduled in 14 Minnesota communities as part of a state-wide accident prevention program planned for the month of May. These communities are the first to report their plans, and it is expected that at least fifty additional cities will be enrolled in the plan.

Harry A. Sieben, state highway safety director, reported that this was the largest response during the first week of the planning period in the history of the voluntary program in Minnesota. During 1959, a total of 37 communities, one county and three military bases conducted the safety lanes.

Sieben, who was named state coordinator of the program, said that mayors of 94 Minnesota communities had been invited by Governor Orville L. Freeman to join in the nation-wide safety program. For the next six weeks, representatives of the Minnesota Safety Council will visit the communities to assist in the planning for the vehicle check lanes. Sieben also said that Kenneth H. Porter, Detroit, Michigan, has been loaned by the Chrysler Corporation to assist local communities in Wisconsin and Minnesota in preparing safety lanes. While here Porter will represent one of the national sponsors, the Auto Industry Highway Safety Committee and a state sponsor, the Minnesota Automobile Dealers association.

Lyle S McCabe, Virginia auto dealer recently named chairman of the state safety program, announced the following communities have been enrolled in the program to date: Redwood Falls, Cloquet, Grand Rapids, Ely, International Falls, Chisholm, St Cloud, Alexandria, Austin, Glencoe, Albert Lea, Coon Rapids, Owatonna, and Litchfield. In addition, Fillmore county in the southeastern corner of the state will have a county program according to Neil S. Haugerud, Fillmore county sheriff. Two safety lanes will be conducted by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of St. Paul at shopping centers in that city.

McCabe pointed out that one out of four cars inspected in these safety lanes is found to be below safe operating standards in one or more areas. He urged everyone to join in the "Circle of Safety—to check his car, check his driving, and check accidents."

Bird Observers Have State Group

Ornithologists' Union Publishes Own Magazine

Since the recent news release on bird watching—how to equip oneself for the pastime, and how to go about identifying birds—an avalanche of inquiries has been flooding the department of conservation's bureau of information.

An organization in this state for just such bird enthusiasts, whether photographers, banders, or just plain watchers, is the Minnesota Ornithologists' Union, whose address is the Museum of Natural History, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis. Members go on bird expeditions during the migration season, take bird counts at various times, and annually make a North Shore field trip.

An invaluable source of information for the bird watcher, both amateur and experienced is "The Flicker," the magazine published quarterly by the Ornithologists' Union, in March, June, September and December. Membership ($3 per year) entitles one to the magazine. Articles on birds in the publication are written by experts from the University of Minnesota Museum of Natural History and other well informed writers. Each issue is illustrated with exceptionally fine photographs.

State Dental Assn. Urges Teeth Care

Points out Objectives of Preventive Dentistry

The Minnesota State Dental association is out to destroy what it describes as the old-fashioned concept of the dentist as a "puller and patcher" of aching teeth.

Today's dentist practices preventive dentistry, according to Dr. Carl V. E. Cassel, association secretary.

"He would much rather save teeth than extract them. And, more than ever before, he functions as a dental health educator."

However, the dentist cannot do this without the cooperation of his patients, Cassel explained.

"Too many laymen still view the dentist as someone to visit only as a last resort when a toothache becomes unbearable.

"Yet, the sad fact is that when teeth or gums begin to pain, it is, sometimes too, late to save the affected teeth. The dental profession must somehow convince the lay public that tooth decay and gum diseases can be largely prevented."

Prevention of dental diseases, according to Dr. Cassel, requires constant vigilance, both by the dentist and the individual.

"The person who avoids the dental office over a long period of time is wasting his health and his money.

"Sooner or later, he is either bound to lose some teeth, or he will require large scale and expensive dental treatment caused by delay. Both can be easily prevented by regular dental check-ups and by following the dentist's advice about home dental care to the letter," Dr. Cassel declared.

Carole Ewing on Hamline Band Tour

Carole Ewing, daughter of Dr and Mrs. J. Weir Ewing, Thief River Falls, a member of the Hamline university band, will tour with the 31 piece concert group. The band, under the direction of Mr Roy Johnson, will be on tour March 14 through 16 presenting concerts in five Minnesota towns.

Everybody likes to see his or her name in print, provided nice things are said.

Rules Announced for Butter Cookie Event

It's Butter Cookie Contest time again in the Northwest.

For the eighth year adult and junior homemakers of Minnesota and neighboring states are invited to enter batches of their favorite cookies in a contest which has no losers.

Sponsored by the Minnesota Dairy Industry Committee and the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' Association, the contest is conducted in three divisions—plain, fancy and junior. Entries of wives of dairy industry personnel are judged in separate competition.

Entries mailed to Butter Cookie Contest, Como Station, St. Paul 8, will be accepted during the week beginning March 28 with the final deadline at noon, April 2. Entries will be judged April 4 and winners will be announced on Palm Sunday.

Identical prizes will be awarded to the first three winners in the "plain" and "fancy" adult competition. Portable television sets will be first prize awards, Hamilton-Beach chrome mixers second prizes and electric knife and scissors sharpeners will go for third place.

Junior division prizes will be a 21-jewel wrist watch, a portable four-speed record player and a clock radio.

A special "Princess Kay of the Milky Way" award, determined by a drawing from all names of contestants, will be a Samsonite card table and four matching chairs.

Everyone entering the contest will receive an attractive gift.

As in past years however the biggest winners will be the crippled children and other shut in patients in various institutions who will receive the cookies as a pre-Easter treat.

Hundreds of homemakers send entries each year with little thought of the prizes according to MDIC manager Lew Conlon. "We've had many wonderful letters and calls from women who say they just like to provide a treat for the children and shut in patients who get the cookies."

Contest rules are similar to previous years. Entries must be clearly designated for "plain" or "fancy" competition among adults and in the junior class contestants should include their ages.

All entries must be accompanied by the recipe used.

Each entry must include a minimum of 18 cookies.

Any cookie recipe which uses butter as a primary ingredient may be used. Recipes need not be original.

January Traffic Down 11 Per Cent

Normal Decline Noted from December, 1959

Traffic on Minnesota highways in January dropped 11 per cent under the December count, the Minnesota highway department reported.

The decrease, normal for winter months, was noted particularly in the southern portion of the state with drops of 15 per cent on T. H. 52 at Rochester, 13 per cent on Interstate highway 35 at Owatonna, and 12 per cent on T. H. 169 near Chaska.

A survey of the 27 automatic traffic counters throughout the state showed a slight increase for January over the same month of 1959. Heavy grain traffic to the Port of Duluth continued to account for increases up to 20 per cent on T. H. 2 west of Bagley.

Other slight gains, however, were offset by drops in the traffic count on routes normally used by winter fishermen. Heavy thawing conditions and poor fishing it is believed accounted for a decrease of 14 per cent in traffic on T. H. 169 south of Mille Lacs Lake near Onamia.

NOW! THE TIRE THAT DOESN'T GET TIRED
1. Too much flexing wears out people...and tires!
2. The new "Low Profile" tire shape flexes less, reduces heat build-up, increases mileage!
Do a few quick, deep knee bends—and what happens? You heat up fast, soon feel real strain! Ordinary tires do 700 "deep knee bends" per mile . . . a flexing action that builds up heat, weakens rubber and fabric, increases blowout danger.
Now U.S. Royal drastically reduces the danger of tire failure with a revolutionary new tire—"Low Profile." These tires are lower, wider—flex less, run cooler, wear better.
Our stock is complete . . . all sizes available. And best of all, our prices for THE TIRE THAT DOESN'T GET TIRED will surprise you!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Day	Book	Chapter	Verses
Sunday	I Corinthians	6	19-20
Monday	Romans	12	3-8
Tuesday	Luke	12	22-[illegible]
Wednesday	Psalms	77	11-15
Thursday	Ecclesiastes	3	11-15
Friday	Mark	4	14-25
Saturday	I Corinthians	16	1-2, 13-14

It's a good idea to have a check up every so often. And the idea ought to be extended to our spiritual as well as our physical health.

For instance, how much are we thinking about the truths our churches teach us? Do we understand God . . . His love for men . . . the sacrifice of Christ for our sins . . . the way of Christian living?

And how much are we doing for God and our own souls? Are we worshipping every Sunday . . . rearing our children in the Faith . . . serving the Church and fellowmen according to our talents and physical strength?

And how much are we giving for God to use? Do we promise Him a fair proportion of our income . . . do we set it aside regularly as a sum that belongs to God and to those who need our help . . . do we have the courage and faith to strengthen our Church by more generous support?

Local Girl One of 2 Victims of Car Mishap

Rosemarie Matthew and Argyle Youth Killed Near Kennedy

A head-on crash four miles north of Kennedy on highway 75 at 11:15 p.m. Friday resulted in the deaths of two high school students returning from a basketball tournament at Hallock.

Killed in the car-truck collision were Roger St. Germain, 18, a senior at Argyle high school and driver of the car, and Rosemarie Matthew, 17, a Thief River Falls girl attending Kennedy high school

The truck driver, Eldon A. Hoffman, 29, Wilmont, Minn., was badly cut in the crash, according to authorities. Oscar F. Pearson, Kittson county sheriff, said the cause of the crash is a mystery. The road was straight and dry and there was no evidence either driver had been drinking.

Roger had borrowed a car belonging to a friend, Roscoe Dahl, to make the ill-fated drive to Kennedy. A chart-keeper for the Argyle team, he was also a 'B' honor roll student and a member of the Argyle football team last fall. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John St. Germain, and six brothers and sisters.

Rosemarie lived with her aunt, Mrs. Marvin Hallberg, in Kennedy where she helped care for the Hallberg children.

Funeral services for Miss Matthews will be held Wednesday, March 16, at 2 p.m. at Community Methodist church, with Rev. Henry Friedman officiating. Interment will be in Greenwood cemetery. Green funeral home is in charge of arrangements.

Rosemarie was born in London, England, Jan. 1, 1943, and came to America with her parents at the age of three. They settled a Humboldt, Minn., where they lived one year. In September, 1947, the family moved to Thief River Falls where she has since resided.

She attended grade school and Lincoln high school in Thief River Falls and was presently attending high school at Kennedy.

Surviving are her parents; one sister, Helen; and two brothers, Barry and Warren David, both at home; her grandmother, Mrs. Emmons Matthew, of Humboldt; grandfather, Stephen Hooker of England; two uncles and one aunt in England.

Formation of Farm Management Assn. to Be Discussed Mar. 15

Area farmers interested in organizing a farm management association to serve Pennington, Red Lake and Marshall counties are invited to share in a discussion of the proposal at a meeting at the court house in Thief River Falls Tuesday evening, March 15, at 8 o'clock, County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk stated today.

The association would engage a fieldman, who would provide technical assistance in dealing with the complicated problems that face farmers today. State funds would be available at the start to pay about half the cost of the fieldman's services.

State extension staff members and farmers from Waseca, Minn., where a similar association has been in successful operation the past six years will describe the operation and benefits of such an agency.

The fieldman would make a detailed study of each member's farm and then would make recommendations as to the proper number of milk cows, feeder cattle or hogs, and also on grain crops. He would also study buildings and machinery, and offer advice on financing.

Grygla Church Opens Drive for Garments for Victims of Blaze

A fire which started about noon Thursday completely destroyed the rented home of Mr and Mrs Vernon Brateng and their five children in Grygla.

Mrs Brateng, who was hanging out the wash at the time, noticed smoke coming from the upper portion of the house and ran to a neighboring home and had them notify the fire department. She then brought to safety her five children, Sharon, 7 years, David, 5, Sheila, 4; Debra, 3; and the baby Julie, 1 year old. Shortly after that the home burst into flames. Mr Brateng was not home at the time.

Fire Chief Oliver Byklum said that the fire spread so rapidly that the firemen could only keep burning embers from igniting nearby buildings. The building and contents were completely destroyed in about 30 minutes Cause of the fire had not been determined, but was believed to have been started by either a faulty chimney or defective wiring in the attic

With the exception of a few items of clothing drying on the clothes line, the family lost all of their household furnishings and personal belongings including Mr Brateng's carpenter tools The family did not have any insurance

The family is making its home temporarily with Mr Brateng's parents, Mr and Mrs John Brateng, who have a farm two miles west of Grygla

Thief River Falls Girl Is Victim of Knifing Incident

Derryl Peterson Faces Charges after Attack Sunday on Janet DeLap

A Thief River Falls man has been charged with second-degree assault with intent to do bodily harm as a result of a knifing incident that occurred Sunday morning at a Norden township farm following an all-night beer party at the farm.

Janet DeLap, 18, city, was hospitalized here with cuts on both sides of her lower face after she was attacked by Derryl L. Peterson, 24, city, with a paring knife about 8 a.m. Sunday.

Sheriff Charles Richards said the attack was unprovoked and that it was probably caused by an emotional disturbance on Peterson's part. He and the girl were barely acquaintances and were at the same party through coincidence, Richards said.

Following the attack on the girl, Peterson attempted suicide, unsuccessfully, by cutting himself in the neck, narrowly missing the jugular vein. He was jailed here after the incident. If convicted of the charge against him he could be sentenced to up to five years in prison, according to Richards.

Investigation of the affair is continuing, Richards said. He added that several other persons involved in the party will be charged as a result of the incident bringing the party to light.

New ASC Rules in Effect on Growing Wheat Mixtures

Land on Which Mixtures Are Grown Classified as Wheat Acreage: Culkins

The regulations pertaining to wheat acreage allotments and marketing quotas have been changed with respect to wheat mixtures, according to Patrick W Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office. The new regulations no longer provide for wheat mixture exemption counties for the 1960 and subsequent crops of wheat.

Therefore, beginning with the 1960 crop of wheat, any mixture of wheat and other grains which contain, when harvested, enough wheat by weight to cause the grain to be graded as "mixed grain" under the Official Grain Standards of the United States will be classified as wheat acreage.

For example: if a harvested acreage of oats contains more than 25 per cent of wheat by weight, a harvested acreage of barley contains more than 25 per cent of wheat by weight or a harvested acreage of rye contains more than 10 per cent of wheat by weight, such acreage will be classified as wheat acreage.

Any producer intending to plant a mixture of wheat and other small grains for harvest as a mixture acreage for 1960 will be affected by this revision.

School Board Votes Faculty Pay Increases

Action Deferred on Requested Boosts for Other Employes

At a regular meeting of the school board of the Thief River Falls district, held at the superintendent's office Saturday afternoon, an across the board salary increase was offered to teachers. The proposed schedule would raise the minimum for teachers with two years of training from $3,000 to $3,125, and the maximum from $4,000 to $4,125.

There would be increases in all other brackets up to the level of teachers with five years of training where the minimum would be increased from $4,080 to $4,250 and the maximum increased from $6,050 to $6,250. The total cost of these increases to the district is not available at this time.

No action was taken on the request for pay increases for other school employes, including bus drivers, represented by the Municipal Drivers, Helpers and Public Employes Union. In a letter addressed to the board by Earl A. Arneson, secretary-treasurer, they had requested pay increases, longer vacations, job security, and other fringe benefits, and also payroll deduction for union dues. Mr. Mickelson was instructed to meet with the union representatives and report back to the board at a later meeting.

The board voted to discontinue the teacher's training department at the end of this school year on the strength of a statement made by T. C. Engum, of the state department of education, that money had not been appropriated by the legislature for such a training program for the year 1960-61.

Several resignations were accepted, including those of Beatrice Adams, Grade 2; Barbara Paulson, Grade 2; Barbara Kegg, home economics; Marilyn McGinley, business education, vocational school, and Gladys Barron, girls' physical education.

A five-year library expansion program was approved, increasing the number of books from the present 5,000 to the minimum state standards requirement of 10,000. A library budget of $4,200, including $3,000 for books, was approved for the coming year.

It was decided that a private auditing form would be hired to audit the books and records of the district. For many years this service has been provided by the Children Have Good Time at Lions Club Affair in Municipal Auditorium

Between 400 and 500 area youngsters of fourth grade age or younger turned out Friday night for the annual Kiddies Carnival sponsored by the Lions club in the city Auditorium.

With two tickets for the price of one, everyone took advantage of the various games and stands and no child was without his collection of noisemakers, balloons and other carnival winnings. Faces were liberally bedaubed from visits to the "beauty parlor" and the parents tagged along as every child made the rounds of the many attractions.

Chairmen of the committees which operated the stands were: Gordon Reierson, tip the bottle; Jack Forkenbrock, throw the sponge; Jim Geisen, fish pond; Sig Quam, candy stand; Dr. W. P. Kaisler, pin the tail on the donkey; Ben Frolland, balloon stand; beauty parlor, Neal Fox; Stan Pladson, country store and George Hale and Fred Mittelstadt were the clowns.

Construction and decorating were done by a committee headed by Wendell Olson; J. J. Wemack was in charge of the purchasing committee; Ralph Lohman's committee was in charge of ticket sales and publicity was handled by Ormond Johnson and N. A. Holen. General chairman of the event was Clarence Mattson.

BUSINESS at the Country store was booming all evening at the Lions club annual Kiddies Carnival Friday night, March 12, and Storekeepers William Frolland and Dr. O D Beich were kept busy by the hundreds of youngsters seeking the small treasures which make any carnival a success. By the evening's end, the ceiling of the city Auditorium was covered with helium-filled balloons, the floor was littered by confection wrappers and broken favors and the children were tired but happy with the memory of another successful carnival.

Silo Worker Killed Near Crookston

William Garf of Buffalo, Minn., Is Asphyxiated

A trouble shooter for a silo distributing firm died of asphyxiation near Crookston Wednesday when he was overcome and toppled backwards into the silo he had come to repair.

The victim was William L. Garf, 33, Buffalo, Minn., employed by The Midwest Co., St. Paul.

Garf came to the Urban Ewing farm, 13 miles south of Crookston, to see why the airtight silo had not been working properly. The silage produces carbon dioxide gas in the process of fermentation.

Garf climbed into the silo from an opening at the top. He started to come out again when he apparently lost consciousness. Garf fell into the silage 25 feet below.

A Crookston fireman wearing an oxygen mask went down and looped a rope around Garf to remove the man from the silo. It took an hour to get him out.

Witnesses said they had warned Garf about entering the silo.

1958-crop Oats to Be Included in Reseal Program

Congressman Langen Says U. S. Department Approved His Request

Congressman Odin Langen was notified by the Department of Agriculture late last week that, upon his recommendation, they had reconsidered their earlier reseal program announcement and decided to include 1958 crop oats. Langen had urged in conferences with department officials that both 1958 crop oats and barley be included, but the program as earlier announced had made provision for the barley only.

The program as it now stands will permit farmers in certain areas to keep farm stored 1959 crop corn, wheat, barley, and grain sorghums under price support loans for another year following maturity dates of original loans in 1960, and in addition, price support reseal loans already in effect on 1958 and 1957 crop corn and wheat, 1958 crop grain sorghums, barley, and oats, and 1956 crop corn are being extended for another year.

Langen urged that farmers who desire to participate in this program should make application at once to their county ASC office. He expressed pleasure that 1958 crop oats had been added, stating that of the 29.9 million bushels now under reseal, 9.6 million bushels are in Minnesota, 5.8 million bushels in North Dakota, 10.4 million bushels in South Dakota, and 1.9 million bushels in Iowa.

Chamber Board vs. the Forand Bill

Goes on Record Against Proposed Health Bill

The board of directors of the TRF Chamber of Commerce last week adopted a resolution opposing the enactment by Congress of the Forand bill designed to provide medical and hospital services for recipients of social security.

In taking a position on the issue, the board stated it realizes that a problem exists in the nation in providing for care of the aged. It stated further that the board does not wish to be associated with those persons who ignore the problem, but that it would rather see it solved on a local and community basis.

Among objections to the bill cited by the board are that it would not allow free choice of doctor or hospital by the proposed recipient; and would increase social security payments to more than ten per cent of income within ten years. Private insurance companies, said the board, currently cover half of the proposed recipients and will cover an estimated 90 per cent by 1970.

Former Manager of Bemidji Liquor Store Faces Trial

Harry M. Grindall, former manager of the Bemidji liquor store, was held to district court Thursday after waiving preliminary examination on a charge of misusing public funds.

Grindall was charged with failing to account for $600 in a complaint issued by John Cahill, Beltrami county sheriff. The manager was suspended Oct. 28 by James Deneen, city manager, and recently resigned the liquor store berth he had held since 1953.

The city has inaugurated a civil suit for $7,000 against Grindall, alleging that amount was shown missing by a recent audit. Agents of the state public examiner are scheduled to resume a check of the liquor store books during Grindall's regime on April 15.

Reduced Potato Acreage Urged by Agriculture Dept.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture recommends a seven per cent cut in aggregate acreage of summer and fall potatoes in 1960 below 1959 planted acres, according to word received at the Marshall county ASC office. The recommendations call for a seven per cent reduction in early summer acreage, a three per cent reduction in late summer acreage and a seven per cent cut in fall acreage.

In announcing the 1960 summer and fall potato guides, Secretary of Agriculture Benson said that surplus removal assistance to potato producers in any state or area will depend upon compliance with the 1960 potato acreage guide. Growers are marketing 1959 crop potatoes without governmental diversion assistance.

Small Chance Seen for Postage Hike

President Asks 5-cent Rate for 1st Class Mail

President Eisenhower Friday sent an urgent special message to Congress calling for an increase in first class mail rate to 5 cents an ounce as part of a 500 million dollar postal rate boost.

Air mail rates would rise from 7 to 8 cents an ounce and post cards from 3 to 4 cents under legislation to be submitted soon by Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield.

Second class mail, mostly newspapers and magazines, would take a 40 per cent boost in rates, and rates on third class mail, mostly advertising matter and small packages, would go up an average of 25 per cent.

The President said it is imperative that Congress act to put the Post Office on a self supporting basis by wiping out deficits which he said have increased astronomically since World War II.

The postal rate increase has been counted into Eisenhower's budget request for the fiscal year 1961, starting next July 1, and failure of Congress to act would reduce the budget's estimated $4,200,000,000 surplus.

Congressional sources have indicated however, that the legislation has little chance of enactment in this election year. First class rates rose from 3 cents an ounce to 4 cents last year.

Ada Man Is Named Outstanding Young Farmer of State

Herman Natwick, Large Scale Turkey Producer, Named by State Jaycees

Herman Natwick, who started farming by swapping a calf for 325 turkeys and expanding the flock to 7,000 birds annually, was named Minnesota's Outstanding Young Farmer at New Ulm Saturday.

The Minnesota Junior Chamber of Commerce honored Natwick, 33, of Ada, for his achievements in 15 years of farming and his community service.

Receiving runner-up honors were Clarence Purfeerst, 31, Faribault; and Allen D. Johnson, 35, Blooming Prairie, both hog and cattle feeders. Jerry Doran, Duluth, state Jaycee president, and Charles Stubbs, Benson, agriculture chairman, made the awards.

Natwick also feeds 280 head of cattle and 2,000 lambs a year. He uses bulk feed handling, field chopping of forages, and effective soil conservation tehniques in management of his 430 acres. His net worth increased 10 fold in the past 15 years.

Purfeerst, a Jaycee national director, survived a $30,000 fire, loss of 80 per cent of his corn in a hail storm, and swine efysipelas in his 11-year farming career.

Judges who selected the outstanding young farmers were Harold Peterson, University of Minnesota marketing specialist; Herbert Fluck, state soil conservationist; and Wyn Forsberg, New Ulm farm manager.

There were candidates from 26 farming centers in the contest.

PLUMMER FU LOCAL TO MEET TUESDAY NIGHT

A program, followed by lunch, has been arranged for a meeting of the Plummer local of the Farmers Union to be held in the Plummer Hall Tuesday evening March 15, at 8 o'clock.

FU Shipping Assn. Met Last Friday

Four Members Elected to Board of Directors

The annual meeting of the Northern Minnesota Farmers Union Shipping Association was held Friday in the American Legion Hall, president Odin Hanson presiding. Secretary Lloyd Nelson reported on the activities of the year. All of the net earnings for the year are being paid out in dividends, he stated, and approximately 900 patrons will receive dividend checks.

County Agent Paul Stelmaschuk talked on the "averages" of Pennington county farms and the importance in this area of livestock. Glenn Long, manager of the Farmers Union Marketing Association, was the main speaker and discussed problems and conditions relative to the livestock marketing business, the factors that have contributed to the development of the vastly improved terminal markets we have today, and some of the needs for further improvement.

Three members of the board were reelected, including Lloyd Nelson, and Bernard Myers of Thief River Falls, and Arne Samuelson of Viking. One new member was elected, Vernon Erickson of Badger. The program was brightened by songs by Charlene Nordby, who provided her own accordion accompaniment.

FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS — By C. D. Smith

Should Every Teenager Be A Car Owner?

THIS WEEK'S LETTER: "I am old enough to get a license. I've saved enough money to buy myself the jalopy I want. But my folks won't allow me to have a car. Is this fair?"

OUR ANSWER: There are many factors that must be considered. In this writer's experience, mention of two particular teenage problems will provoke a spirited discussion almost anywhere. One is teenage dating; the other—teenagers and automobiles.

The principal argument of those opposed to teenagers having their own cars is based upon the belief that they aren't responsible enough. They drive too fast, they drag race; and they get into a lot more trouble than teenagers who have to walk or ride public transportation. Some of these arguments are good ones. Most teenagers drive too fast; far too many of them think it "chicken" to turn down a drag race dare; with a car to provide a quick way to get there and to get back, teenagers go places where they shouldn't go and do things they wouldn't do in their own back yard.

It must be remembered, however, that these are generalities. All teenagers do not fall into the categories above. Some of them are "responsible"—much more so than many adults. Many of them are expert and careful drivers.

And so it is that the question of a teenager having his or her own car must be decided on individual circumstances. There are several important considerations: Can the teenager, or his parents, afford to buy the car? All things evaluated, including initial cost, insurance and operating expenses, a teenager can spend in one year on a car almost as much, or more, than it would cost him to go to college for a year. If a teenager has the money to buy his own car, does he have resources or income to keep it operating—to buy gas and pay for repairs that will be made from time to time? Will a teenager use his car wisely, and not at the expense of scholastic activities?

Like shaving or smoking a cigarette, some teenagers look upon car ownership as a sign of adulthood . . . or a symbol of freedom from adult authority. While this is a wrong attitude, we must admit that car ownership among the teens should be restricted to young adults only—no children allowed. And when we say this, we aren't speaking of chronological age. We know some fifty-year-olds who act like children behind the wheel of an automobile.

If you have a teenage problem you want to discuss, or an observation to make, address your letter to FOR AND ABOUT TEENAGERS, NATIONAL WEEKLY NEWSPAPER SERVICE, FRANKFORT, KY.

The first junior high school wrestling tournament was held here on Thursday and Friday in the Lincoln high school gymnasium. Sixty-eight boys participated in the tourney.

One of the most exciting matches of the tournament proved to be the heavyweight championship finals duel between Brian Lofberg (a freshman) and Ellsworth Senum (an eighth grader). Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Number Eighteen

When coach Hartley Story's basketball Prowlers defeated the Crookston Pirates, 47-38, on Wednesday night, it marked the 18th time in the 48 years of district competition that the locals had won the district cage honors.

The first district trophy that was won by the Prowlers was 'way back in 1916 when a team, coached by Al Johnson, and having such legendary athletes as Roy Brown, Al Holzknecht, Carl Hovie, Willis Fasel, Harold Schmitt, Coleman Linde, and Chuck Conner in the lineup, defeated Red Lake Falls, 88-11, for the title.

In those days, the state basketball tournament was played on the Carleton college court in Northfield, and in a first round game, the Prowlers dropped a 27-25 decision to Fergus Falls.

That the 1916 Prowlers were a high-scoring club, for the brand of basketball played in those days, can be judged by a perusal of the scores of their 13-game schedule, during which they won 11 and lost two: 52-4, Erskine; 56-15, Stephen; 29-15, Ada; 23-37, McIntosh; 3-16, Warren; 28-10, Crookston; 21-13, McIntosh, 19-17, Fosston; 54-5, Crookston; 11-9, Fosston; 88-11, Red Lake Falls; and Fergus Falls, 25-27.

Of these Prowler district-winning teams, the 1916, the 1932, the 1937, '38, and '39 squads went on to participate in the state tournament. And it's not being too optimistic to give the 1960 Prowlers a chance at winning this week's regional tournament and gaining a cherished berth in the state tournament.

Ada's Problem

The Bemidji Lumberjacks, for the eighth year in a row, will be representing District 29 in the Region Eight basketball tourney on Thursday and Friday. Coach Bun Fortier's club, by a 54-43 score, defeated a well-regarded Park Rapids team in the district finals at Bemidji on Saturday night.

So it will be up to the big and burly Ada Vikings to stop the Lumberjacks in a first round game at Grand Forks Thursday night. And to beat Bemidji, Ada will have to stop the Lumberjacks' "problem child," Bob Glas. For the past couple of years the nifty southpaw has posed a problem for the basketball coaches in this area. On Saturday night, Glas dropped in ten field goals and nine free throws for 29 points against Park Rapids. Glas, an all-state tournament selection last season, is the spark plug, the automatic shift, the four or five-cylinders, and transmission of the Bemidji basketball machine. He'll be Ada's "problem" on Thursday night, and Thief River Falls' or Argyle's on Friday night.

Winning Friends

The Earl Grey community club Bantam hockey team of Winnipeg was here on Saturday for a game against the Eagles' Bantams on the Arena rink. The visitors, playing a fine brand of hockey, scored a 4 to 2 win over the local Bantams.

Following the game, the members of the two teams, their coaches and followers, were guests of the locals Eagles aerie at a banquet held at the Eagles club rooms. The boys all reported a fine time, and it was a gesture of international good will that gained friends for the locals.

Miscellany

That was quite a hassle that concluded the Minnesota-Ontario hockey league playoffs at Warroad last week. The Warroad Lakers and the Fort Frances Canadians were engaged in a series for the playoff title, and were due to play in Warroad in a game that could have decided the series. With a goodly crowd of fans in attendance, and the game ready to start, coach Frank (Ike) Eisenzoph refused to allow his Fort Frances team to skate on the ice. Eisenzoph based his refusal to play on the fact that the Warroad Lakers had Gerry Wilson in their lineup. The previous week Wilson had played several games with the Minneapolis Millers of the International hockey league, a professional league. Eisenzoph maintained that Wilson was a bona fide professional. The Lakers agreed to leave Wilson off the Warroad lineup providing that Eisenzoph, who had been fined and suspended for attacking a referee in an earlier playoff game, would be omitted from the Fort Frances lineup. No agreement was reached, and the game was declared a forfeit to the Lakers. . . . Tommy Williams of Duluth, a member of the United States Olympic-winning hockey team, will be playing hockey with the Fort Williams Hurricanes. The Hurricanes, winners of the junior hockey title in the Thunder Bay district, will be meeting the winners of the Brandon Wheat Kings vs. Winnipeg Rangers series in a Manitoba-Thunder Bay final. Williams was signed to a Fort William junior hockey contract last month. Williams had been slated for a tryout with the Winnipeg Warriors in the professional Western league, but he apparently changed his mind and decided to remain with amateur hockey. Tom is probably making plans to attend the 1964 Olympics.

Northrop Indians Hockey Six Wins Campbell Trophy

The Northrop Indians ended a 23 year hockey championship drought on Sunday afternoon when, in the finals of the grade school hockey tournament, coach Del Ray Offerdahl's green clad Indians defeated the Knox Tigers 2-0 to win the Alex Campbell trophy. It marked the first grade school hockey championship for the Northrop team since 1937.

In the championship tilt, Northrop's all-round star, John Olson, racked up the first goal when he intercepted a clearing pass deep in the Knox zone, skated in front of the Tigers' net and beat goalie Dwight with a backhand shot from ten feet out, the puck coming to rest in the mesh of the south goal at the 1:34 mark of the first period.

The Indians, midway in the third period, marked up an "insurance" goal when defenseman David Wegge, after a rink-length solo rush up the west side of the rink, swept in front of the south goal and notched a tally from close in. Wegge's goal came at the 5:54 mark of the period.

In grade school hockey tournament first-round games Thursday night, the Knox Tigers and Northrop Indians scored victories. Knox, with Steve Nabben scoring one goal and Bill (Ducky) Dicken adding a pair, defeated the St. Bernard's Broncos, 3-1. The Broncos, the leaders during the season's play, gained an early lead when Bobby Sullivan, with Chuck Bedard assisting, scored midway in the first period. Knox evened the score in the second period on Nabben's tally, with Dicken assisting. And in the third period, Dicken, the possessor of a booming shot, scored twice.

In the night-cap on Thursday, Northrop fashioned a convincing 4-1 win over the Washington Wildcats. Washington, on a goal by Wayne Smith, following a solo rush, held an early lead; but the Indians, with the John Olson and Tom Stromberg combination setting up the play, evened the game 1-all. In the second period, goals by Dave Stromberg and Merle Sampson boosted Northrop into a 3-1 lead; and in the final stanza, Dave Stromberg marked up his second goal of the game to give the Indians their 4-1 win.

In Midget class hockey competition, the Bruins, with Don Mathieu scoring a goal in the opening minute of the overtime period, defeated the Black Hawks, with John Hellquist and John Weigelt each connecting for a three-goal "hat trick" defeated the Ranger, 7-4.

In flyweight hockey, with players from the first, second, and third grades participating, the Jets, by a 1-0 score, defeated the Rockets.

At the conclusion of Sunday afternoon's activities, hockey championship plaques were awarded to the Bruins and the Jets, and the Alex Campbell trophy was awarded to Northrop. Clair Larson, the chef de gare of the local 40&8, and Harold Johnson, Ninth District commander of the American Legion presented the Campbell trophy to co-captains John Olson and Keith Hendrickson of the Northrop team.

Farm Home Mishaps Increase During '59

Farm work may be becoming less hazardous but the same can't be said for farm homes.

Of 156 total farm and home accident deaths in 1959, 41 resulted from farm work mishaps and 115 were classed as farm home accidents.

Glenn Prickett, extension farm safety specialist at the University of Minnesota, bases these figures on preliminary reports from the Minnesota Department of Health.

Of the two types of farm accident fatalities, the first has been going down steadily but the second is heading up.

Farm work accident deaths have declined from 95 in 1948, 57 in 1955 and 71 in 1950. Farm home fatalities, though, have gone up from 111 in 1948, 81 in 1955 and 107 in 1958.

Prickett says the downward trend in farm work deaths could reflect the decline in farm population. But still more farm machinery is in use than ever. So safer machinery and safe use of it could be playing an important — and encouraging part.

But with fewer farm people why have farm home accidents gone up? Prickett says age could have something to do with it. There are more older people on farms now and many of the home accident fatalities are falls involving elderly individuals. Also some accidents involving tools and other things not in home work are classified as home accident figures. However, Prickett says far too many home accidents still happen, and careless practices — which could easily be corrected.

Of the 156 farm accident deaths, 115 involved men or boys and only 40 were women or girls. Machinery and equipment accounted for 37 of both farm work and farm home accidents. Falls—involving many older people—accounted for 31 fatalities.

Other major accidental death categories were suffocation or strangulation (mostly infants), 15, guns, 13, and drowning, 5.

Victor Edman, Head of Minnkota Co-op, Honored Tonight

Alvarado Man Has Been President of Electric Co-op for Past 20 Years

A pioneer in rural electrification in the Red River Valley, Victor M. Edman of Alvarado will be honored at a recognition day dinner at Grand Forks this evening, Monday, the climax of the annual meeting of Minnkota Power Cooperative, Inc.

Mr. Edman has presided over Minnkota's board of directors for 20 years as well as heading PKM Electric Cooperative, Inc. with headquarters in Warren for a similar length of time. The meeting and dinner will be held in the city armory auditorium in Grand Forks.

Minnkota's electricity users, who numbered only a few thousand in the beginning now total more than 30,000. Its electric lines, powered in earlier days by three diesel engines, with an occasion "assist" from the North Dakota Mill and Elevator's power plant, now are joined in a vast circle with the lines of Northern States and Otter Tail Power companies and current from the huge federal dam at Garrison, N. D.

Mr. Edman has been affiliated with the REA development in the Valley since Minnkota was conceived.

A talk is scheduled at the dinner by Roy Zook, deputy administrator for the Rural Electrification Administration in Washington, D. C., and a number of REA officials, co-workers and friends who have known Mr. Edman.

Roseau to Receive $88,000 in Federal Funds for Airport

Construction of New Airport Three Miles East of Village Planned

Federal aid airport funds totaling $88,000 have been allocated for the Roseau municipal airport, it was learned last week in letters from Representative Odin Langen and from Federal Aviation Agency Chief Clyde W. Pace, Jr., to Minnesota Commissioner Dale Melver. The funds become available July 1, 1960, and are to be matched by local and state funds.

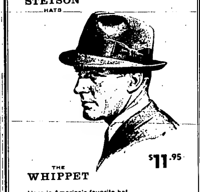
News of the allocation spurred the village council into immediate action whereby it set in motion plans to deal with land problems, engineering procedures and the legal steps necessary to clear the decks for actual construction. It is expected that such construction can begin this year.

In addition to the $88,000 provided by the federal agreement, the state of Minnesota contributes funds to the project as does the village of Roseau which voted $55,000 bond issue last fall for this purpose. At present the village share is estimated at about $12,000.

The field will be constructed three miles east of Roseau with a hangar and small administration building included. It will make possible the use of airline type aircraft by those who wish to come here on business and will meet requirements of any type executive airplane now operating. The lights will permit night flying and the all weather strip will permit year around use by wheel equipped aircraft.

Churches to Aid Overseas Relief

President Eisenhower Endorses National Drive



President Eisenhower, declaring that "all we can do" for the refugees of the world "by participation in voluntary programs and by government action must be done," has given personal endorsement to the current appeals of religious organizations—Protestant, Catholic and Jewish — for support of their world-wide programs of assistance to needy people abroad.

The appeals concerned are the Protestant One Great Hour of Sharing, the Catholic Bishops' Relief Fund and the United Jewish Appeal.

Both the Catholic Bishops' Relief Fund and the Protestant One Great Hour of Sharing appeals will be responded to in tens of thousands of churches throughout the country on Sunday, March 27 with special contributions made by the people of the churches in support of the Protestant and Catholic overseas relief work.

The United Jewish Appeal especially highlighted at the time is a continuing effort throughout the year.

State Medical Assn. Tells about Hiccups

Hiccups, like the two-headed coin, can have a double meaning. Ordinarily hiccups are the "symptoms of a temporary disagreeable condition without cause for alarm. On the other hand hiccups may indicate the existence of one of several more serious diseases or conditions, says the Minnesota State Medical association.

Hiccups are sudden spasmodic contractions of the diaphragm which occur when the nerve which controls the contraction of the diaphragm becomes irritated, it was explained.

Sometimes hiccups will develop when portions of the brain responsible for stimulation of the expansion and contraction of the diaphragm become irritated. Frequently this condition develops in men over the age of 45 following gall bladder, stomach or prostrate gland surgery.

A tumor pressing on the area of the brain which stimulates the action of the diaphragm may also produce hiccups. Nervous reactions or hysteria may also produce hiccups. Fortunately the chemical hiccups produced by eating highly seasoned foods or drinking strong beverages are temporary in nature.

Babies often develop hiccups following rapid feeding or swallowing air. To relieve the hiccuping, pat the infant on the back. This will cause the infant to "burp" expelling the excess amount of air which is causing pressure against the diaphragm.

Cures for hiccups are almost as numerous as hiccup sufferers. The often suggested cures include pounding on the back, holding the breath, pulling the tongue, breathing into a paper bag, and swallowing liquid slowly, to name a few. The principal of these cures is to divert the attention of the hiccups sufferer. Another simple method recommended to older persons for relief of hiccups, is to lie down and relax. Reading is another suggested diversionary measure.

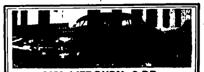
Prompt medical attention is recommended for cases of chronic hiccups which do not respond to the simple diversionary treatments. Following a complete evaluation of the situation, the physician may prescribe drugs or narcotics for relief. He may also wash out the stomach or give a series of enemas to clean out the intestinal tract. In extreme cases the physician may recommend surgery to sever or apply additional pressure to the phrenic nerve which controls the expansion and contraction process of the diaphragm.

Higher Prices for Eggs Seen in 1960

Commr. Byron Allen Cites Decline in Chick Buying

According to figures recently released by the State Federal Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, the low egg prices during the past year are causing a sharp downward adjustment in the number of replacement chicks being purchased by Minnesota farmers.

This was the observation made today by Commissioner Byron G. Allen of the Minnesota department of agriculture, dairy and food. The downward adjustment in chick replacement is not limited to Minnesota but is evident in all egg producing areas according to Commissioner Allen.



Minnesota egg producers bought about 50 per cent less chicks during January and February of 1960 than they did in 1959. The reduction in layer type chicks produced for the United States as a whole compared to last year, was 33 per cent in January 1960. Should this trend continue the earlier intentions of a nine per cent cutback by egg producers over the United States will be greatly exceeded.

Commissioner Allen stated that it is significant to Minnesota Egg Producers that other states particularly in the south eastern and south central areas of the country which in recent years increased their egg production greatly through integration are cutting chick placements even more than Minnesota in many cases.

In view of this said the Commissioner people who like to raise chickens and who do a good job and would like to stay in the poultry business should be encouraged by the United States Department of Agriculture forecast for higher egg prices later this year.

Gasoline itself, not including taxes, is actually about 1 cents cheaper a gallon than it was 40 years ago.

Encouraging Report

A survey of the steel industry reveals an impressive long-range program of modernization and expansion in the planning stage. Estimated expenditures this year for new equipment and construction totals $1.6 billion. And there will be substantial increases in expenditures for research to meet increased competition from foreign mills and also from other materials such as plastics and aluminum.

Industry spokesmen have indicated an improvement in the labor-management relations since the settlement of the 1959 strike that was costly to both industry and to labor, as well as to the economy of the country as a whole. There seems to be a more general awareness of the need for maximum efficiency if production and employment are to be maintained at high levels, they report. This is a much more encouraging prospect than that with which we were confronted when management and labor were snarling at each other a few months ago.

Once it is generally recognized that inflation is our most dangerous enemy it will be less difficult to act reasonably in dealing with the causes of inflation. Inflation threatens our life savings, and those who are nearing the age of retirement become increasingly concerned about the stability and the buying power of their own retirement dollars.

The siren songs of the spenders who propose to maintain perpetual prosperity with printing press dollars are losing their appeal to a steadily increasing number of people who are becoming aware of the importance of the dollar's buying power. Younger people are more apt to prefer more dollars, regardless of what they will buy.

Adlai Still Strong

According to a Minnesota Poll survey, Senator Hubert Humphrey has the backing of only four out of ten DFL voters in the state in response to a question as to who, of the present candidates is best qualified to run for President this year on the Democratic ticket. Senator John Kennedy had the backing of 23 per cent, followed by Adlai Stevenson with 17 per cent, Senator Lyndon Johnson, with nine per cent and Senator Stuart Symington with six per cet. Among independent voters Humphrey was third with 20 per cent; behind Stevenson with 22 per cent, and Kennedy with 30 per cent.

These are not impressive figures for a "favorite son" candidate. Senator Humphrey no doubt will have the backing of the state's delegates in the first ballot at the national convention but the present prospect for his getting more than honorable mention after the first round is not bright.

The surprising thing is the strength of Adlai Stevenson, after two defeats. This support no doubt comes from the more conservative voters in the party, but his strength in Minnesota is a fair example of his strength throughout the nation. His ability to retain this following without an effort keeps him in the running as one of the two or three candidates most likely to succeed.

Well Handled

The announcement of the successful launching of satellite Pioneer V was cheerful news, and we especially liked the way in which the publicity was handled. There was no advance huffing and puffing about what was going to happen, if the experiment succeeded. When it became an accomplished fact there were modest reports on what had been accomplished and what may be hoped for if the baseball-size sphere continues to function satisfactorily.

And maybe this successful launching will make it easier to maintain a calm approach to our defense spending problems, reducing the effectiveness of the hysterical few who seem to think that we will find security only if we greatly increase appropriations. We are sure the launching, and the quiet manner in which it was announced, will add greatly to our prestige throughout the world.

Against Everything

A Democratic advisory group, representing the large cities of the country, decided last week that President Eisenhower and the Republican party are against the cities and suburban areas. Mayor Dillon of St. Paul was one of the 23 "specialists" who conducted the study. They stated:

"We must report that the President and his administration are either uninformed or unconcerned with the mounting urban and suburban problems around them.

"From the lack of sympathy and concern in the White House, it seems quite clear to us that the President and his budgeteers have neither seen nor heard nor felt the plight of the 22 million American slum dwellers."

Well, that's that. The folks in the cities say the government is wasting too many tax dollars supporting agriculture. Out here in the country, when we observe the huge public works programs in the cities, supported by federal funds, including slum clearance, expressways, and costly locks to enable barges to travel an additional half mile up a river, we are sure too many dollars are being wasted in the metropolitan areas. Heaven help us if we get a government that is still more liberal than the present administration, and is even more reckless with our tax dollars and the national credit.

It appears that President Eisenhower is an old meany who is against everything worthwhile.

Illiterate Seniors

The Des Moines Register is shocked by the fact that 20 per cent of the seniors of Iowa State university flunked a freshman-level English composition test. The university requires seniors to pass such a test before they graduate. "What we can't understand," says the Register, "is how one-fifth of the senior class got to be seniors without being able to pass freshman English." Going on from there the Register states;

"Some members of the English faculty at Iowa State said a main reason the seniors are so poor in language is that they get no practice in writing after finishing freshman English.

"Surely this can't be literally true. Students have to write reports in nearly all courses, and in many of them they must write narrative or discussion-type examinations, at least. What the English professors evidently mean is that students aren't graded on English composition in any courses except freshman English.

"But shouldn't they be? If a student taking biology cannot write a clear, grammatical exposition about his subject, shouldn't he be graded down for this deficiency?

"This abysmal record on English composition at Iowa State university probably is duplicated at most other public institutions and many of the private ones as well. The colleges and universities frequently complain about language deficiencies of the students they receive as freshmen. They blame the high schools for inadequate preparation of these students. No doubt these complaints are justified.

"But the colleges have to assume the blame themselves for their own seniors who cannot express themselves adequately in the English language."

Same Result For Less

(Art Suel in New Prague Times)

Taxpayers of Minnesota were saved a sizable sum of money when the Minnesota State Legislature at its regular 1959 session enacted, and Governor Freeman signed into law, a bill repealing the state presidential primary.

Estimates of the cost of holding a state presidential primary in Minnesota vary widely depending largely upon who is wielding the pencil, who is doing the estimating.

Nevertheless, estimates of the total cost of these statewide primaries average somewhere in the nighborhood of a half a million dollars,—$500,000, that is.

In Minnesota during this national election year of 1960, the end results will doubtlessly be the same under the convention system of selection of delegates to the national party conventions as if a statewide presidential primary were to be held. Consensus of observers is that Minnesota delegates to the Democratic national convention will be instructed for Senator Hubert H. Humphrey and that the Republican delegation will be similarly pledged to support Vice President Richard M. Nixon for the respective nominations.

To be truly significant and decisive, state presidential primaries would have to be held in every state on the same day and under the same rules. It is a moot question whether the effort and the cost would be a worthwhile improvement over the convention system.

Castro Capers

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Fidel Castro has just about exhausted the widespread goodwill accorded him and his followers when he overthrew the Batista regime and assumed control of Cuba.

The process began with the circus-like courts and executions. It was speeded by Castro's decision not to hold elections. It has been further hastened by his violent and intemperate charges and actions against the United States.

The U.S. obviously tried to show patience and understanding toward Castro and his movement but Washington cannot be expected to remain silent indefinitely while being blamed for everything that happens in Cuba. It was to be expected that Secretary of State Herter would protest against Castro's repeated unsubstantiated accusations that the U.S. was implicated in the explosion of the munitions ship in Havana harbor last Friday. There was no real reason for Castro to reject this protest as "an insult."

It may suit Castro's short-term purpose to distract blame from Cuba's troubles by blaming the Yankees when anything goes wrong. It may make him a hero to anti-Americans in the other Latin-American countries. But in the long run, such a policy cannot fail to harm him and his people.

Crossword

Paddy, the beaver, was making history in Minnesota 300 years ago and he is still at it. Radisson and other white men who came to Minnesota in 1655 were fur traders and beaver pelts were one of our first items of commerce. These animals reportedly became scarce because of a die-off by 1825 and increased in numbers by 1850.

In later years, largely because of illegal trapping, beaver were greatly depleted in our state but, as our warden service grew and became more effective, beaver again increased under better protection. In 1939 a state-wide beaver survey by the game and fish division indicated enough animals for a trapping season and over 11,000 animals were taken. Since then, with the exception of two years, we have had an annual season. During this period 239,512 beaver have been trapped and the peak harvest was in 1958 when the catch totaled 24,590.

This shows that beaver are persently holding up under the trapping seasons being established. To be sure of this the division conducts an aerial census each October. When beaver become scarce in certain areas the season is closed or the harvest reduced.

For better management the state has been divided into a north and a south zone. The dividing line extends roughly from Duluth to Virginia and Moorhead. North of this line the season runs from March 26 through April 30. The southern zone extends from April 2 through April 24. Within these zones certain areas are closed.

Mink, muskrat and beaver make up the bulk of Minnesota's million-dollar-a year fur harvest. Fortunately, there are all prolific animals which can stand a fairly heavy annual harvest.

But Paddy is better known for his habits than for his hide. The trees he cuts and the dams he builds cause him to be loved by some and hated by others, but his engineering ability is admired by all. His dams produce water areas for ducks and other wildlife, maintain water levels on canoe routes, improve some trout streams, reduce floods and conserve water. But dams in the wrong places plug culverts, flood crops, destroy good forest land by flooding and destroy some trout streams.

Even some of our game wardens get just a bit fed up with some beaver—and no wonder. They use about $3,000 worth of dynamite a year blowing out beaver dams which are in the wrong places. But it takes more than a few sticks of dynamite to discourage Paddy. He is about as persistent as any game warden on the trail of a poacher.

To encourage better demonstrations, the club is taking pictures of demonstrators at each meeting with Nelda Nelson appointed club photographer. Co project leaders in safety are Sharon Knutson and Nelda Nelson. Sharon's other duties are recreation chairman and leader for advanced home improvement. Nancy Newton is project leader for bread and has charge of reminding members when to demonstrate. Gloria Philipp has clothing and project reports. The WORLD OUTDOORS

WHAT kind of a price tag can you put on a game fish, say a bass—striped, largemouth or smallmouth? You can't buy or sell Mr. Bass on the open market, so there is no commercial value to be placed. You can't put a dollar and cents sign on the scales and come anywhere near measuring the thrill that a dedicated angler realizes when he feels a "strike" or brings a "lunker" to net.

This problem of evaluation was one that faced the California Department of Game and Fish when it undertook legal action against a chemical company after toxic chemicals dumped into San Francisco Bay were held responsible for a kill of thousands of striped bass, smelt, anchovies, sculpins and other smaller fish. Under the Fish and Game Code Section of California law, the maximum fine possible was $500 and this would be, indeed, a low price to pay for thousands of striped bass—bass which ranged from 8 to 30 inches and averaged 6 pounds in weight. The State decided instead to sue the company in civil action to recover the value of the fish destroyed.

Since there is no market price for striped bass, how was this value determined? It was done on a replacement basis. It was determined exactly how much it would cost the Department of Fish and Game to obtain live striped bass from a commercial source in Oregon and transport them to California. The total: $13,369—and the State won its case in a superior court trial which is expected to set an important precedent for future pollution control efforts in California.

The court victory was a satisfying—but expensive—one for the California Department of Fish and Game.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Q—I am applying to VA for compensation for a disability I believe is service-connected. My service was during peacetime. If VA grants me compensation, will it be at the same rate as for a veteran who served during war?

A—No. Unless your disability was incurred under extra hazardous conditions, such as simulated warfare, your compensation if allowed would at 80 per cent of the wartime rate.

Q—If a veteran's GI insurance premiums are being paid by someone other than the veteran insured, will VA send premium notices directly to the person making the payments?

A—Yes, but only when the veteran authorizes VA to do so, in writing.

Q—My husband died recently of a service-connected condition, and I am now drawing death compensation from VA. I have a chance to take a secretarial job. Would my earnings in a job decrease the amount of my compensation?

A—No. Your income would have no effect on your death compensation. Income limitations do apply, however, to pensions based on deaths not connected with military service.

Q—I am going to college under the Korean GI Bill. If I take a part time job this summer will I have to report those earnings to the VA?

A—No. Students taking classroom college training under the Korean GI Bill need not report outside earnings, and outside earnings do not affect allowance checks in any way.

THESE WONDERFUL PEOPLE

Wonder how many of your friends are planning their vacation right now?

All over America families are beginning to dream and plan for their summer vacations, when they'll pile in the family car and see America. That's the wonderful thing about American families, they plan so many things together; they work and play as a unit. And we should remember to think of our community as a unit, all of us working together and supporting our local organizations, institutions, merchants and endeavors. For growth and prosperity, think of your community.

Tips on Income Taxes

By Minnesota State Bar Assn.

(This is the fifth in a series of articles on income tax made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association, Public Relations Committee.)

Capital Gains and Losses

Gain from the sale of a capital asset is given preferential tax treatment on both your Minnesota and federal tax returns. A capital asset can be generally defined as any property held by a taxpayer and, with reference to the average taxpayer, means stocks, bonds, your personal car, furniture and home.

Normally, when you sell any of the property described, you either sell it at a profit or you sustain a loss, both computations being based upon the difference between the cost you paid for the item being sold and the selling price.

Items sold by you at a loss which are in the nature of personal property used by you for your own benefit, while capital assets, do not result in a loss deduction. On the other hand a gain based upon the difference between your cost and the selling price for the item does result in taxable gross income to you to the extent of the difference. The sale of a personal residence and the computation of income thereon will be discussed in the next article in this series.

The profit on the sale of a capital asset which you have owned-for-less-than-six months is includible in gross income in its entirety. Where, however you have held the asset for more than six months, only one half of the net profit (after adding all of your gains and deducting all your capital losses) is includible in gross income. Further when the tax upon this addition to gross income is more than one-fourth of the total long term gain, the Federal tax is reduced to this amount of one fourth of the total long-term gain received. The rule is the same with regard to the Minnesota return and you are allowed to deduct from gross income one half of the net long-term gain before computing your tax.

Losses from the sale of capital assets, other than those held for your own benefit such as a residence or a car, are deductible in the year you sell the capital asset. However, these losses are limited to $1,000 in excess of the capital gains you receive during the year. Where your losses exceed this $1,000 figure, you are allowed to deduct them in the five succeeding years against gains realized in those years, subject again, however, that the net deduction in excess of gains cannot exceed $1,000 in any of the following years.

Property used in your business but not held for sale to customers receives a hybrid treatment upon sale. If a profit is made on the sale, it is treated as capital gain. However, if a loss results, the loss is deductible in full in the year of sale to the extent of any income received. Items in this category are rental property, store building and fixtures and farm machinery.

(This column, based on Minnesota and federal law, is written to inform not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of a trained expert who knows the facts because the facts may change the application of the law.)

In spite of periodic cries that "we are running out of oil," U.S. crude oil production has soared from just 975,000 barrels a day in 1918 to 6,709,000 barrels daily in 1958, and reserves are higher than ever before.

About 101 million gallons of marine fuel will be used this year by vacationers and boat owners.

Snapshots: Famous Spots In America

The inscription on this pink marble building at Hodgenville, Kentucky reads: "Here over the log cabin where Abraham Lincoln was born, destined to preserve the Union and free the slave, a grateful people have dedicated this memorial to unity, peace and brotherhood among the states." Dedicated in 1911, this building houses the traditional Lincoln birth cabin, and is the main attraction at Abraham Lincoln National Historical Park, some 116 acres dedicated in 1939. During the summer months, a steady stream of visitors come to this spot where the Great Emancipator was born in 1809. Last year, persons from some 58 nations visited the park. Other attractions at the national park are the Sinking Spring and the Boundary Oak. The large white oak marked the boundary of the Thomas Lincoln farm and is the only living witness of the birth of his world-renowned son.

Council OK Budget for Tuesday Night

Estimated Income $87,597 Less Than Predicted Expense

A budget for 1960 of $1,506,156.28 was adopted by the city council during its regular session Tuesday evening, March 15, topping by $176,212.36 the 1959 budget of $1,329,943.92.

The decision was reached only after a detailed item-by-item examination of every department's budget during which some additional paring was done.

City spending will exceed expected revenue this year by $87,597.60 which will be made up by refinancing city bonds or by other means to be decided later. Considerable discussion is expected before the decision of how to make up the deficit is completed.

Included in the deficit was $20,000 to be used for expected wage increases which have not yet been set.

The adoption of the budget came late in the evening after routine business had been completed including the approval of cigaret licenses to the First St. grocery and the Riverside grocery and the approval of payments for work completed for the city.

Payment to the Ranum Construction company of $4,022 for remodeling of the liquor store and an additional $458 for a change work order at the store were approved as well as $8,004 to C. Gustafson & Sons, Inc., for the new garbage truck.

A resolution was adopted approving special legislation passed by the 1959 state legislature in regard to the issuance of refunding bonds by the city.

The public contractor's bond of the Ranum Construction company in the amount of $3,944 for work in connection with the installation of filter equipment at the water treatment plant was approved and accepted.

A report by Ole J. Ness, superintendent of the sewerage treatment plant, was read by the council. Ness stated that the plant has been used in excess of its maximum capacity for some time and that hydraulic improvements are necessary to increase the plant's capacity. At times, according to the report, the plant is operating at 170% of its capacity and there will be a need for a new plant within the next few years. No action was taken on the report.

Library to Begin Story Hour Series Saturday, Mar. 19

Children of Grades 1 to 3 to Hear Stories Read by Miss Bertha Hastad at 1:30

A spring series of story hours for grades one through three will begin at the Carnegie Public Library Saturday, March 19. At 1:30 in the afternoon, Bertha Hastad will read "Ping" by Marjorie Flack and "Pussywillow" by Margaret Wise Brown.

Both Miss Flack and Miss Brown are prolific and excellent writers of children's books. Miss Flack has illustrated her most recent book, with charming drawings of the small Chinese duckling who spends the night alone on the big river to avoid a spanking that he knows he will get for being tardy. Margaret Wise Brown's book is the perfect beginning for the series as a picture of the small furry animals of the forest in the spring.

This is the third year that the library has presented a series of story hours. This is, however, the first series to be presented in the spring. Last year, during Book Week, Miss Hastad read "Space Witch" to each of the visiting school classes. Books selected to be read at Story Hour always come from the library's new additions to keep small listeners interested and attentive.

In the last few issues of your newspaper I have noted an editorial, an article from the National Association of Broadcasters and another from the local Chamber of Commerce, all of which have been directed to those who, by reason of their office, are asked to help us pass the Inland Bill, smash it to smithereens and keep it from ever coming back to plague us. Selective Service Qualification Test for College April 28

The Selective Service College Qualification test will be given to college men April 28 at 8 a.m. at Pearl Morley & Ryan club rooms at the corner of Main and Second streets.

Men who have been deferred by their draft boards to attend college may take the test to qualify for 2S deferment next year.

The army made on the test is helpful to local boards in considering students for deferment from military service but only in the undergraduate, graduate or professional school.

Keep pointed out that students who have been deferred and who have not begun college since 1951 have been a major factor in insuring the nation's supply of specialized manpower. Many students deferred over the testing program have registered unsatisfactorily and are subsequently inducted into other technical fields and in the social sciences, teaching, and humanities.

"Some students do not take the test because a student deferment extends a registrant's liability for induction until he is 26. Deferments also extend liability to age 35," he added, "such as those for members of the ROTC, for example. General to registrants who have not been deferred for college study or without an exemption, is a document which extends liability."

Emphasizing that only one test will be offered, the state director warned students wishing to take the test to obtain draft application cards and other material from their local boards at once. Local board of the area: they are attending. Use of old qualification cards may result in students missing the test.

Men planning to take the test were urged by Colonel Reep to

The Library Corner

Jesus never wrote a book. We know the parables which he told only as they are retold by the writers of the Gospels. We know that this gentle speaker was a powerful teacher, for the greatest of all stories have come to us from his lips. Yet we do not know that people came long distances to hear him and we know the spell he cast over them.

The living proof of Christ's power is the existence of the church of Christianity though the centuries which blotted out the greatest religions of this time and deeply influenced the other religions of the world, has grown from nearly zero to almost a billion people. Tips on Income Taxes

By Minnesota State Bar Assn.

(This is the sixth in a series of articles on income tax made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association, Public Relations Committee.)

Buying and Selling a Home

As discussed in an earlier article, you are required to include in your gross income the profit you made on the sale of your personal residence. This profit is normally the difference between sales price less agent's commission and the purchase price of the house when you bought it.

This additional income can, however, be postponed in the situation where you buy a new residence within a one year period before and after the date on which you sell your old home. However, you postpone the payment of tax on the sale only to the extent that your new home costs more than the price you received for your old house after deducting therefrom the agent's commission, selling expenses and the amount you spent to fix the house up for sale during the ninety day period before which the house was sold.

For example, if you paid $10,000 for your old house and sold it for $15,000, you made a profit of $5,000 on the sale. If you buy a new home within a year for $16,000, you report no profit on the sale of the old house. You must, however, reduce the cost of the new home for later sale purposes by the amount of the profit you received on the old home. Thus, your new house cost would be reduced $5,000 by the profit you realized on the sale of the old residence and it would be valued at $11,000 for later sale purposes.

If you spent $500 fixing up your old house for sale within 90 days before selling it, and bought your new house for $13,000 rather than the $16,000 figure used in the example above, you would, deduct the $500 from the $15,000 sale price to obtain the adjusted sales price. Inasmuch as the purchase price of the new house was less than the adjusted sales price of the old home, you would have to include the net difference as a capital gain in your gross income. In this example, the difference between the two figures is $1,500 and this is the amount you would be required to report in your tax report in your tax return. The value of your new house for subsequent sale purposes would then be reduced by the difference between the total profit made on the sale of your old residence, $5,000, and the amount you showed as income when you bought the new residence, $1,500 or $3,500.

Note carefully that the $500 fixing up expense is used to determine the adjusted sales price for determining recognized gain but does not reduce the profit on the sale of your old home for purposes of determining the cost basis of your new home.

Often you sell your old house in one year and don't buy a new one until the subsequent year. Where this occurs, you should show the fact of sale in your tax return for the year of sale and indicate that you intend to buy a new house within the one year period. When you later purchase a new house and have gain to report because it cost you less than the sales price of the old house, you should amend your return for the year in which the old house was sold and report the proper amount of gain includible in income as a capital gain.

Where you desire to build a new house to replace the old house sold, you are entitled to these tax benefits as long as the house is completed within 18 months after the old house is sold and construction begins within the one year period after the date of sale of the old residence.

The rules and computations discussed in this article apply to the reporting of income for both your Minnesota and Federal tax returns.

Rotarians Told of State 'FBI' Agency

Graham Tells of Bureau of Criminal Apprehension

Max Graham, agent for the state bureau of criminal apprehension for this area, was the main speaker at the Monday noon meeting of the Rotary club March 14.

Graham traced the history of the bureau since it was formed in 1927 as the investigative force for the attorney general's office. At the beginning, there were 5 investigators based in St. Paul and there are now five agents in the field in addition to four in the state capital.

The bureau is composed of five departments, Graham told Rotarians. They are statistics, identification, laboratory, investigative and training.

The bureau works in cooperation with local law enforcement agencies and assists and advises them in their work.

The agent cited several cases in which the bureau had been engaged, and illustrated the work done by the various departments from these cases. A question and answer period followed.

A guest of the Rotary was Hartley Story, coach of the district basketball champions of Lincoln high school who will meet Argyle in regional play tonight. Story praised the Prowlers for their hard work during the season, and said that there was no doubt that the team would do its best to continue its winning streak.

Training Course for Youngsters in Use of Guns Slated

Gun Safety Program to Be Sponsored by Pennington County Sportsmen's Club

The Pennington county Sportsmen's club, along with the county director and instructors of the Minnesota gun safety training program will announce the start of another course in gun training and safety for boys and girls from the ages of 12 through 15, in the near future.

The Sportsmen's club has jointly sponsored this program in the interest of conservation and safety.

The course will consist of approximately 12 hours in which field trials will be given under supervision of certified state instructors. At the conclusion of the course an emblem recognized by the state will be given each boy or girl completing the course by the club along with a membership card in the Pennington county Junior Sportsman club which is now being organized.

Previous to the course of instruction, a $2.00 charge will be made each applicant to cover cost of targets, ammunition, handbooks, pamphlets, etc., furnished by the state. The course will consist of safe gun handling of all firearms.

Membership to the Junior Sportsman club will be free to each member completing the course and will be open to all boys and girls who have completed the course in the past.

Purpose of the club is in the interest of conservation and also to train and teach youngsters for outdoor life. Future plans for members will include field trips to the various wild life refuges, survival training in the wilderness and first aid.

Plans are for meetings of the junior club to be held an hour previous to the regular meeting of the Pennington county Sportsman club. Movies of wild life will be shown and the members will be dismissed by 8 p.m. to return home by curfew time.

Fred Mittelstadt, Quentin Jones and Joe Iverson will conduct the membership meetings of the junior club. The club will have its own officers and will hold meetings once a month along with one field trip per month.

Doug Tougtmeier acted as master of ceremonies, introducing Harry Hendrickson, Eagles president, who welcomed the group. The main speaker was Gene Sack. Others giving short talks were Hoffman, Rodekuhr and Bedard.

Big Rise in Game Law Violations During February

Arrests for violations of the game and fish laws during February were up nearly 233 per cent over a similar period last year, reports F. W. Johnson, chief game warden.

Johnson reported his wardens made 538 arrests, of which 386 (72%) were for ice fishing infractions. Continuing their drive on license violations wardens apprehended 46 for no licenses or fraudulent use. Transporting loaded or uncased firearms in motor vehicles resulted in 22 making court appearances. A variety of miscellaneous infractions accounted for the balance of arrests.

Fines levied came up to $9,344.

Conveyor Type Checkouts Added to Hartz Market

Automatic conveyor type checkouts have been installed at the Hartz Super Market. J. L. Winjum, proprietor, says these should speed up the checkout procedure considerably, eliminating much of the delay in packing bags or boxes for carry-out purposes.

Trying for Eight in a Row

The defending regional champion Bemidji Lumberjacks will be opening the defense of their title tonight, Thursday, when they meet the Ada Vikings in a first round Region Eight basketball tournament game at Grand Forks.

The Lumberjacks will be entering the tournament as favorites, and if they are successful in beating the Vikings tonight and the winner of the Thief River Falls vs. Argyle game in the finals on Friday night, the Jacks will have marked up their 8th successive Region Eight championship.

In the twenty-nine years that Bemidji has been in Region Eight competition (Bemidji joined the region in 1931) the Lumberjacks have won nineteen regional championships. The schools that have been able to break into this near-monopoly of Bemidji's has been Thief River Falls in 1932, 1937, 1938, and 1939; Ada in 1933 (when Bemidji and Thief River Falls were disqualified); Cass Lake in 1934; Bagley in 1942; Roseau in 1946; East Grand Forks in 1951; and Halstad in 1952.

It's not a foregone conclusion, though, that Bemidji will win the 1960 tournament. It will be recalled that the Lumberjacks were given quite a test last season, and it was only on a field goal and free throw by Bob Glas, with fifteen seconds to play, that gave the Jacks their 47 to 46 win over the Crookston Pirates in the regional finals.

And in 1957, the Prowlers had Bemidji "hanging on the ropes," with the locals holding a 46 to 43 lead with but a couple of minutes to play. Ray Cronk's jump shot, with 1:52 to play, pared the lead to one point, and then Jim Johnson scored on a layup to shove the Jacks' into the lead. The Prowlers, forced to foul in order to gain possession of the ball, gave up a pair of free-throw points in the final minute.

The four teams that are in the regional tourney — Ada, Thief River Falls, Bemidji, and Argyle — had workouts on the UND fieldhouse court early this week. On Monday evening, the Ada Vikings took some warmup drills on the court, and on Tuesday, the Lumberjacks, the Prowlers and the Argyle Eagles held their sessions.

The Prowlers received somewhat of a "scare" on Monday afternoon when Don Ulferts turned an ankle. At first it was feared that the burly left forward would be lost for the regional tourney, but the injury has responded to treatment and he will be available for the opening tilt against Argyle.

According to our reckoning, it could be that the regional championship will be decided Thursday night, with the winner of the Ada vs. Bemidji game going on to win the Region Eight title. The Prowlers must be rated as a "dark horse" threat, and if the local could put together eight consistent periods of basketball, coach Story's club could bring home the regional title.

Resignations

The board of directors of the Thief River Falls Softball Association received a communication from Ed Hamerski last week stating that he and his wife Florence, were resigning their positions as president and secretary treasurer of the organization, effective March 15.

This resignation notice must be rated as unwelcome news for the local softball enthusiasts. Ed and Florence have put in much time and effort in making the softball program a success, and it will not be a simple matter for the board of directors to appoint successors.

Ed's explanation for the couple's resignation is "After giving the matter very serious consideration and long deliberation, due to the probable need of being out of town a good deal of this coming year's season, we feel that we would not be able to devote the time and effort necessary in order to make this 1960 season another successful one, for which reason we find it necessary, with a certain amount of regret, that we respectively submit our resignations."

Miscellany

Said Dallis Beck of the Winnipeg Tribune, following the Winnipeg Maroons 3 to 1 loss to the Saskatoon Quakers in a first round Allan Cup hockey playdown match on Sunday, "Over the entire 130 minutes and 30 seconds of action Sunday at the Icehouse, the aging Beast—Bill Juzda, was still the old master at the legitimate body check." And a bit later Beck added, "'The Beast', an ageless wonder at 39, threw one of his patented rib-crushers at Saskatoon's Jim Chow in the opening frame, and the pesky ex-Winnipeg Baron junior was visibly shaken for the rest of the period . . . Reg Morelli and Art Miller, members of coach Barry Thorndycraft's North Dakota Sioux hockey squad this past season, were due to be given tryouts with the professional Winnipeg Warriors this week. Morelli, who set a scoring record for the Sioux this season, and Miller were to play with the Warriors against the Calgary Stampeders at Winnipeg last night.

Mrs. Alex Campbell Tells of Early Days of Hockey Sport Here

Officials of the 40 & 8 veterans organization made the first presentation of the Alex Campbell trophy to the winning team of the city grade school hockey league Sunday afternoon, but it had been their hope that the presentation could have been made by Mrs. Alex Campbell. It was not possible for her to be present but she did express her sentiments and congratulations to the winning team, which the Times is happy to publish. Her letter follows:

To the 40 & 8 of Thief River Falls, may I express my heartfelt gratitude and appreciation for honoring the memory of my husband, Alex M. Campbell, by your promotion of hockey among these fine, hustling, hockey loving groups of boys and for awarding as an incentive in this competition, this outstanding trophy. I understand that the team that wins it each year will display it in the trophy case in their school. I know that each member of the team will feel a "glow of achievement" when he sees it because he had a part in winning it.

Now some of you boys may wonder why it is called the "Alex M. Campbell" trophy, and I would like to suggest to you that you ask your Daddy or your Grandfather who Alex Campbell was and I am sure they will tell you about how hockey started in Thief River Falls, because many of them worked right along with Alex.

Away back in the years before World War I, Alex came to Thief River Falls to work on the Soo Line Railroad. He came here in 1915 and he brought with him a great love of the game of hockey and a knowledge of how to play the game, because his boyhood years were lived in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich. Sault Ste. Marie was a hockey-minded town—they had a large Arena at that time and they supported a professional hockey team, so Alex and his friends had the opportunity to watch these "hockey greats" and learn from them.

When Alex Campbell came to Thief River Falls he played on the hockey team that went to St Paul in 1916 and won the championship. The medal which he received then is inscribed "Alex M. Campbell, Thief River Falls Hockey Team 1916, Northwestern Amateur Champions." The following year, 1917, war was declared and Alex was among the first to enlist. He was in service 18 months; 12 months in France in active service.

We lived at 907 Knight av. N., in Thief River Falls when he built a neighborhood rink in our back yard, and across the alley and onto the then vacant lot at Duluth av. and 9th st. Such activity! All the kids for blocks around were there, shoveling snow, packing snow, flooding the rink—it was a high privilege to hold the hose—and finally there was a good foundation of frozen snow and then a really good sheet of ice. The Campbell basement served as a warming house and skaters "clunked" down and up the stairs from morning until late at night. This activity aroused interest among a group of American Legion members and plans were made to build an outdoor rink downtown. That was located where the West Side park is now.

Of course hockey was one of the most popular activities of the rink at 907 Knight av. There were boys' teams and girls' teams too. The equipment was make-shift but there was lots of enthusiasm.

Alex was manager of the downtown rink. Those were the depression years and here was work that he enjoyed doing. Tickets were sold, a comfortable warming house was provided; hockey games were played—in below-zero weather—but we hockey fans didn't seem to notice frozen fingers and toes as we shouted ourselves hoarse.

And so hockey came to Thief River Falls. Many of us remember when the Arena was built, and the enthusiasm and excitement of fine hockey filled the building to capacity. We saw players from Canada, and from the Range, who came here to play on our semi-professional teams before our local players were developed. Alex managed the Thieves in those early days —he devoted many busy, happy years to promoting hockey. It was one of the favorite projects of the Legion when he was Commander, and the 40 & 8 can well be proud of their active participation through the years as sponsors of the Hornets, and until the time this program was taken over by the schools.

If Alex may be credited with some part of its growth, he would smile and be glad, and would be the first to give credit to others who had the vision to see the far reaching benefits to the individual and to the community. I know our distinguished Prowler teams have been a real inspiration to all of us, and a spirit of good sportsmanship has pervaded our town. And right here may I tell you of an unforgettable happening that pleased Alex so very much. In 1956, when our Prowlers won the State Championship at the hockey tournament in St. Paul, in the midst of their excitement and jubilation, they took time to send a telegram to Alex at the Veterans hospital in Fargo to tell him of their victory and to wish him well. This evidence of their thoughtfulness reached him a few days before he died.

Now to all the players and to the coaches of the teams, we extend our congratulations for their part in this excellent competition. Each game was a challenge, and may you have the satisfaction of knowing within yourselves, that you played fairly and well always, and gave your best at all times.

March 20-26 Noted as Wildlife Week

Conservation of Water Is Theme of Observance

The conservation of fresh water, one of the nation's most valuable natural resources, is becoming a problem of increasing significance, according to the National Wildlife Federation, sponsors of National Wildlife Week, March 20-26. Theme for the annual observance is "Water—Key to Your Survival."

Many areas now are faced with water shortages, situations which probably will become more aggravated as rapidly growing human populations create additional demands. Competition already is strong for such uses as irrigation, power generation, navigation, industry, municipal services and recreation. Some of these uses do not affect the resource. Other uses, however, add wastes which damage the water. Still others are "consumptive" in that water is lost for all other purposes.

Keeping water clean, the National Wildlife Federation points out, is tantamount to creating more water to satisfy our wide variety of uses and growing demands.

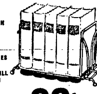
Many cities and industries now are removing their wastes from water before releasing it into streams but others continue their pollution. Free-flowing streams capable of supporting navigation are considered public property and subject to state laws relating to their use. Some streams, especially those of interstate nature, are subject to federal laws. Seeing to it that polluted streams are cleaned up should be a concern of every thinking citizen.

Independent oil jobbers own 37 per cent of the bulk plants and terminals in the United States and account for 34 per cent of total dollar sales, according to the latest available federal statistics.

Lawyers to Hold 2-day Institute

Office Management to Be Topic at Moorhead

Lawyers in northwestern Minnesota and North Dakota will have an opportunity to hear experts in the field of law office management when they attend a two-day institute at the Frederick Martin hotel, Moorhead, Friday and Saturday, March 18 and 19.



The institute is under the direction of the Minnesota State Bar association legal institutes committee of which James H. Geraghty, St. Paul, is chairman. Co-chairman in charge of local arrangements are Gaylord Saetre, Moorhead; Herman Wegner, Fargo; Daniel S. Letnes, Grand Forks, and Robert L. Eckert, Wahpeton.

Economics of law practice, compensation for services, modern law office management, physical lay outs of law offices and law partnership agreements are among the topics to be discussed.

Editorials . . .

"It has taken me more than 15 years of living to know faith as the basis of action. Without faith, faith in a book of directions, faith in oneself, faith in another's word, written or spoken, faith in "the soul's invincible surmise," nothing, not even the simplest thing, would be done. From the child who takes his first step to the scientist who spends years in his laboratory testing and proving the hypothesis he has set up, all creative action is based on faith. The higher and nobler the object or force on which one sets one's faith, the more daring and effective the action."

—Elizabeth Gray Vining

We Have Been Liberal

From the National Education Association we learn that Minnesota is in 20th place nationally in the per pupil expenditures for elementary and secondary schools. The average for Minnesota is $358, the national median being $340. In state aids Minnesota is 18th from the top with $191, compared to a national median of $162.

Minnesota is not one of the rich states in terms of per capita wealth and income. We come close to being average. Geared, as we are, to an agricultural economy, the dollars have been a little harder to come by here than in some areas. On the basis of ability to pay we apparently have been very liberal in our expenditures for public education.

Restraint Needed

Much of the effort we put forth to deserve the confidence of people in the underdeveloped areas of the world, is lost by our own bungling of race problems here at home. Our own inability to find immediate solutions for these problems is proof of the difficulties that are involved in the many obstacles to reasonable adjustments, rather than to any lack of interest or good intent.

Only time will solve these problems. Patience and restraint will relieve the adjustment of some of its bitterness. But there must be patience and restraint on both sides, and a willingness to adjust differences gradually.

It now appears that a moderate civil rights bill will be adopted by the present Congress. Moderation is never acceptable to the extremists, and the measure that probably will be passed will be unsatisfactory to many. But the important thing is that some progress be made in the approach to civil equality. Once the right to equality is established, progress will be rapid.

Moses, Where Art Thou?

Democrat governors of ten north central states met last week in St. Paul for the purpose of organizing a new farm bloc and agreeing tentatively on a new farm program. The immediate aim of the group is to lobby for passage of the omnibus Poage bill, now before the House Agricultural committee.

The bill includes a grant of power to farmers to regulate their own production and marketing through federally supervised machinery, and provides for direct payments by the government when prices fall below certain levels.

There should be no difficulty in securing whatever enabling legislation may be necessary to permit producers to organize for the purpose of controlling their own production and marketing. The fruit growers have operated under such a law for many years. More recently, and in our own area, potato growers of the Red River Valley, agreed to self-imposed marketing controls.

That part of the proposed program would not be controversial. The problem would be to get the producers to agree nationally on what they wanted. There have been many advocates for controls of that kind for the dairy industry, but, so far, the producers have not been able to agree as to what would be best for them collectively.

Direct payments would be something else again. We do not know how the direct payments would be made under the Poage bill, but presumably the program would resemble the provisions of the Brannan plan.

If the ten governors who met in St. Paul will use their influence toward the securing of harmony among farm organizations, in the support of a better farm program, they will serve a good purpose. But if they approach the problem in terms of partisan considerations they probably will do nothing more than muddy the waters. It is unfortunate that the country has not produced one farm leader of sufficient capacity and integrity to command the respect of all farm groups.

Our Thanks, Nikita

While President Eisenhower was visiting our South American neighbors, Premier Khrushchev was being a good neighbor to the Indonesians. Reports have it that he offered Indonesia's President Sukarno an additional 250 million dollars credit providing he would promise to remain neutral. Some of our alarmists now think that we should respond by hurrying over to Indonesia with a better offer than that made by Comrade Nikita.

Rather than give President Sukarno more dollars we think it would be more appropriate to send Khrushchev a note of thanks for assuming a part of the responsibility of giving to the needy, with no strings attached, except a promise of neutrality. And we are quite sure that what he did for the Indonesians was much more offensive to his Chinese neighbors than it could possibly be to us.

Judging by our own experience in the role of Santa Claus, we doubt that the Russians will buy many real friends with their rubles. And we wouldn't pay any more for an interest in a Russian-built dam in Egypt than we would for a share of stock in what was the Anglo-French Suez Canal.

Uniformity Needed

In its current issue, Hoard's Dairyman points up the shortcomings of the bushel as a standard of measure and urges support for the adoption of the hundredweight as the national standard for measuring grain. There is a lack of uniformity now among the states as to the weight of a bushel and the hundredweight would be a far more satisfactory standard than what we now have. From Hoard's Dairyman we quote:

"It is estimated that millions of dollars would be saved in the years ahead if the changeover is effected. Studies conducted by the American Feed Manufacturers Association's purchasing agents show that at least 11 costly, time consuming conversions between bushel and hundredweight are required every time grain is sold from the farm to go into livestock feed or human consumption.

"The following are the minimum and maximum weights of bushels legalized by various state governments:

	lbs. per. bu. min.-max.
Barley	32-50
Buckwheat	40-56
Ear corn	68-72
Shelled corn	52-56
Cottonseed	28-44
Dried peaches	28-40
Rye	54-56

"There is a 56 per cent variation between the various states on the weight of a bushel of barley. We need unification between the states and the easiest way to get this would be to forget the bushel and trade on the basis of hundredweight.

"The final impetus necessary to affect this change might well come from the Association of State Departments of Agriculture which in recent months has taken a positive and forceful attitude on the importance of this matter to all of agriculture."

Golf in Russia?

(Milwaukee Journal)

From the Polish publication Slowo Powszechne (the Common Word) via the New York Times we learn that golf is no longer the butt of Communist ridicule as a childish capitalist pastime.

In fact, in their well publicized effort to overtake the West, the Russians have actually taken up the sport. The Polish paper avers that there are several new courses in the Crimea and that one will be ready near Moscow this spring on which "President Eisenhower will be able to try out the game he fancies."

It will surprise no one, we are sure, that now that the Reds have recognized golf, they find that Russians discovered it. Slowo Powszechne quotes Pravda as calling it a game which Russian shepherds played with enthusiasm almost a thousand years ago.

This will be interesting news to the editors of the Encyclopaedia Britannica. Their assiduous researchers credit the game to the Scotch and report the first mention of it in a 1457 decree of parliament, which complained that the people were becoming more interested in golf than in archery.

Past's Live Hand

(Washington Post and Times Herald)

A great epic in the history of archeology has now come full circle with the return of 94 priceless Mayan ornaments to Mexico, where they belong. We suspect that even their discoverer, Edward H. Thompson, would be gratified that a harmonious postscript has finally been written to a long and bitter quarrel. Thompson was one of those extraordinary 19th Century adventurers whose passion for the past led him into the jungles in quest of lost cities. Like Schliemann, who discovered Troy, Thompson staked his reputation on proving that an ancient myth had a core of historical truth.

The myth concerned a cenote, or sacrificial pool, in Chichen Itza, one of the great Mayan cities. In this pool, so the story went, beautiful maidens were thrown to their death, laden with jewels, as part of a pagan rite. Thompson, an archaeologist who had been appointed U.S. consul in Yucatan, bought the estate which included the cenote. He persuaded Yankee friends to put up the money for his search, and he undertook laborious diving lessons from a Greek sponge diver. Then, just about the turn of the century, he began delving in the pool—and lo! he found trinkets, skeletons and countless other relics mixed in the mud.

The only hitch was that he shipped his finds to Harvard's Peabody Museum before the Mexicans had a clear idea of what was going on. After extensive litigation, Mexican courts finally decreed that what Thompson had done was legal because the laws of the time did not adequately protect Yucatan's buried treasures. But times had changed, and the removal of the relics remained an irritant in Mexican American relations. Thanks to the good sense and generosity of Harvard, the jewels the Mayan maidens wore now will gleam with special splendor in Mexico's great archeological museum. Of such superficially small things is good will wrought between nations.

Borrowed Nonsense

Drink, said the Irish preacher, is the greatest curse of the country. It makes yer quarrel with yer neighbors. It makes yer shoot at yer landlord; and it makes yer miss him.

• • •

The origin of the bagpipe was being discussed, the representatives of different nations disclaiming responsibility for the atrocity. Finally an Irishman spoke up. "Well, I'll tell the truth about it," he said. "The Irish invented it and sold it to the Scotch as a joke; and the Scotch ain't seen the joke yet."

• • •

"Wot's this 'ere 'ome rule fer Ireland, Garge?"

"Well, it's like this 'ere: If my missus wants a new 'at, an' I tell 'er the old 'at looks fine an' she slings the kettle at me an' I buy a new 'at—well, that's wot 'ome rule is."

Ford Motor Company announces the Debut of the Comet
Today, at your Mercury-Comet dealer's, first compact car with fine-car styling —priced with or below other compacts.
You're looking at the exciting new value-packed compact—Comet.
NOTE ITS BEAUTIFUL STYLING. No sawed-off, cut-down look, here. The Comet is proportioned like a fine car—long flowing lines, outstanding good looks.
LOOK CLOSELY AT THE EXTRA FEATURES. You pay nothing more for dual headlights, front and rear arm rests, door-operated dome light, foam padded front seat. And the trunk holds enough for the whole family on a long trip.
YOU'LL MARVEL AT THE ECONOMY. Comet's new simplified "six" engine delivers up to 28 miles per gallon of regular gas.
YOU'LL REVEL IN THE RIDE. No choppy steering, no bumpy travelling in Comet. The longer wheelbase (114" instead of 107" in average compacts) gives Comet a smoother ride, yet it turns on a dime.
NOW, CHECK THE PRICE. Comet is priced with or below other compacts like Rambler, Corvair, Lark, Valiant and Falcon.
COMPARE ALL THE COMPACT CARS —and you'll come away with a Comet. It's now at your Mercury-Comet dealer's.

FINEST COMPACT WAGONS ON THE MARKET. The new Comet wagons go far beyond what you might expect in a compact station wagon of this size. There is over 76 cubic feet for storage—as much room as in some wagons costing hundreds of dollars more; a retractable rear window takes the place of the old-fashioned liftgate. And, there is ample room for six adults with plenty of space left over for baggage. Along with the Comet two- and four-door sedans, there are two- and four-door wagons as well.

Soo Line Board Ok's Proposal for Merger with Two Other Lines

A plan to merge the Minneapolis, St. Paul & Sault Ste. Marie (the Soo Line), the Duluth (the Soo Line), the Wisconsin Central and the Duluth South Shore & Atlantic Railroads was approved Tuesday in Minneapolis by the boards of directors of the three companies.

Board approval was announced by the presidents of the 3 roads — G. Allan MacNamara of the Soo Line, Edgar F. Zelle of the Wisconsin Central, and Leonard H. Murray of the DSS&A.

The merger plan contemplates the unification of the three lines into one railroad to be known as the Soo Line Railroad Company. Stockholders of the three companies of record April 8, 1960, will vote on the the merger proposal on May 17 at the Soo Line and Wisconsin Central annual meetings and at a special DSS&A meeting. Proxy material it is expected will be mailed about April 15. Upon approval by the stockholders, the merger proposal will be submitted to the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Merger studies have been conducted over the past 11 months. A merger of the three lines would be the first among major railroads in the Upper Midwest in recent history.

Unification of the three companies would, the study shows, "generate desirable savings, enhance financial and competitive strength and permit improved administrative and operating efficiencies for the benefit of security holders, shippers and the public."

Annual savings of at least $1,260,000 before federal income taxes are contemplated. An additional non-recurring saving of approximately $375,000 is foreseen. Cost of putting the merger into effect would be about $182,000. Some of the savings would be available shortly after the merger while others would occur gradually over a longer period.

Pointing out that competitive conditions demand efficiency and economy in the operation of the three properties, the study shows that "these properties after merger, can generate transportation service more economically and efficiently and with less facilities than they can separately. Unneeded and duplicating machinery, trackage and facilities can be eliminated. A stronger single carrier will emerge from the unification with one management instead of three to administer the properties."

The three roads have for a number of years coordinated many of their departments. The MStP&SSM is the operating agent for the Wisconsin Central. Certain departments of the MStP&SSM, such as accounting, purchases and stores, industrial and real estate, also serve the DSS&A under contract.

The new Soo Line Railroad Co. would have one class of common stock with no par value. A total of 1,265,909 shares would be outstanding. The MStP&SSM presently has 719,104 shares of common stock outstanding, the Wisconsin Central 207,955, and the DSS&A 210,000, for a total of 1,137,059. No preferred stock is outstanding.

MStP&SSM shares are traded on the New York Stock Exchange. Wisconsin Central shares are traded over-the-counter. DSS&A's stock is owned 100 per cent by the Canadian Pacific Railway company and is not traded.

Stock exchange ratios would be:

— One share of outstanding MStP&SSM common for one share of stock in the merged company.

— One share of outstanding Wisconsin Central common for 2.05 shares of stock in the merged company.

— One share of outstanding DSS&A common for .75 share of stock in the merged company.

Scrip certificates would be provided for fractional shares arising out of these exchange ratios.

Participation by each present company in the outstanding stock of the unified company would be: DSS&A, 12.4%; Wisconsin Central, 30.75%; MStP&SSM, 56.81%. The Canadian Pacific Railway company which has voting control of the stock of the three present companies would own a majority of the stock of the unified company. To become effective the merger plan must be approved by holders of the majority of the outstanding Wisconsin Central shares and by the holders of two thirds of the outstanding MStP&SSM and DSS&A shares as well as by the Interstate Commerce Commission.

Urge Purchase of More Duck Stamps

Wildlife Service Calls Them Good Investment

Minnesota game and fish officials have been asked to [illegible] their support to an Interior Department move to boost sagging "duck stamp" sales.

The U. S. Fish and Wildlife Service, governors and wildlife agencies of several states and private conservation organizations are seeking to promote sales of federal duck stamps as "investments for the future" even though the open gunning season for waterfowl has ended for the winter.

Under-secretary of Interior Bennett has announced the issuance of special certificates which will be given to duck stamp purchasers. Their $3 payments will be earmarked for the acquisition of waterfowl habitat.

The certificates bear the signature of Interior Secretary Fred A. Seaton and a special inscription citing the contributor for his part in providing funds for wetlands.

Duck stamp sales are reportedly down 23 per cent, at a time when stamp monies are urgently needed for the acquisition and development of duck habitat. The decline is due largely to the reduced hunting opportunities which prevailed over much of the country during the recent hunting seasons. A succession of dry years in important nesting areas resulted in serious declines in the population of practically all species. In the case of canvasbacks, redheads and ruddy ducks, the decline in population is dangerous.

Teens Are Dangerous Age Group in Traffic

The teens are dangerous years for Minnesota [illegible] and passengers, a summary of 1959 Minnesota traffic accidents revealed today. Of the 662 persons killed in traffic last year, 108, one out of six, were 15 through 19 years of age.

The same age group contains but 6.6 per cent of our population. Therefore the proportion of traffic deaths is two and one half times what might be expected in an age group that equals but one of sixteen persons.

This age group had the greatest number of injured persons as well. Of the 28,286 persons reported injured in traffic, 4,724 were 15 to 19 years old inclusive.

Although this age group had the greatest number of fatalities, persons of all ages died in Minnesota traffic. In preparing statistical records of traffic accident the Minnesota highway department has eleven age groupings. From zero to 24 years inclusive the age groups each contain five years. Over that, the ages are grouped by tens, with the last group 75 years and over.

The youngest group, 0 to 4 had the least number of fatalities—18, while the top group, over 75 had 44. Deaths were in double figures for all groups with 35 to 44 and 55 to 64 ages each having 88 deaths.

Pedestrian deaths were found in the opposite age groups. Almost 38 per cent of those who walked to their deaths were 65 years of age. Twenty six persons were between 65 and 74 with 18 pedestrians over 75 killed in traffic. In the younger group 15 pedestrians killed were between five and nine years of age.

The 1959 total of pedestrian deaths, 119, was highest since 1955 when 132 were killed. In 1956 and 1957 there were 111 pedestrian deaths, with 107 recorded in 1958.

Two Polk Co. Men in Plane Accident

Paul Linn, Albert Shimpa Hurt in Donaldson Mishap

Two Polk county men were injured Sunday morning when their light plane crashed on a farm east of Donaldson.

Paul Linn, Crookston, and Albert Shimpa, Euclid, were taken to a Karlstad hospital after their ski-equipped light plane apparently hit bare ground on landing.

Linn, who suffered a brain concussion and severe cuts about the head and face, walked about three quarters of a mile to the Larry Bogestad farm for help. Reports Monday said Linn is in good condition.

Shimpa received a fractured back, and was to be transferred to a Crookston hospital. He was reported in fair condition.

Tunberg Showing Comet Car Today

New Small Car Product of Ford Motor Company

The Comet, newest automobile of Ford Motor Company, brings high styling to the economy car field at a price lower than the "popular three."

The new car, with a longer wheelbase and smoother ride than other smaller cars, still is two to three feet shorter than standard size cars. It will go on sale at the Tunberg Motor Co. local Mercury Comet dealership today.

The Comet is designed to suit the needs of a one-car family and seats six comfortably. Although it is priced with the new smaller cars, it has a longer wheelbase for a better ride, plus vacation sized luggage capacity.

Powered with an economical 90 hp engine the Comet achieves excellent performance because of weight reduction and design simplification. Its engine, for example, is 32 per cent lighter and has 122 fewer parts than sixes used in standard sized cars.

Minneapolis Man Seeks Nomination for Lt. Governor

William J. Erickson, Minneapolis attorney and former counsel for the United States Senate Select Committee on Small Business, announced today that he would seek the Republican nomination as a candidate for Lt. Governor.

The Lieutenant Governor candidate spent most of 1957 and 1958 conducting hearings for the U.S. Senate Small Business Committee on the tax problems of small business. He drafted a report and bill for the senate committee which were enacted in large part in the Small Business Tax Adjustment of 1958.

Erickson noted that his experience "will enable me to help work towards a solution of the most serious problems facing Minnesota: the need for fiscal integrity and tax reform."

Did you ever notice that small children talk about God with a faith so simple, so beautiful that you cannot question its sincerity? Ask them why they like the rain, for instance, and they may answer, "Because God made it, so the flowers will grow."

Unlike grown-ups, children accept God's order without a doubt. They believe in his love for them as naturally as they get up with the daylight and go to bed with the dark.

In God's eyes, we are all children . . . His children. And what we adults have lost in the way of vision, in the way of faith, must be renewed and replenished with each day and advancing year. We, too, can find God again —and, often, ourselves as well—by going to church, by praying, and by accepting the love He stands so ready to give us.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

SNOBOY
Ideas to spark any meal

The Perfect SNOBOY Baked Potato

Wash and dry potatoes of uniform size. Bake in a hot oven (425° F.) 40 to 60 minutes or until tender. If you want the skin to be soft, rub a little grease on the potato before baking.

Cut a narrow gash in the skin of the baked potato on one side. Then pinch the potato so that some of the soft inside pops up through the opening. Drop in butter, meat drippings, bits of strip-cooked salt pork, or table fat. Serve first by baking potatoes when you oven-cook other food. If a moderate oven is called for, allow a little extra time for the potatoes to bake. (Potato skewers help potatoes bake quicker, more evenly.)

Stuffed—For an extra special, real treat, bake potatoes as directed above. Scoop out the insides. Mash; add butter and seasonings. Stir in hot milk and beat until fluffy and smooth. Stuff back into potato shells, brush top with melted butter, and brown in a hot oven.

For a main dish, add chopped leftover cooked meat or grated cheese.

Quick Mashed

Put 4 medium-sized hot cooked Snoboy potatoes. Mash thoroughly and quickly. Beat in hot milk a little at a time until potatoes are fluffy and smooth. Season with salt, pepper and butter. If desired, add finely chopped green pepper, pimiento, chives, or onion.

SNOBOY Potato Pancakes

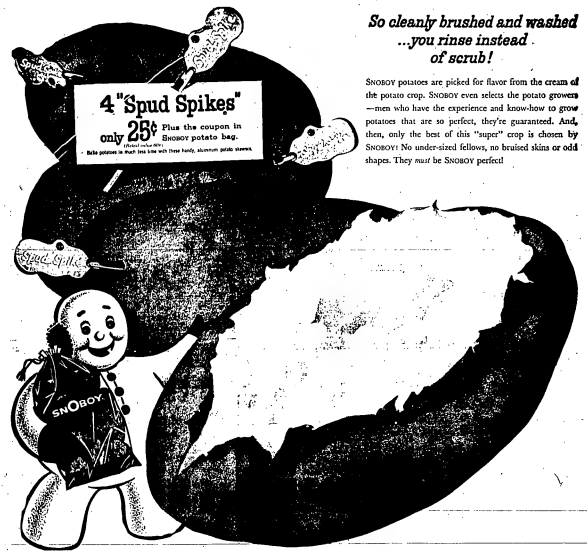
Grate 2 cups raw potatoes and put immediately into ¼ cup milk. Add 1 egg, beaten slightly, 1 tablespoon flour, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper and 1 tablespoon finely chopped onion. Drop from a tablespoon onto a greased frying pan. Cook until well browned and crisp on both sides. Serve hot.

Quick Potato Soup

2 cups cubed Snoboy potatoes, 2 tablespoons chopped onion, 2 tablespoons butter, 4½ cups boiling water, 4 cups milk, 4½ teaspoons salt, Pepper.

Cook potatoes, onion, and butter in the water until the potatoes are tender. Add the milk, salt, and pepper. Heat and serve.

SNOBOY Potato Salad



Use—Cook ¾ cup diced salt pork until crisp. Add ¾ cup vinegar, ¼ cup water, 1 tablespoon sliced chopped onion, and 1 quart cubed cooked potatoes. Season with salt and pepper. Heat well. Cold—Slice or dice cold cooked potatoes. Season with salt, chopped onion, and salad dressing. If desired, add sliced hard-cooked egg. (Serves six.)

Oh Boy!

SNOBOY POTATOES

So good they're guaranteed in writing!

So cleanly brushed and washed ...you rinse instead of scrub!

Snoboy potatoes are picked for flavor from the cream of the potato crop. Snoboy even selects the potato growers—men who have the experience and know-how to grow potatoes that are so perfect, they're guaranteed. And, then, only the best of this "super" crop is chosen by Snoboy! No under-sized fellows, no bruised skins or odd shapes. They must be Snoboy perfect!

Why there is no Potato like a SNOBOY

In the rich and fertile soil of the best potato-growing areas of Idaho, Oregon and the Red River Valley, these Snoboy potatoes thrive and grow to perfection. The blessings of sunshine and properly tended land join to produce them. And they're grown Snoboy perfect!

The expert Snoboy growers and field inspectors know when the moment of flavor and maturity arrives. At this precise moment they are dug and rushed to giant Snoboy storage-dryers where correct conditions instantly turn good Snoboys flavor.

When they're market-ready, they're sent off to be washed, two-weight-sacked and shipped on the delicate way. Next they're graded by hand. Only the perfect send for Snoboy are chosen. Small, too large and imperfect potatoes are culled out.

Now more speed, as Snoboy potatoes are rushed to your store. Snoboy potatoes must be at their flavor peak when you buy them and everything possible is done to make sure that's exactly how they are! Unless they're perfect when you get them ...they aren't Snoboys.

2 Steps Approved to Teachers' Pay Schedule

Salaries to Be as High as $6,950 for 13 Years of Service

The Thief River Falls board of education, at an adjourned meeting Saturday evening, voted to add two steps to the salary schedule for teachers with four or five years of training.

The board, meeting in conference with teachers committee composed of Dale Folger, chairman; Jon Steinacker, Ted Mills, Elode Grover, Laura Sylvester and Mrs. Agnes Hansen.

Under the new schedule as adopted, a teacher with a degree will receive $5,200 a year for the first two years training and one year experience in a position. A total of $6,950 for a teacher with five years training and 13 years of experience.

The schedule, which Supt. Irvin Ihlen-Hoffman stated is $200 above the current scale, calls for a teacher with three years training to start at $3,825; four years training, $4,000, and five years training, $4,200.

The board voted to continue the position of teacher selection director, now filled by Joe Iverson, for another year, starting the first of the year, a study will be made of the advisability of continuing the position of business manager. Supt. Ihlen-Hoffman explained the duties.

Due to the fact that the local schools will not offer a teacher training department next fall, the board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Ruth Lindstrom effective at the end of the current term.

The retirement cost is $8,000 and the township has $3,000 of that amount. The $5,000 involved for this year and succeeding years of $1,500 would be required for 1961. The proposal is for the approval of the township officers, the supervisors were Ralph Koop, Harry Orn and Lloyd Hanson. Clerk Arnold is the township clerk.

Growers Are Urged to Watch Wheat acreage to Get Price Support

"Watch your wheat acreage if you want price support on your 1960 crop," Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, urges wheat growers. This is particularly important for growers who have already planted winter wheat this spring.

Culkins points out that the total 1960 wheat acres must be within the farm's wheat acreage allotment if the crop is to be eligible for price support.

A grace period is provided for adjusting over-planted acreages of wheat, but destroying planted acreage is a waste of time and effort for the farmer as well as the office, so if the grower wants price support protection his best course is to hold his wheat plantings within the wheat allotment.

Excess wheat farms with more than 15 acres of wheat will be subject to a marketing quota penalty of 45 per cent of the wheat parity price as of May 1, 1960. Excess wheat is determined under three different methods.

No. 1) Producers with a zero allotment or no allotment at all who seed an acreage in excess of 15 acres and do not reduce the acreage to 15 acres will have excess wheat on the entire acreage.

No. 2) In cases where the producer has an allotment under 15 acres on his farm, but seeds an acreage in excess of 15 acres, his excess will be determined by deducting the allotment from the seeded acreage.

No. 3) On farms with allotments larger than 15 acres the excess will also be that acreage above the allotment.

Example No. 1: Seeded 16 acres, allotment 0.0 acres: the excess subject to penalty will be 16 acres.

Example No. 2: Seeded 16 acres, allotment 12 acres: the excess subject to penalty will be 4 acres.

Example No. 3: Seeded 20 acres, allotment 19.5 acres: the excess subject to penalty will be .5 acre. This farm will also be denied price support on all the wheat produced on the 20 acres.

WHAT A TV SET COST 25 YEARS AGO
If someone complains that a television set costs more today than it did 25 years ago, you'd lift an eyebrow. A quarter-century back, there were no televison sets to be had at any price. The same logic applies to the statement that "prescriptions cost more today than they used to cost." The drugs you now get didn't even exist until recent years. So the benefits these drugs bring . . . the rapid cures, the lives saved . . . could not be bought at any price. That's why we say . . .

Local Man Absolved in Marshall Co. Suit

A verdict of $500 for the plaintiffs, William Kathman and minor son Gary Kathman in a suit against the Marshall county Agricultural association was awarded by the petit jury at 3:15 a.m. March 12 after four days of court trial which ended at Warren at 6:17 p.m. Friday, according to Edwin K. Rokke clerk of court.

The jury absolved from damages the Northwest Racing Association and Dale Sevre of Thief River Falls who were also defendants in the suit.

Trial of the case was started last Tuesday afternoon after the jury had been impaneled in the forenoon. The plaintiffs had brought suit for $20,000 and in his final argument to the jury, Lyman Brink, plaintiff attorney from Hallock sought to recover from $810 to $860 for William Kathman and $2,000 to be put in trust of the court for Gary Kathman.

Warren A. Saetre of Saetre and Myhre, Warren, represented the fair association and Robert Wurst of Thief River Falls represented the Racing Association and Dale Sevre, all defendants in the action.

Gary Kathman was struck by a wheel which came off a racing car during the race program on July 19, which resulted in a broken leg for the 16 year old boy. Results of the action held that there was negligence on the part of the fair association in not providing sufficient protection for people who attempted to see the race from a restricted area located south of the race track.

The jury award gave William Kathman $350 for payment of medical and hospital expenses for the son and $150 for Gary Kathman.

Following the trial Judge J. T. Galarneault of Aitkin whose chambers are at Brainerd, adjourned the term until March 23 for the resumption of jury action. There are three cases left to be tried, said Rokke.

All was quiet on city streets this weekend, despite heavier-than-usual traffic due to spring-like weather which brought out scores of motorists.

The crunch of metal against metal was not heard in the streets and the only mishap police had to report today was damage amounting to about $45 to Ormond Johnson's car when an unknown driver struck it a glancing blow while Johnson was parked on the south edge of the Legion parking lot between 8 p.m. and midnight Friday.

Hubcap collectors are still busy here also, with [illegible] reported stolen from a local citizen over the weekend.

Mud River Watershed Steering Committee Discusses Problems

Members of the steering committee of the Mud River Watershed met recently with Erling Wieberg, watershed conservationist for the state conservation committee, to discuss their job in promoting the Mud River Watershed. Many questions were brought up for discussion, such as: Where the main channels would be located? Where the impounding structures, if any, would be located? How the cost would be divided? What the final costs would be? Where the watershed boundaries were located?

"The number and variety of questions," Wieberg said, "indicated the complexity of the problem. The answers are not now available but will be sought by the watershed planning party when they start gathering information for the watershed."

The watershed planning party, Mr. Wieberg pointed out, would include engineers, economists, and geologists from the state office of the Soil Conservation Service. They would gather information about the general lay of the land, the probable best land use of different portions of the area, the suitability for drainage of the present ditch system, possible water storage sites, possible sites for wildlife and forestry developments, the costs of the project to local people and to the government, the benefits which would accrue to local people as well as to the area in general, and the ability of the local people to pay for such a project.

"As this information is gathered," Wieberg stated, "the watershed steering committee would then be asked to make decisions regarding what, where, and how the various phases of the project can be fitted together for the common good. The end result is that the final plan will be written by the Mud River Watershed steering committee based on the best information that the watershed planning party can supply them."

"It cannot be too strongly emphasized," Wieberg said, "that these watershed projects are local projects planned by local people to fit local conditions."

Members of the Mud River Watershed steering committee are Oliver Howland, Lyndon Magnuson, Alton J. Anderson, Lehart Stock, Peter Aune, Sophus Bjertness, Sam Brattell, Henry Holte, and Adolph Erickson.

Argyle Loses to Prowlers in 1st Tilt of Regional

Playing two periods of good basketball, the second, in which they scored 23 points, and the fourth, in which they outpointed Argyle, 15-9, coach Hartley Story's Prowlers defeated the Argyle Eagles of district 32 in a first round Region Eight basketball tournament game at Grand Forks, winning by a 62-53 score.

In the second game on Thursday night's bill, and which proved to be one of the finest tilts ever played in regional competition, the defending regional champion Bemidji Lumberjacks edged out the Ada Vikings of district 30, 58-56, in a double-overtime game. The two teams were deadlocked, 54-54, at the end of the regulation time, and in the first overtime period, a three minute session, each team tallied a field goal to force a "sudden death" overtime period. In this second overtime period, Bemidji, setting up the play neatly, scored the game-winning points on John Phillips' layup shot after taking a hook pass from Bob Glas.

In the Prowlers vs. Eagles game, coach Loran Eickhoff's Argyle team, playing a hustling style of ball, sprinted into a 15 to 8 lead midway in the first period. The Prowlers, on a pair of field goals by Ron Hanson, who collected four two-pointers in the period, and Steve Embury's field goal, pared the Eagles' lead to 17-14 at the end of the quarter.

Don Ulferts drove in for lay-up basket to open the second period's scoring. Argyle's Gary Myhre looped in a long shot, and the Eagles again held a 3 point lead. Ron Hanson, who gained the high point honors, tapped in a rebound, and Ulferts scored on a jump shot, giving the Prowlers a 20-19 lead with 6:30 of the period to play. Embury found the net from the lane, and the Prowlers were on their way to open up a point spread. When Eddie Lietzow and Bob Pearson notched field goals just before the period's end, the Prowlers gained a 37-30 advantage at the intermission.

The Eagles, with guard Wayne Swanson turning in a fine all-round performance, leading the Argyle attack, outpointed the Prowlers, 14-10, in the third period, and trailed by three points, 47-44, at the end of the period.

Opening the final eight minutes of play, Swanson scored two points on free throws, and when Don Pagnac added two points on free throws, the Eagles held a 48-47 lead with 6:30 to play. Ron Solheim, from the left side of the court, dropped a field goal into the west basket. Hanson taking a pass from Wayne Bjerken, drove in for layup, and then followed with a rebound shot, giving the Prowlers a 55-48 lead. Swanson hit on a field goal for the Eagles, slicing the Prowler lead, 55-50, with three minutes to play. Four free-throw points, with Hanson marking up three points and Bjerken adding a point, gave the Prowlers nine-point cushion, 59-50, with 1:30 to play.

In the game's final minute, the teams exchanged field goals and free throws, maintaining the Prowlers nine-point margin.

Hanson, with 24 points, and Embury, with 10 points, were the Prowlers to score in double figures. The Argyle scoring leaders were Swanson, with 21 points and Myhre, with 13 points, the Eagles' fine pair of guards.

Prowlers Tip Bemidji 60-53 to Win Region

Turning in a tremendous team effort, coach Hartley Story's Prowlers ended the Bemidji Lumberjacks' seven year reign as regional basketball champions by scoring a 60-53 win over Bemidji on Friday night in the finals of the Region Eight tourney played on the UND fieldhouse court in Grand Forks. It marked the first time since 1939 that the Prowlers had won the Region Eight cage title.

The Prowlers will meet Austin of Region One in a first round state tournament game at 3:30 on Thursday afternoon in the Williams fieldhouse on the University of Minnesota campus in Minneapolis.

Except for the opening minutes of the first period when Bemidji on field goals looped into the west basket by Bob Glas and Larry Higgins, jumped into a 4-0 lead, the Prowlers, playing an exceptionally strong game on defense, controlled the tempo of the game. The locals, on field goals by Bob Pearson, Don Ulferts, and Ron Hanson gained a 6-5 lead after four minutes of play. Lee Fawbush notched a Bemidji free throw to even the score at 6-all, but field goals by Hanson and Ulferts moved the Prowlers into a lead they never relinquished. The Prowlers held a 15-13 lead at the end of the period.

A strong second period, during which the Prowlers outpointed the defending champions, 18-13, and outscoring the Jacks from the field, seven field goals to four field goals, gave the locals a 33-26 lead at the intermission.

The third period proved to be the "insurance" period for the Prowlers as coach Story's team rolled over the Jacks for 14 points while limiting Bemidji to but five free-throw points. The Prowlers opened the second half of play by scoring four field goals and a free throw, for a 42-26 lead, before Bemidji, on Glas's free throw, marked up a point on the scoreboard. The Prowlers held a 47-31 lead as the two teams reached the one-minute break before the start of the final eight minutes of play.

In the fourth period Embury, on a rebound, scored to give the Prowlers an 18-point lead, 49-31. Higgins tossed in a Bemidji field goal, only to have Pearson answer with a two-pointer for the Prowlers. Glas and Higgins scored field goals, and the scoreboard was showing 5:57 to play and the tally at 51-37 for the Prowlers. Pearson scored a field goal, and Hanson added a pair of points on Higgins' fifth foul.

Bemidji, with an all-court press proving effective in hampering the Prowlers in bringing the ball up-court, scored three field goals and a pair of free throws to slice the locals' lead to ten points, 55-45, with three minutes to play. With the score at 57-49 and 1:30 to play, Ulferts drove in for a layup shot, and when fouled on the play, added the point to give the Prowlers a 60-49 lead. Mike Barclay and John Phillips scored final-minute field goals for Bemidji, paring the game score to 60-53 for the Prowlers.

The Prowler forward line of Bob Pearson, Don Ulferts and Ron Hanson accounted for 48 points, scoring 14, 15, and 19 points respectively. Steve Embury, who did a stellar job in directing the Prowlers, and who came back into the game after suffering a turned left ankle early in the second period, hit on four field goals. Sophomore Wayne Bjerken, who entered the game with 3:55 left to play in the second period when Eddie Lietzow picked up his fifth foul, added two field goals.

All of the Bemidji players who entered the game marked up points, with Phillips, Higgins, and Glas reaching "double figures."

The Stuff Memories Are Made of

The 1959-60 Prowlers added a glorious page to Lincoln high school basketball history on Friday night when they defeated a strong and heavily-favored Bemidji Lumberjack team, 60 to 53, to win the Region Eight cage title. And the Prowlers hope to "author" another page of history this week as they move into the 48th annual Minnesota state high school basketball tournament. Playing the brand of ball they exhibited against the Lumberjacks, the Prowlers are capable to providing the state tournament fans with some surprises and "upsets".

We're sure that the crowd of fans that attended the regional finals at Grand Forks on Friday night will long remember the Prowlers' win over Bemidji; and we're sure that the Prowler players will always remember that game. It was the kind of game that will become more vivid for the Prowlers as the years skip past. And it will make for much enjoyable conversation as the boys gather for reunions in later life.

What made the winning of the regional championship of particular relish to this season's squad was that it was won from the defending champion Bemidji Lumberjacks. The win snapped a seven-year streak of regional cage crowns by Bemidji, and it also snapped an 18-game winning streak that the Jacks had held over the locals.

Not the least surprising of Friday night's accomplishment was the manner in which the Prowlers racked up their victory. The Prowlers had such control of the game during the third period and the opening minutes of the fourth that they were able to build up, and maintain, an 18-point lead. And to hold the vaunted Bemidji scoring attack to but five free-throw points in the third period, well, that's a "believe it or not".

And so the Prowlers of 1959-60 — Steve Embury, Bob Pearson, Ron Hanson, Dave Hauswirth, Don Ulferts, Eddie Lietzow, Ron Solheim, Wayne Bjerken, Gary Anderson, Darrell Nelson, Elton Hornseth, and Harvey Ebbighausen — will join the Prowlers of 1932 — Wendell Kielty, Arnold Stadum, Lawrence Nicholson, Ing Hendrickson, John Ward, Ed Proseth, and Paul Dehl; the Prowlers of 1937 — Bud Nelson, Milt Nesse, Don Lorentson, Roy Lee, Clark Mickelson, Gordy Caldis, Bones Stadum, and Lenny Hellquist; the Prowlers of 1938 — Roy Lee, Don Lorentson, Bones Stadum, Jack and Rube Mickelson, Earl Nicholson, Red Elde, Gordy Caldis, Mel Haughom and Perry Pederson; and the Prowlers of '39—Earl Nicholson, Bones Stadum, Wayne Bredeson, Red Elde, Rube Mickelson, Bob Kielty, Cliff Lunke, Len Furuseth, and Austin Shanahan as Region Eight cage champions. That's a select group; and next week we hope to include the 1960 Prowlers with the Prowlers of 1932 and 1938, as state champions.

Not the First Time

Questions were asked, following the Prowlers winning of the regional basketball championship on Friday, if it was the first time that a school had been represented in the state tournament in hockey and basketball in the same year. No it isn't.

In 1946 the Roseau Rams won the regional hockey title, and then added the regional basketball championship. And we believe it was only a couple of years ago that Minneapolis Roosevelt had entries in the hockey and basketball tournaments in the same year.

Honors for Wennberg

Prowler hockey center Dale Wennberg and varsity coach Gene Sack will be in attendance at the WCCO Radio Awards dinner to be held Saturday afternoon at the Coffman Memorial Union on the University of Minnesota campus. Wennberg was named to the WCCO radio all state hockey squad for 1959-60.

The WCCO squad is as follows: forwards — Jimmy Ross, Duluth East; Marinus Van Putten, Eveleth; Rich Brown, South St. Paul; and Bill Ramsey, Minneapolis Breck; centers — Dale Wennberg, Thief River Falls, and Larry Stordahl, Roseau; defensemen — George Gould, Minneapolis Washburn; Donald Laine, Minneapolis Henry; Don Ross, Roseau; and Duggie McLellan, St Paul Harding; and goalie, Steve Nash, Minneapolis Southwest.

The WCCO radio all-state basketball squad will also be present at the awards dinner on Saturday. The only player from Region Eight to be named to the 13-man squad was Bemidji's Bob Glas.

Miscellany

A rumor, apparently well-founded, is being given circulation hereabouts to the effect that Doug Tegtmeier, the capable and popular KTRF sports director and announcer, is leaving the local station to accept a position with KNOX TV in Grand Forks. According to reports, the official announcement will be released by the Grand Forks station sometime early next month. Doug will replace Jack French on the KNOX TV staff. French, who is convalescing from a siege of illness, has been given orders by his doctor to retire from the active telecasting field. Well, the Grand Forks station will be getting a good one when Doug moves over there . . . Bob Peters, who will graduate from North Dakota U this spring, has been signed to a contract by the East Grand Forks high school and will be coach of the Green Wave hockey squad next season. Peters, a native of Fort Frances, where he was a star goalie in juvenile and junior hockey will replace Rudy Slupski as East Grand Forks hockey mentor. Peters, when he enrolled at North Dakota U some years ago, was expected to be a fixture in the nets for the hockey Sioux, but he was declared ineligible. The charges against Peters were to the effect that he had attended a tryout camp conducted by the Detroit Red Wings and that he had accepted a sum of money to cover his expenses. It's to Bob's credit that he continued with his college studies. Peters will be inheriting a promising squad of East Grand Forks hockey players.

Samson wasn't the only one whose strength lay in the hair of his head. World Book Encyclopedia says a good head of hair is so strong it can support a weight of more than 2,000 pounds.

25 Jr. Sportsmen to Join New Club

Organization Meeting to Be Held Shortly

Approximately 25 youths in the 12-15 age bracket were signed up for the junior sportsmen's club at a meeting held before the regular monthly meeting of the Pennington County Sportsmen's club at the auditorium Tuesday evening.

An organizational meeting of the junior sportsmen will be held at a later date, according to Gay Warnecke, secretary of the PCSC.

Only one of three films scheduled for the meeting arrived but the large attendance at the meeting highly enjoyed "Letter From Alaska," a scenic film about the 49th state.

Area conservation projects were discussed by the group after the film and Herb Dill, Mud Lake refuge manager explained the conservation league and also the importance of conserving our water resources.

A lunch was served after the meeting.

White House Parley on Youth to Open in Washington March 27

When President Eisenhower issued a call to all states to participate in the Golden Anniversary White House Conference on Children and Youth, in Washington March 27 through April 2 Governor Freeman requested his advisory council on children and youth under the chairmanship of District Judge Theodore B Knudson of Minneapolis to assume this responsibility for Minnesota.

This Advisory Council had been functioning continuously since its creation in 1948. It includes nearly 400 Minnesotans who make up sixteen ongoing committees relating to the several major areas of vital interest to the state's young people.

In preparing Minnesota's report for the White House Conference, the material developed by these sixteen committees was combined with report from each department serving children and youth, those departments of the University which have primary interest in our young people, from state colleges, private colleges, several private youth agencies, and from 202 community reports covering every city and town of 250 population or more.

The 56-page final report forwarded to the president indicates many Minnesota advances since the 1950 White House Conference.

The population of our state has increased by 400,000 to 3,400,000; one-half of this increase is in the 0-19 age group, 36 per cent of our entire population is under 20 years of age.

The number of school pupils climbed from 197,000 in 1956 to 670,000 in 1960. Between 1950 and '58, $295 million went into school building. Of 7606 school district in 1947, 2825 were left in 1959. In 1937, 18 per cent of those reaching fifth grade completed high school, in 1958 80 per cent. School facilities have been adapted to children of limited ability and those who are otherwise handicapped. Area vocational schools have been developed. Driver training for school children has been made a part of the curriculum of over 500 schools as compared with 177 a decade ago.

Gains in health services are likewise indicated. Immunization programs for children have been widely extended. In 1950 there were 58 pediatricians in Minnesota, in 1960, 138. Fifty-three communities now participate in a fluoridation program first endorsed by the Minnesota State Department of Health in 1950. During this period infant mortality dropped from seven in 10,000 to three in 10,000. Deaths from tuberculosis decreased from 13.6 per 100,000 to 3.1.

All social services for families, including counseling, income maintenance, day care for children, and the many other needs of many people have been extended and improved by the State Department of Public Welfare, County Welfare Boards, and private agencies.

Since the legislature provided for establishing local mental health clinics with matching state funds, thirteen such clinics have been set up, with two more to follow shortly. Funds have been provided for a new state-administered study center for disturbed children, also a hospital for psychotic youngsters which has been very badly needed.

Private child-care institutions tend to specialize in the treatment of children having specific and exceptional needs as contrasted with simply giving children a place to live and grow up as was generally the case not too long ago. Adoptions have been greatly extended.

A new Juvenile Court Code was adopted by the Legislature in 1959 after long months of study. Qualifications for Juvenile Court Judges had been legislatively established earlier in the decade.

During this period much greater emphasis has been placed on training police officers who deal primarily with juveniles. An annual three-day institute attests the earnestness of this group, while a ten-week course has been established at the University for such officers as are able to devote a longer period to special training.

Detention facilities for juveniles awaiting investigation or court hearings, are getting more and more consideration. New detention homes have been built in Minneapolis and St. Paul. The state has shown ever greater concern for delinquent young people, and since 1950 has established four forestry camps, provided for a new diagnostic center, and in many ways extended the facilities of the Youth Conservation Commission. In 1959 the legislature established a Department of Corrections, combining in a single unit all state services for adult offenders as well as delinquents and youthful offenders.

Recreation programs have been tremendously increased, with schools and other existing facilities being used more and more to meet the recreational needs of children and youth.

The seventh Governor's statewide Conference on Children and Youth will be held at the St. Paul Hotel May 9-10, when the further findings of the White House Conference will be made available to our interested citizens, and where we can start developing plans for the next decade.

OUTSTANDING TRIO. Princess Kay of the Milky Way, Betty Jax of Adams, plays a lively polka for Minnesota's newly-named Outstanding Young Farmer, Herman Natwick of Ada, Minn. A dance with his pretty wife is Natwick's first official act after winning the sixth annual Jaycee Outstanding Young Farmer award at a dinner and dance held March 12 in New Ulm, Minn. The 33-year-old Natwick, who operates a 430-acre diversified farm in northwestern Minnesota's Norman County, was cited for achievements in 16 years of farming and for his community service. Runners-up in this year's competition are Clarence Purfeerst, 34, Faribault, and Allen D. Johnson, 35, Blooming Prairie. Natwick will represent Minnesota in the national Outstanding Young Farmer selection to be held at Bakersfield, Calif., in April. Princess Kay, Minnesota's "First Lady of Agriculture," is a speaker at the Jaycee's state OYF event each year.

DID YOU KNOW that the most dangerous place in a car is the right front seat? If you're in that spot and see that an accident is inevitable, place your forearms against the dashboard and pillow your head against them. In that position you'll be less likely to be flung into the metal front or thrown through the windshield . . . Have a silly: The permanent guest at a prison frantically summoned a guard, pointed to the rain pouring in through the roof and growled, "Hey, this pen leaks."

GOOD IDEA: Save those plastic vegetable bags for storing nails, bolts and the like. Makes for a quicker, easier selection . . . If you're planning a trip to Europe, it's time to brush up on your arithmetic. A good way to practice is to make a list of the clothes you'd like to take and another list of the money you want to spend. Divide the first list in half and multiply the second by two . . . One of life's little irritations is coming upon paper napkins stuffed so tightly into metal containers that you can't get one out without tearing it . . . A gun is still called a gat because of the Gatling gun.

MACHINES FASCINATE ME . . . they've got one on the Iron Range, near Hibbing, that takes a prize for size. It's a tremendous dragline, used to strip away dirt and rock to uncover the iron ore. It weighs more than 1,200 tons and stands 48-feet high, not counting its boom. Despite its weight, this dragline moves—it walks, taking giant, 7½ foot steps at a time. They need big machines like this in the iron mining business—machines with a price tag that's big, too.

MEMO TO THE WOMEN: What do you think is your husband's greatest defect? That question recently was put to thousands of Frenchwomen and the majority answered "egotism." Next in line was that the husband didn't shave enough. After that came "too much interest in sports." Only 12 per cent of the French wives questioned complained of infidelity . . . On the heels of that, have a verse: Shake hands forever, cancel our vows. Forget all our kisses, remember our rows. Start fresh tomorrow, love someone new. I know that I can't—sweetheart, can you?

Asks Support for Water Conserving

State Chairman Calls for Observance of Week

Citizens interested in public welfare for the future can do much by supporting water conservation programs, according to Roger Preuss, chairman of the Minnesota observance of National Wildlife Week.

National Wildlife Week, sponsored annually by the National Wildlife Federation and its affiliates, including the Minnesota Conservation Federation, is being observed March 20-26 this year and features water conservation. Slogan for the observance is: "Water—Key to Your Survival".

"Water shapes the pattern of our living customs," the chairman declared. "We cannot produce food and many of the materials for our clothing and shelter without it. The availability of water supplies determines locations of cities, farms and industries. Water provides power, navigational channels and recreation for millions. Water is a resource which should be the concern of every citizen, particularly in view of mounting demands for it that we face as a result of our rapidly increasing population."

U. S. refiners will have to spend $112.5 million in 1960 just to maintain existing plant facilities.

State Grew Fastest Between 1860 & 1900

Ten years of population change in Minnesota will be measured by the 18th decennial census of the United States to be conducted in April by the Bureau of the Census, Department of Commerce. The new statistics will bring forward the information last collected in the 1950 census.

In 1860, the first year Minnesota was enumerated in a federal census as a state, it had a population of 172,023. In 1950, 90 years later, its population was about 17 times as large—2,982,483.

Figures compiled by the Census Bureau show the state grew rapidly between 1860 and 1900 reaching a population of 1,751,394, more than 10 times as large as in 1860. Thereafter, the rate of growth slackened. In the 20th century the largest numerical increase and rate of growth came in the decade 1900 to 1910. The gain of 190,183 between 1940 and 1950 represented a growth of 6.8 per cent over the 2,792,300 persons enumerated in 1940.

The 1950 urban population of Minnesota numbered 1,624,914 persons, or 54.5 per cent of the population of the State. The urban population was living in the 91 urban places in the state and in other territory included in the urban fringe of Minneapolis St Paul and the Minnesota part of the urban fringe of the Duluth Superior area.

The rural population of Minnesota comprised 1,357,567 persons, or 45.5 per cent of the population of the state. Of the rural population, 197,003 persons or 11.5 per cent were living in the 126 incorporated places and the one unincorporated place of 1,000 to 2,500 inhabitants.

The counties in Minnesota ranged in size from Cook with a population of 2,900 to Hennepin with a population of 676,579. Between 1940 and 1950, 38 of the 87 counties in Minnesota increased in population, 48 lost population, and one had no change in population. In the previous decade all but four of the counties had had increases. Four fifths of the increase for the state between 1940 and 1950 was accounted for by Hennepin and Ramsey counties, which had increases of 107,680 and 15,397, respectively.

In 1950 there were 782 incorporated places (cities, villages and one borough) in Minnesota. There were 2,017,720 persons living in the incorporated places, 410,274 of whom were in the 691 places with fewer than 2,500 inhabitants. The incorporated places ranged in size from Island View with a population of 18 to Minneapolis city with a population of 521,718.

Minton Oats Does Well in First Year

Newly Developed Variety Has Many Good Qualities

Minton oats made a good showing in Minnesota last summer — the first year the new variety was available to seed growers.

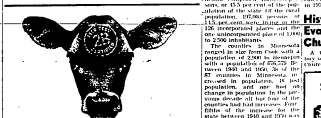
In spite of hazards, many seed growers reported extremely good yields, according to Harley Otto, extension agronomist at the University of Minnesota. Some yields went over 100 bushels of cleaned seed per acre.

The variety was developed by the University's agricultural experiment station. In University tests, Minton yielded better than most varieties and as well as many that mature later.

Minton is a mid-season variety, earlier than Ajax, Garry and Rodney, but later than Andrew and Minhafer. It has medium lodging resistance, medium plant height and low bushel weight.

It has good resistance to stem rust, leaf rust, and smut. Minton also resists Septoria, a leaf disease found in parts of Minnesota, and has moderate resistance to red leaf, a virus disease carried by green bugs which caused large losses in the state in 1959.

History of the Evang. Lutheran Church to Appear



A two volume, 800 page history of the Evangelical Lutheran Church (ELC) will be published this spring by Augsburg Publishing House, Minneapolis.

It is being brought out in conjunction with the constituting convention of a new church body at Minneapolis April 22-24. On January 1 1961 the ELC will lose its identity as it merges with American Lutheran Church and United Evangelical Lutheran Church to form the American Lutheran Church.

The story of ELC beginnings, its life and growth over a period of 135 years is the story told in "The Lutheran Church Among Norwegian Americans."

Authors of the two volume history are Dr E. Clifford Nelson and Dr Eugene L. Fevold, of Luther Theological Seminary, St. Paul, Minn. Dr Nelson and Dr Fevold co-authored the first volume, spanning the period 1825-1890, and Dr. Nelson wrote the second, covering 1890 to the present.

"It is a great pleasure to do something you are good at. It is a small but [illegible] one to do something you are [illegible]. Last summer I cleaned an outdoor catch basin, removing from it the conglomerate evidence of a violent winter and spring. I did it awkwardly, slowly, doubtless stupidly, but with a peculiar satisfaction, richer in certain ways than the satisfaction I get in writing this essay, which is a job I know I can handle with passable competence."
—Clifton Fadiman

We Liked the Winter

Spring arrived officially yesterday and this is one year that we are able to bid a fond farewell to winter. Hereabouts the three months of winter have been mild and storm-free, and we have no fault to find with the record.

Now, having a great deal of respect for the law of averages, our hope is that this winter compensated for past extremes and that we will not now be called upon to suffer in payment for a season that has been exceptionally fine.

Alaska's Headache

A year ago the good people of Alaska celebrated their admission to the Union as a state. Now some of them are wondering if it really was worth while. As a territory Alaska was a ward of the United States and the federal government was a liberal provider.

With statehood came responsibility, and the government of Alaska is having difficulty finding the tax revenues needed for the administration of its far-flung empire. Alaska is one-fifth the size of the entire United States.

Alaska probably will get a little special consideration from Congress to meet emergency needs. Maybe one solution would be to reduce the size of the state to that portion of it that is inhabited and let the vast undeveloped and uninhabited regions revert to the territorial status. That probably would have been a more realistic approach to statehood in the first place.

Cuban Sugar

President Eisenhower isn't going to get the power he asks for in dealing with Cuba's sugar quota, according to some observers. Congress is not likely to give him the right to reduce that quota and distribute it to our own and beet growers, taking the position that diplomatic relations, as expressed by Representative Cooley of North Carolina, chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, should not be "injected into the farm program."

The present Sugar Act dates back to 1934 and gives preferential tariff treatment, and a large share of the American sugar market, to Cuba and the Philippines. Maybe the entire problem is due for an overhauling. It is quite evident that our heavy subsidy of the sugar industry in Cuba has not brought us friendship or respect.

The Rise and Fall

A report from Moscow to the New York Times states that the Soviet Communist party now has 8,017,000 members, an increase of 467,000 since January of 1959. The report indicates that there is concern in official circles about the fitness for membership of many of those recently admitted. There is fear of a departure from true Marxist principles and a need for better discipline and training.

It is nice to know that they have a few things to worry about too. In our country we are drifting to the left and the welfare state. More and more we are shifting our individual responsibilities to the government. Rugged individualism is no longer a respected virtue.

In the Soviet the drift is to the right and greater individual responsibility. Workers are given production incentives and special merit is rewarded. Accumulation of the means for enjoying some of the better things of life is not frowned upon.

The rise and fall of nations is an interesting study, and it probably would be more interesting if the processes could be observed from a comfortable chair on the sidelines.

No Confidence

In commenting on the Geneva conference, the Financial Post of Toronto, Canada, thinks that experience justifies skepticism about results. With that observation we can all concur. It concludes that "if this conference bogs down—the great public will have doubts about the sincerity of at least some of the men taking part."

That too is a reasonable observation. But basically, the conference will fail, probably because of a lack of confidence in the sincerity of the other fellow. As long as neither side has confidence in the sincerity of the fellow across the table there probably will be little progress.

And the lack of confidence is understandable.

Boosting the Minimum

Advocates of a higher minimum wage law probably mean well. Many of them no doubt are sincere in believing that our economy would be strengthened if the proposed $1.25 per hour were adopted.

Following through with that kind of wishful thinking, if we would be stronger with a $1.25 an hour minimum, then we would be still better off if we boosted the minimum to $1.50, and all of our problems [illegible] if we doubled the minimum to $2.50. Unfortunately the problem is not that simple.

Any boost in the minimum will gradually result in a boost in wages at all levels, and the higher cost of labor will be added to the cost of doing business. We will pay that added cost in the higher prices that will be charged for goods and services.

That kind of tinkering would not be too serious if we were doing business only with ourselves. But an important factor in our economy is our trade with other nations, and to sell our products in foreign markets we must remain competitive.

And above all else we must remain solvent. Essential to remaining solvent is a stable dollar in which there must be worldwide confidence. More inflation could weaken that confidence and put us into serious trouble. Quoting from the Magazine of Wall Street:

"The United States has become the banker to a large part of the world. Foreign holdings of short-term dollar assets, which the Morgan Guaranty Survey calls the "demand deposits" of an international banking system, amount to 19 billion dollars, or nearly the amount of the American gold reserve."

A loss of confidence in the stability of the American dollar could result in a run on our gold that would quickly distribute our Fort Knox holdings throughout the world.

Foreign Doctors

Seven thousand graduates of foreign medical schools were examined Wednesday to qualify as internes and residents in United States hospitals, the New York Times reports. Their command of English and their professional competence were evaluated by their responses to 300 multiple-choice questions, plus a half-hour written case history of a theoretical patient.

According to the Times report:

"Mounting concern for the quality of medical care in the nation's hospitals spurred professional interest in the examination of foreign graduates. In the year 1958-59 their number here had risen to 8,392 as residents and internes, largely because of a reported shortage of American college graduates in a rising population.

"The country's 85 medical colleges produced 6,860 graduates last year, but there were 12,887 interneships available. Foreign graduates filled the deficit.

"During the last academic year a total of 3,1009 physicians were here from the Far East, 1,737 from Latin America, 1,331 from the Middle East and 1,480 from Europe."

This is a shameful record. Our medical schools should be developing enough physicians and surgeons to help meet the reasonable needs not only of our own country but of the many backward areas of the world as well. Instead of that we are drawing on the schools of other nations to meet our own requirements, while we deny to thousands of our own young people the opportunity to qualify for these essential services.

Our own University of Minnesota probably is typical of American medical schools in this, what must be looked upon as planned scarcity. Minnesota taxpayers have paid out many millions of dollars to expand the University's medical school facilities but the number of physicians graduated each year is held down to about the same total as that of 30 years ago. A great fraud has been perpetrated on the people of our state.

Pioneer V

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Man's capacity for quickly accepting marvels as commonplace has been demonstrated in sputniks and celestial satellites. The first couple of missiles fired into outer space were nine-day wonders. Today space probes are taken pretty much for granted.

Nevertheless, the missile hurled into orbit last week by the U.S. was something special. For the first time man succeeded in sending a "live" messenger deep into the solar system. It is true that two satellites, one American and one Russian, have become artificial planets but both "fell" into orbit around the sun after their radio systems went dead. They are of no value to science if they streak endlessly through space.

Pioneer V, launched last week, is one of the most elaborately-equipped missiles sent out of the earth's atmosphere. It should be able to report some of the things going on in the vast distance between planets, far beyond the earth-moon system.

The satellite is expected to pass within 50 million miles of the sun with its radios reporting back to earth. Then it will get out of sending range. But the new satellite is racing around the sun faster than earth and should "lap" us in the months ahead. It is hoped that its radios and instruments will still be working and begin sending back more information about radiation, sun spots, magnetism, gas clouds in space, as well as enabling scientists to determine distances between the planets and the sun with much greater precision.

During recent months a great deal of attention has been directed at U.S. missile failures. Pioneer V should serve to attract more attention to the solid achievements the U.S. is registering in this costly and demanding field.

AGRICULTURAL EXTENSION SERVICE UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA, ST. PAUL 1, MINN.

Tuberous Begonias

Start tuberous begonia bulbs during March if you want good-sized, healthy, vigorous plants to set outside early in June. Bulbs may be purchased from local florists and nurserymen.

• • •

Plant the tubers (or bulbs) with the round end down in moist peat moss, sphagnum moss or vermiculite in open trays. Keep them in a 70 degree room. Place the tubers 3 to 4 inches apart with the top about ½ inch below the surface of the planting medium. Allow direct sunlight during the rooting period.

• • •

Since the tubers rot easily, water sparingly. In four or five weeks, the begonias should be large enough to plant in 5- to 6-inch flower pots. A suitable soil mixture is one part sandy loam, one part well rotted manure or peat moss and one part sand. To this mixture add a heaping teaspoon of 0-20-0 fertilizer superphosphate for each gallon of soil.

Place pieces of broken clay pots or coarse gravel over the drainage hole before filling the pots with soil.

Locate the newly potted plants in an east window where they will receive a large amount of light but very little direct sunlight. Don't allow the temperature to drop below 60 degrees at night. A minimum temperature of 65 degrees is better.

• • •

After the last frost in late spring or early summer, the begonias may be moved to a shady location. Knock the soil ball out of the pots and plant the begonias at the same depth as they were planted in the pots. Deeper planting may result in rotting of the stem. North exposure or a location under shade trees is best. Although begonias should be protected from full sunlight during most of the day, it's a good idea to plant them where they will receive a little morning sun and a little afternoon sun. Plants will grow tall and leggy if they are grown under too shady conditions.

Tuberous begonias will flower better if the plants are watered regularly and fertilized during the summer months.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U.S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

Dry weather didn't hurt corn yields on the Donald Stauffer farm near Winnebago last summer. According to Francis Janushka, Faribault county soils agent, Stauffer harvested 85.90 bushels per acre. One reason for the high yield was a good rotation—corn, beans, corn, oats and legume. "We are very satisfied with the rotation," Stauffer says. "It's easy to follow."

Soil testing is paying off in Roseau county. Wayne Juhl, Greenbush, originally planned to apply 80 pounds of 5-20-20 per acre. But in fall, 1958, he took soil samples of two fields and county agent Bill Provance suggested 50 pounds of 0-43-0, based on the test results. It paid off. Juhl's oats crop yielded 100 bushels per acre last fall, and he made a big saving on his fertilizer bill.

Heavy rains proved the worth of contour strips for Grand Bahe, Washington county farmer. Since he put in the strips, he says water runoff has been cut in half and erosion damage has been reduced 90 per cent. He also says his crop yield more and the fields are easier to work. No longer does he have the small washes to contend with.

65 Area Peo Share in Tou of Dairy Farms

Farmers with High Producing Herds Honored Tuesday

Sixty-five farmers and herdsmen with high producing dairy farms in the Thief River Falls area were under the direction of County Agent Paul Swanson.

At the first stop on the Martin Hanson farm, the group heard Ralph Thompson, Minnesota state dairy inspector, on quality milk production. Thompson cautioned the farmers on use of antibiotics in treatment of dairy cows. Caution was also given to milk contamination which may seriously affect the quality of milk.

The Hansen herd was on owner sampler test. Hanson said the farmer stress a milk sample weighs the milk and records the cow's record. A county test is also made periodically which is not as accurate. Second, it is adequate for culling of cows and proper feeding based on production. Gain-peas silage is being successfully fed to dairy cows. Hanson said feed cost was reduced in most of Pennington county, Minnesota's dairy area especially on the high-lime pH soils.

A pole barn which housed young dairy stock was visited by the group on Wold farm. The 60-by-40 building cost $3,000. It houses 100 head of young stock through fall months and young dairy stock in winter. Hay is poles are 16 feet apart and the building is open on the south with the livestock fed on the north. It is recommended to Dale.

Wold also described his milking parlor, pelleting out the first. Utility of a milking parlor is to keep cows milk any more than 2 hours. Wold's milking parlor without a pit has a capacity of 10 cows milking. Good management and plenty of feed are necessary to fat in this type of operation.

Selling of dairy cows on the Norbert Hilde farm brought stops to the Hilde farm. Hilde has 20 cows in his herd. To control flies and mosquitoes, bloat is reduced cows get plenty of water, salt mixture is used more, and wild onions can be controlled by spraying with 2-4-D. Hilde has no milking parlor because of space difficulties.

At the Hilde farm, on the Melvin Sena farm, the group saw the hay producing corn in the silo association. Sena produced 500 bushels of corn per acre. Soil Conservationist Gregory Weiland said that some within one pound of breaking this acre. Sena also produced 667 pounds of fat.

George Jacobson, Hilde assistant pointed out that all of the dairy herd improvement Top-of-the-Norton dairy sale at Thief River Falls will produce over 200 lbs. of fat if 100 lbs. of milk. Hilde go over 500 lbs. of fat. Mehlhorn emphasized the need for keeping records on all cows and culling out the poor producers.

The Library Corner

by Eleanor Olson

Christmas seems a long way away now with a blustery March wind shrinking the snow rapidly before it. But one of the nicest things about Christmas, the gifts and the joy they bring, is still here. One of our nicest gifts, a long-playing record of the new Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "The Sound of Music," which stars Mary Martin and Theodore Bikel, has already given us many hours of listening. Its lilting melodies, peppy polkas and catchy lyrics are all brand new but seem like old friends the first time you hear them. Family approval became complete when we heard our two-year-old trying, not too successfully, to yodel "The Goatherd's Song" right along with Mary Martin and the children in the cast.

Now the enjoyment of the record is being doubled by the discovery of two books about the singing Trapp family which I found at the Library. I have just finished "The Story of the Trapp Family Singers" by Maria Augusta Trapp. The Broadway musical version ends with the flight of the Trapps from Austria in 1938 to avoid Baron von Trapp's being forced into the German navy by the Nazis.

The book goes on with the story to tell how the family came to the United States and eventually made its home in Stowe, Vermont. Maria Augusta, at 20, married Baron von Trapp, a rich widower with seven children. She taught them to sing all the folk melodies that she had learned as a child. Not long after they were married, a great blessing befell the Trapps, they lost their money.

This is certainly the reverse of most other success stories, but when you read the book you will agree with Mrs. Trapp when she tells her husband, "You're really lucky." Because the money was gone, the Trapps took in boarders and met Father Wasner who eventually became their music arranger and director. They started singing professionally. If they hadn't, they never would have been able to escape the Nazis or make their living in a foreign country.

During the war, the two oldest boys served with the mountain troops trained at Camp Hale in Colorado. Their absence meant that the family was reduced to singing in only four parts, but sing they did all over the country. One of the hardest problems was getting ten people, 18 suitcases, a spinet, the recorders, the violas, their director and music all on the same overcrowded bus or train or whatever means of transport they could get (Once in order to catch a train in Wichita, it was a small town's only hearse.)

After the war the Trapps set up their own relief organization to help the Austrian people; begging clothing and food contributions at their concerts, they sorted, boxed and shipped them directly to the needy so they never fell into black market hands.

The second book, "A Family on Wheels," continues the story of the family from the time the first book was written until the last tour was made in 1955.

Maria Trapp writes graphically, amusingly and well. She and her family believe that "God's will hath no why" and they live by it. So many lives interwoven with a dominating principle cannot fail to be interesting. Mrs. Trapp has written still another book, "Yesterday, Today and Forever." It is written in quite a different vein and I shall perhaps tell you about it another time.

But no matter which book you read, you'll find yourself thoroughly enjoying it.

W.C.T.U. NEWS NOTES

The Hazel and T. R. Falls WCTU met in the youth room in Zion church on Friday afternoon. Mrs Mellem led in devotions from Psalm 15. Mrs. Walter Pedersen gave a vocal solo, "The Ninety and Nine."

Mrs. Ose told us about her visit with our missionary family, the Rev. Lloyd Sands from Africa, home on furlough in St. Paul this year. A large number of packages and boxes containing small empty bottles for her medical work in Africa also old sheets for bandages, used clothing, but tons, etc. were brought to them from here last week. More can be received and taken to them before they leave for Africa this summer.

Mrs. Herman Lundeen of Stephen, Minn., our district president brought the message of the afternoon. June 7 will be our district convention at Warren. There will be a gold medal speech contest for the young folks. She brought excerpts from the National Convention in Texas.

Mrs. Lundeen spoke of the importance of sustained membership and honorary members. There are 37 million children in our great country who are not going to Sunday school or services. One half the people in Minnesota drink, and we lead in lawlessness and divorce. We need to have a real burden for our youth. United States has only 2½ of the youth in the whole world.

Mrs. Ripley has material for draw sheets and other needs to be sewed for the Veteran's hospital. She invites members to come and help sew them. Mrs. Feragen presented a box containing eight pair of bedroom slippers that she and Mrs. Evenson had served for the Veterans.

Mrs Gjesfjeld brought a report on chapter two of "Really Living" by Dr. Andrew C. Ivy. Drinking is not a sickness, but a sin. The moderate drinker is the real menace. The down-and-outer is neither admired nor does he drive a car usually.

Applications Due for 1959 Wool Payments

With the 1959 wool marketing year just beginning, growers for the 1957 year are reminded today of the importance of complete records of their sales of wool and unshorn lambs.

Producers will be eligible for payments for the 1959 marketing year for wool an dunshorn lambs marketed not later than March 31 of this year. Later marketings will be eligible for payments for the 1960 year.

Patrick W. Calkins, manager of the Commodity Stabilization and Conservation office reminds wool growers that the sales documents must show the true net sales proceeds. Incomplete or untrue data made for the purpose of misrepresentation, or any false information in fact, both the producer and the wool buyer are subject to penalties.

"Applications for payment under the 1959 program must be filed at the county ASC office not later than April 30. The average gross price received by farmers for wool during the entire marketing year can then be calculated and the payment rate announced. Payment is generally ready to be made sometime during the following fall.

For the 1956 wool marketing year, 226 sheep growers in Pennington county received net shorn wool payments amounting to $12,305.31 and the 1956 sheep growers in that county received payments amounting to $13,052.47 on unshorn lambs sold. Three amounts represent payments after deductions withheld for the growers' contributions to a fund for promotion of the industry. The deductions were 1 cent per pound for wool sold and 1 cent per hundredweight of lambs sold.

Library Continues Story Hour Series

Children Invited to Hear Story Saturday at 1:30

Grade one through three children listened attentively as Bertha Hastad, assistant librarian, read Marjorie Flack's "Ping" and "Pussywillow," by Margaret Wise Brown to open a spring series of story hours at the public library last Saturday, March 19.

Miss Hastad will continue the series Saturday, March 26, at 1:30 by reading "The Painted Pig," by Elizabeth Morrow, mother of Anne Morrow Lindbergh. Although the book was written in 1930, it still receives a double star in the children's catalogue. This means that it is among those most highly recommended by the American Library Association's child consultants.

With a Mexican background, it is the story of a painted china pig with a rosebud on its tail. The pig belongs to Pita, but the story tells what happens when her little brother, Pedro, determines to have either that pig or one just like it. The drawings by Rene d'Harnoncourt have made the book a favorite both of children and their mothers who read aloud to them.

Flying Farmers of State to Visit TRF

Arrange Tentatively to Come to Airport May 22

The first of two Aviation Days events to be held at the municipal airport has been set for May 22 and promises to be the best ever held here in numbers of visiting aircraft.

Guests at the May 22 event will be the Minnesota Flying Farmers, who have arranged tentatively to hold their May meeting here in conjunction with the Aviation Day promotion. This will be the Flying Farmers' first visit to the local field for a monthly meeting. Several events of interest to the group will be planned for the afternoon.

Plans for the Aviation Day are as yet incomplete. However, the local Jaycees will definitely hold a flight breakfast, beginning about 8 a.m. that Sunday.

The May event also marks another "first" in the history of the Thief River Falls airport. Prospects are good that pilots whose planes are so equipped will be able to home on the Thief River Falls omnirange (TVOR) station, which should be operational by that time.

Highlanding FU to Hear Bagley Man

The Highlanding Farmers' Union will hold its monthly meeting at the Highlanding hall Friday, March 25, at 8:15. L. J. Lee of Bagley will be the guest speaker. There will also be musical entertainment and lunch will be served at the close of the meeting. The public is urged to attend.

Prowlers Face Austin in State Meet Today

The 48th annual Minnesota state high school basketball tournament will begin play this afternoon, Thursday, March 24. Today's schedule will find Melrose of region 6 playing Granite Falls of region 3 at 2:00 p.m.; Thief River Falls of region 8 playing Austin of region 1 at 3:30 p.m.; Edgerton of region 2 playing Chisholm of region 7 at 7:30 p.m.; and North St. Paul of region 4 playing Richfield of region 5 at 9:00 p.m.

The losers of Thursday's first round games will begin play in consolation competition on Friday afternoon. And the winners of Thursday's game will move into the semi-final round of championship play on Friday night. The consolation finals, the third place, and the championship games will be played on Saturday night.

The Prowlers tentative starting lineup against the Austin team this afternoon will have Ron Hanson at center, Don Ulferts and Bob Pearson at the fowards, and Steve Embury and Eddie Lietzow at the guards.

A feature in the Prowlers' play during the season has been the number of reserves that coach Hartley Story has been able to insert into the games. And it's probable that guards Wayne Bjerken and Dave Hauswirth and forwards Ron Solheim, Gary Anderson, and Darrel Nelson will move into the game if the occasion warrants.

KTRF, with Doug Tegtmeier doing the play-by-play, will air the entire slate of first round games. And KTRF will follow the Prowlers through the second round game Friday; and then carry the championship finals game on Saturday night.

To Take Surplus Beaver on Refuge

Quota Is Set at 100 on Mud Lake Game Refuge

The annual harvest of surplus beaver will commence Saturday, March 26, at the Mud Lake National Wildlife refuge, according to Herb Dill, manager. Trapping will continue until April 30th.

Local trappers are brought in for this work and trap under special permits issued by the state department of conservation. A quota of 100 beavers has been set up for removal this year. Ordinarily, from 70 to 90 beaver are trapped, Dill stated.

Dill explained that emphasis is placed on the trapping of beaver near refuge boundaries to prevent their damming drainage ditches.

Prowler Cagers to Be Honored at Reception Sunday

Everyone is invited to join with the Chamber of Commerce Sunday, March 27, in welcoming the Lincoln high school Prowler basketball team when it returns Sunday from taking part in the state basketball tournament in Minneapolis.

The team will be met by a motorcade Sunday afternoon at the city limits and escorted to the high school gymnasium for a public reception beginning at 4:30 o'clock.

Individual members of the team and the coaches will be interviewed, yells will be led by the cheerleaders and musical numbers will be presented by the Prowler band.

Banking Is Topic at Rotary Meeting

James Womack Is Speaker; Prowler Coaches Guests

An explanation of bank activities by James Womack, president of the Union State Bank, was the main program feature at noon meeting of the Rotary club Monday, March 21.

Using copies of the daily statement of the bank, Womack explained each of the entries and, at the conclusion, answered questions by the Rotarians.

Special guests at the meeting were Hartley Story, coach of the regional championship Lincoln high school basketball team, and Joe Mrkonich, assistant coach. Story credited the regional victory to the efforts of "four or five boys who all put out their best efforts at the same time."

He criticized the officiating during the last four or five minutes and said that there was "too much hard contact by the opposition" that wasn't called.

As far as personnel is concerned, the local team matches Austin and is going down to Minneapolis to play the best basketball possible, Story said.

At the conclusion of the meeting, an invitation to the coaches and the team to attend the next meeting of the Rotary was extended and accepted.

BJORKMAN'S

EATING CROW is Stan Cockrell, center, local basketball authority, as Prowler co captains, Steve Embury, left center, and Bob Pearson, right center, serve the delicious bird, a decoy, to the pessimistic Prowler rooter. Cockrell, prior to the regional tournament, made a wager with Stan Larson of Poppler's to the effect that he would eat crow if the Prowlers won the regional. The Prowlers, by their 60 to 53 win over Bemidji in the finals, did win the Region Eight crown, and Cockrell was forced to eat "crow." The Prowlers enjoying Cockrell's wager paying are, left to right, Darrell Nelson, Gary Anderson, Wayne Bjerken, Ron Solheim, Steve Embury, Ron Hanson, the "crow," Cockrell, Elton Hornseth, Bob Pearson, Don Ulferts, Dave Hauswirth, and Eddie Lietzow.

VICTORY DANCE Before the regional basketball tournament, Miss Gladys Johnson, Lincoln English instructor, and Ralph Skay, athletic director, promised to "dance around the gym" if the Prowlers won the tournament Tuesday morning during the pep rally for the state tournament-bound Prowler team, the faculty members paid off on their bet and promised a repeat if the local team won again.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

The Odds

When the Prowlers are whistled into action at 3:30 P.M. today, Thursday, for their first round state high school basketball tournament game against the Austin Packers, it's probable that coach Ove Berven's Region One entry will be the favorites, and by quite a margin in the odds.

Austin, a perennial entry in the state tournament, will have the advantage of having several players in the lineup who participated in last year's tournament. Game experience can be a vital factor in state tourney play, and particularly in a first round game.

The matter of odds won't discourage the Prowlers, though and we doubt if the odds in this afternoon's game will be more lop sided than the odds against the Prowlers to defeat Bemidji in last Friday's regional tourney final. And you know what the Prowlers did to Bemidji and those odds. Ask Stan Cockrell or Al Holzknecht.

Perhaps the Prowlers' strongest weapon in reducing the odds in today's game is the locals proven ability to play well on defense. With Steve Embury and Eddie Lietzow out front and with Don Ulferts, Ron Hanson and Bob Pearson on the back line, the Prowler are a solid club on defense.

Grand Forks Central's coach, Marv Skaar, informed the Prowler coaching staff on the style of play exhibited by Austin Grand Forks Central, in a preliminary game played several weeks ago in the Williams arena defeated Austin in overtime. Skaar did say that Austin at times utilized a full-court press. The Prowlers have shown a tendency to become flustered by an aggressive pressing defense.

We doubt if Austin has the personnel to unleash such a press as Bemidji unloaded last week. And, too, we remember that the Prowlers were able to build up an 18-pount spread, 55-37, with less than five minutes of the Bemidji game remaining. A team that can accomplish that feat against a strong Bemidji club, has the potential of providing the state tournament fans with some surprises.

The 1932 Squad

In listing the squad members of former Prowler regional basketball champions in last Monday's issue of the Times we named the 1933 Prowlers instead of the 1932 Prowlers. This 1932 squad won the district, regional, and state championships, and posted a record of twenty three wins and no losses, and was composed of the following: John Chommie, Art Myrom, Lloyd Aanstad, Wendell Kielty, Arnold Stadum, Paul Dahl, Lawrence Nicholson, Ing Hendrickson, John Langseth, and Les Ihle. Kielty, Stadum, Nicholson, Hendrickson, and Dahl were squad members on the 1933 team, which won the district title and, in regional play, was disqualified.

That 1933 regional tourney created quite a hassle. In first round play, Thief River Falls defeated Warroad, 26 12, and Bemidji defeated Ada, 21 10. In the third period of the championship finals, and with Bemidji leading, coach Roger Dooley of the Prowlers filed a protest against Bemidji's Martin Connoly, claiming that the Bemidji player was over age. The game was played to a conclusion, with Bemidji winning 20 10, but when when Dooley's protest was upheld, the game was declared forfeited to Thief River Falls. The tournament committee decided that a game was to be played between Ada and Thief River Falls to determine the Region's entry in the state tournament. But before this game came to pass, Bemidji filed a protest against the Prowlers' guard, Arnold Stadum, claiming the Prowler player was over age. This protest was also upheld, and the result was that the Ada Vikings played in the state tournament that year.

A Trophy Fish

Harlan Huseth came into town on Sunday with a walleyed pike that is a candidate for a Manitoba honor roll, and which should provide Harlan with a Master Angler's certificate. He brought in a 10-lb. 2-oz. walleye.

Harlan, along with Ole Ness, Cliff (Squire) Overum, and Joe Rinowski, fished the Lake of the Woods off Birch Point when he made his trophy catch. The quartet has been fishing the area quite often, and they reported that the fishing has been fair to good. They did not fill out on Sunday, but on Thursday they had a fine catch.

The season will close Thursday, March 31. The province of Manitoba provides a special winter angling license, with a fee of $2.50, extending from January to March 31. This license is available at Middleboro, the Manitoba village that is the "take off" point for the anglers moving out to Birch Point.

Prowler Homecoming

Arrangements are being completed for a gala "welcome home" celebration at the high school gymnasium for the state tournament basketball Prowlers. According to present plans, Sunday afternoon's festivities will get underway at 4:30 p.m.

Plans Announced for Forest Playground

A new state forest playground extending along the Mississippi in southeastern Minnesota was announced today by George A. Selke, state conservation commissioner.

To be known as the Minnesota Memorial Hardwood Forest, the long-range project was forested by Richard J. Dorer, former state supervisor of game and endorsed py E. L. Lawson, director of the division of forestry. Dorer now is president of the Minnesota division of the Izaak Walton League.

The multiple use plans provide for public recreation areas along a 120 mile stretch of the Mississippi from the Iowa border to Hastings, Minn. These will include state parks, hunting grounds, camp sites, boat landings, hiking and bridle trails and eventually an arboretum.

In its initial phase the forest will embrace about 200,000 acres and then will be expanded along the wooded valleys of such tributaries as the Root, Zumbro, Cannon and Vermillion rivers. It will cover portions of Dakota, Goodhue, Wabasha, Winona, Houston, Fillmore and Olmsted counties.

Announcement of the project followed a series of meetings with the county boards at which Selke and Dorer, along with Richard Knox, state forestry land management chief, and other conservation department personnel, reviewed plans for specific areas. It was pointed out that the counties would benefit not only from trade with recreationists using the forest area but also would receive 50 per cent of the revenue from selective timber cutting. Dorer predicted that the timber harvests eventually will pay for the entire project, as is being shown in the multiple-use Whitewater game refuge, a project Dorer also fostered.

First land acquisitions will come from the counties involved through transfer of tax forefited tracts, acreages donated by private owners and purchases made with public contributions.

Subsequently state forestry division appropriations are planned. At the start a modest appropiation will be asked of the 1961 legislature.

A Minnesota Memorial Hardwood Forest fund has been set up by the state treasurer to receive public contributions. First individual donors were Mr. Dorer and Commissioner Selke, while the first organization to contribute was the South Minneapolis chapter of the Izaak Walton League. The project has been endorsed by the Minnesota division of the Walton League and other state conservation organizations are expected to join in a campaign for funds.

In designating the forest as a memorial, Selke and Dorer said it would stand as a living monument to the state's pioneer settlers and veterans of all wars. Dorer said contributions will be sought from veterans organizations as well as civic groups.

Twin Cities Area Population Seen at 2,170,000 in '80

Highway Department Analyses Future Traffic Trends for District

By 1980, a Twin Cities area population of 2,170,000 will make approximately 4,400,000 trips daily by all modes of travel, the Minnesota highway department estimates.

This forecast was made from present trip data collected and analyzed by the Twin Cities transportation study group of the highway department, under the direction of Chester C. Burdick. The group has determined a breakdown of trip purpose and also of the distribution of trips by hours of travel.

Presently, 2,750,000 trips are made daily by the 1,350,000 residents of the Twin Cities metropolitan area by all modes of travel.

About 18½ per cent of the daily trips are made to work, slightly more than 70 per cent of them taking place between 6 a.m. and 9 a.m.

A little more than four per cent of the trips are made to school, nearly all occurring between 7 a.m. and 9 a.m.

Shopping trips, of all kinds, account for 9½ per cent of the daily trips. They occur almost uniformly between 9 a.m. and 8 p.m., though there are higher than average volumes in the forenoon and between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m.

Social-recreation and personal trips account for 17 per cent of the total. These take place mainly during morning and evening hours.

Forty per cent of the trips are destined for home, mainly between 3 p.m. and 7 p.m. The remaining 11 per cent of the daily trips is classified under "other purpose."

The purpose of the transportation study is to forecast as accurately as possible traffic volumes and patterns and all factors affecting them, which the study group only recently began to do. Upon such forecasts the Minnesota highway department will base its planning and design of a future system of freeways capable of accommodating traffic in 1980.

Wildlife in Minnesota

The state agency responsible for managing one of the most important fishers in the nation is being reorganized. That's right, the section of fisheries in your Minnesota game and fish division is undergoing some important changes. These changes are designed to meet unprecedented demands for sport fishing in the Gopher state.

Fish management activities in Minnesota have rated high throughout the country even though our wage scale has been comparatively low. However, as an organization grows certain changes in management methods are needed to maintain and increase efficiency. Small businesses can usually be run by one man from one central office but as an organization takes on more duties and responsibilities, field officers and delegation of authority to the local level are essential.

The new fisheries section will be quite similar to our section of game which was reorganized in 1956 and which has worked out exceptionally well. The State is to be divided into five regions with regional fish managers stationed at Waterville, St. Paul, Grand Rapids, Brainerd and Detroit Lakes. Glenwood and French River will carry on with little change but now as district stations within the regions.

The five regional managers will have increased responsibility and authority. Matters such as rough fish removal and lake and stream improvement, formerly handled from the St. Paul office, will become the responsibility of the regional managers. Of course, this shift in responsibility means a reduction of staff in the St. Paul office.

One of the major reasons for the change is to keep in closer touch with the people throughout the State whom we serve. Rather than come to St. Paul, people can present their ideas, problems and proposals at the nearby regional headquarters and know they are working with a man who has the necessary authority and is familiar with the area.

The new fisheries organization provides more equitable salaries for the personnel and, more important, provides promotional opportunity for the more competent. Rather than the hosts of classifications and titles of the past, nearly all field personnel will be classified as laborers, fishery aides, fish manager I, II, or III for regional fish managers. All positions are being filled through promotional examinations given by the department of civil service.

Our sincere appreciation goes out to the faithful fishery employees who waited so patiently for this reorganization. They could not know the many obstacles and problems involved. We also appreciate the tireless efforts of the Minnesota State Employees' Union in working with us, and the department of administration for studying and approving a sound structure of organization. Finally, we thank the department of civil service—the people with the unenviable task of keeping wages of all state employees in line. They have given our fisheries reorganization endless study and fair treatment.

There will be a few months of adjustment and always a few inequities to straighten out, but we now have a section of fisheries better suited to handle today's important job and capable of taking over any bigger jobs which may appear in the future.

Bemidji College Paper Winner of National Honors

The Northern Student, the Bemidji State College bi-weekly newspaper, has been awarded the Columbia Scholastic Press Medalist award for 1959-60.

This is the second time in as many years that the BSC publication has won this honor which is reserved for "a limited number of publications of distinction selected from First place."

The only other college paper in Minnesota to receive this award this year is the Mac Weekly of Macalester college.

Papers for this criticism run from Easter of 1959 to December 10 of the same year. Mary Sidsar, Warren and Helen Efshen, Roseau, were co editors of the papers from Easter until June of last year while Miss Slusar is editor in chief this year.

"It has been my experience that the people with a gift for society—the best friends, the most humane judges, the wisest statesmen—are people who have given much time to finding out about themselves, to measuring frankly their own weaknesses, and so learning through much error where their happiness, and hence their usefulness, lies. The man or woman who tries to live up to the public picture or the neighbor's picture of him is an anxious one. So with nations as with people: they can best negotiate from strength when they know their own weaknesses."

The Humphrey Attack

Senator Hubert Humphrey is doing the Republicans a good service by the manner in which he is campaigning against his Democratic opponent in Wisconsin. Humphrey apparently knows only one way to campaign and that is to prove that his opponent is a scoundrel.

And that is an effective way to campaign for those who are not too concerned about facts, providing the opponent is a leader of the opposition party. But it is quite likely that Senator Kennedy is going to resent some of the things his colleague is saying about him.

In his Wisconsin campaign the senior Senator from Minnesota hasn't indicated that he possesses great qualities of statesmanship and he probably is alienating the support of leaders in his own party upon whom he would have to depend for whatever he hopes to get at the national convention.

Water Control Costly

According to the Winnipeg Tribune, work will be started next year on the construction of the Greater Winnipeg floodway ditch, referred to as "one of the largest projects ever undertaken anywhere." The 32 mile long "trench" will extend from near St. Norbert, south of Winnipeg, north to Lockport. The cost is estimated at $57.8 million, and 11 million cubic yards of dirt would be moved. Acquisition of the right-of-way will be costly.

It was nearly 10 years ago that Winnipeg experienced its last big flood. Following the recommendations of a royal commission, surveys were made last summer and the Manitoba parliament recently appropriated two million dollars mainly for land acquisition. The province hopes to receive financial aid from the federal government.

Flood control is expensive, but failure to provide drainage is also costly, as land owners in this area have been reminded too frequently. Later in the year we should have before us the results of a survey of the water problems of the Thief River watershed and the recommendations of the U.S. Engineers and other government agencies as to how these problems might best be handled.

And progress is being made toward a solution of the flood problems in eastern Pennington and Marshall counties. It is to be hoped that solutions will be found that will serve the best interests of all the groups that may benefit in that area by better flood control and water use.

Progress in these matters sometimes is discouragingly slow, but in such matters there always are differences of opinion and sometimes conflicting interests that must be reconciled. Generally, in matters of this kind, no one group or interest could afford the cost of an improvement program that would serve only its own need. There is little hope for progress unless a plan is developed that will take into consideration the needs and the rights of all groups, and the costs distributed among them according to the extent of their benefits.

What is needed is a spirit of cooperation and a willingness to understand that where there are conflicting interests there must be some concessions.

The Tunnel Diode

Stanley W. Penn, writing in the Wall Street Journal, tells us that the tiny transistor, an electronics gadget that has amazed even those of us who have no understanding of how it does so many things with so little effort and at so low a cost, is now about to be forced out of first place by a tinier rival invented by a Japanese scientist, 34-year-old Dr. Leo Esaki.

This newest marvel, called the Tunnel Diode, about the size of a pinhead,

"... is now rated by General Electric Co. to be up to 100 times faster than the transistor in some uses. Also, it can be 1% of the size of a transistor that handles comparable functions, and use as little as 1% of the power needed by such a transistor. Moreover, the tunnel diode is simpler in structure and less sensitive to contamination and thus promises someday to be easier and cheaper to mass produce. Unlike the transistor, the tunnel diode can perform efficiently at extreme temperatures and in communications devices operating at high frequencies.

"The new development promises, among other things, faster, cheaper electronic business machines, improved television reception in rural areas and better and more compact communications systems for space vehicles.

" 'The tunnel diode is one of the most dramatic developments in the electronics field since the transistor,' declares Herman Fialkov, president of New York's General Transistor Corp.

" 'It certainly is one of the important new devices of electronic circuitry,' adds Dr. H. Gunther Rudenberg, research director of Transitron Electronics Corp. of Wakefield, Mass.' "

We don't know what it's all about, but it certainly sounds interesting. And it is well to keep in mind that this remarkable development came out of the Orient, the ideas of a young Japanese scientist.

Controls, Not Supports, Needed

It would be smart for us to prepare ourselves for the inevitable day of reckoning when there no longer will be government price supports. When we speak of price supports we generally think of agricultural products. But agricultural products are only a part of the price support operations of the government. In storage the government has many other commodities, including metals and even diamonds.

But there are surplus commodities which the government does not buy and put into storage. There is crude oil for instance. A report from Texas last week informed us that the crude oil output for Texas wells in the month of April will be limited to the production of nine days. During the other 21 days of April, as we understand it, the Texas wells will remain idle.

And so with wells throughout the other oil-producing states. If they did pump more oil than is needed the bottom would fall out of the market. The companies are better off by limiting their production to what the market will absorb.

We are sure some of the smart folks in the oil country have thought of how nice it would be if they could pump oil day in and day out and have an assured market. Maybe congressmen from those areas have introduced bills that would serve such a purpose. If they did, apparently they did not get them passed. And that, we all will agree, is most fortunate.

At best, the price support program as we have it today, is a temporary stopgap. The solution for any surplus problem, whether it be oil or newspapers or buckwheat, must be production control. We cannot justify production of commodities for which there is no market demand, and the government's surplus buying programs must be replaced by realistic production controls managed by industries in their own best interests as well as in the public interest.

Again the Item Veto

(Milwaukee Journal)

"An almost plaintive note in President Eisenhower's budget message was the frequency with which he said, 'I repeat the proposal,' 'I renew the request,' 'I again recommend.'

"Probably no seed has more often fallen on the barren ground of congress, from his seven messages and those of a dozen predecessors, than the annual plea for item veto power over appropriation bills. This enables a chief executive to disapprove wasteful or otherwise bad parts and riders in such a bill instead of having to swallow or veto the whole.

"While confining the futile plea to 65 words this year, Eisenhower did have a new and telling point to make. He reminded congress that twice just recently it has approved of item veto as a standard feature of executive power—for state governors, that is—in consenting to the constitutions of Alaska and Hawaii, which routinely include it!

"But even being so plainly caught in a logical contradiction is unlikely to embarrass congress enough to budge it. For it has never laid claim to logic in its historic refusal; this is simply the politics of the pork barrel!

"Members don't want presidents interfering with it no matter how much wasteful spending they might prevent if allowed."

Problem of Ethics

(Business Week)

The House Committee on Legislative Oversight last week took the scalp of its third prominent official, John C. Doerfer, chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, went the route of Richard A. Mack, another FCC commissioner, and Sherman Adams, former Assistant to the President.

Doerfer's record as chairman was not one that aroused admiration in Washington. But what tripped him, like many another official in recent years, was an ethical problem. Doerfer accepted hospitality—airplane transportation and a yacht cruise—from a broadcaster with an obvious interest in the work of the commission.

How a man should conduct himself as a government official is something that some people seem to be born knowing. Some learn the hard way. Some apparently never learn. For these, the only answer is to resign.

There are sensitive and subtle questions involved. A junket may be simply a good time with old friends, or it may be dangerous — depending on the circumstances and intent of the host. No etiquette for government officials will ever be able to cover all situations or to protect the official who is not sensitive about his own or the government's integrity.

The Doerfer case, like those that came before it, is useful in that it establishes some benchmarks of behavior. Through these cases, the U.S. is becoming aware of the needs of high standards in office, and is insisting that the standards be raised.

—They can go a long way higher yet.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A young man was seated opposite a nice old lady in the chair car. For some time he sat vigorously chewing gum.

Finally the old lady leaned forward and said: "It's so nice of you to try to make conversation, but I must tell you I am stone deaf."

Some years ago a friend was in trouble and I helped him out. "I won't forget you," he vowed. And he didn't. He is in trouble again and just called me. —Phil Stone in Toronto Telegram.

A male attendant in a mental hospital noticed a patient with his ear close to the wall, listening intently. The patient held up a finger for the attendant to be very quiet, then beckoned him over and said: "You listen here!" The attendant put his ear on the wall and listened for some time, then turned to the patient and said: "I can't hear anything."

"No," said the patient, "and it's been like that all day!"

Chick Starter "20" was formulated for higher nutritive efficiency at the start, of course. But that's only part of the story. Not one pound of this new feed was released for sale until its higher nutritive efficiency had been proved. Then it was researched again; its efficiency stepped up again. And then—again! That's why today it feeds pullet chicks for even less than 6¢, why it produces healthier birds, why it produces birds that develop to the limit of inherited laying ability. Try it!

Tips on Income Taxes

By Minnesota State Bar Association

(This is the seventh in a series of articles which have been made available on a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association. public relations committee.)

Standard or Optional Deductions

The standard or optional deduction is an election to you if you do not desire to itemize your personal deductions authorized by law such as real estate taxes, interest expenditures or the medical expenses, etc.

These personal deductions are deductions from gross income which is called Adjusted Gross Income. Adjusted gross income is derived from business, rental or royalty operations, exclusive of wages and other sick, etc., received by employees properly which you hold for the purpose of reports or royalties, deductions for traveling expenses while away from home on business, and those expenditures for which you have been reimbursed by your employer.

The standard deduction amounts generally to 10 per cent of the adjusted gross income before tax. It is, however, limited for all taxpayers to $1,000 except the 10 per cent figure entitles you to the standard deduction. It is a substitute method allowed as a measure of presumed personal deductions and is given to you whether or not you have records of deductible expenses you actually have incurred.

Standard deductions are allowed a deduction for the business expenses of farmers who annually discount the determination of whether or not you should use annually use the standard deduction or the optional deduction. Generally speaking, the law says you will pay under both methods of taxation. The final decision as to which method used should be based upon the amount of your income, your family circumstances, your personal deductions, amount of personal and property which you have, your ability to sustain the loss of your itemized deductions, should you elect to use the standard deduction.

A general rule of thumb would be that you will pay less income tax by itemizing your deductions when you earn a year over $5000 and pay substantial real estate taxes, interest on mortgages, contributions, medical expenses and other situations where the itemized deduction will also benefit you taxwise.

Later articles will discuss various types of personal deductions, exemptions and the method of putting your books in order.

This column, based on Minnesota and Federal law, is written to inform, not to advise. No person should act upon the information in this column without the aid of a lawyer expert who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.

Val Bjornson Not to Wage Campaign for Governorship

State Treasurer Leaves Field to Elmer Anderson and P. Kenneth Peterson

State Treasurer Val Bjornson announced Saturday as a candidate for governor.

The Treasurer said he was pleased with the GOP gubernatorial race. They are Elmer Anderson, Lieutenant Governor, and Harry P. Kroench, mayor of Minneapolis.

"I am withdrawing my name from further consideration as a candidate for the Republican party's endorsement for governorship," Bjornson announced in a statement released here.

"I have increasingly evidenced to me," the treasurer said, "that the endorsement for the present leading candidates could be given only at the expense of grave injury to the interest in my own candidacy."

Those back from the outset that I would not be a candidate in a three-way contest where two good friends would try to knock each other out of the running, Bjornson said.

"Such a decisive situation might well damage the excellent chances the Republican party has to defeat Orville Freeman at the polls this fall."

Bjornson added that he would be a contender in the state treasurer post.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

After sitting in on a meeting with the county board, the city council and the school board, I am convinced that the taxpayers will allow the 10 mills reg option on the school levy to pass.

In the first place, Mr. Farmer, the head of the vocational agriculture department of this area, outlined the needs of the school and the Lincoln High School. Without the preserve will idle, known as the Lake Agassiz preserve.

As things look to me, and I have lived in this area all my life, northern Minnesota is the last frontier. Between Duluth and the Canadian border there are 60,000,000 acres of land to preserve, and we have only a few thousand acres of it in parks and preserves.

If I am, you will find that there are 20,000,000 acres of land owned by state, private and industrial interests in northern Minnesota area that is used by the people of Minnesota and the nation for recreation.

We were told at the meeting that there was action to make the sportsmen self-supporting. I believe the figures I have are right, but I am sure that the cost of maintaining the state parks and preserves will run into millions—agriculture income, depletion of the forest from fire, dark, deer, etc. I'm sure he'll be glad to correct me if I am wrong.

I believe that you will find that we need the recreation that is present in northern Minnesota is going to be in high demand and stop it. And right now.

Melvin Jappa.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Q—My home burned down last year and I collected from the fire insurance company. I am a World War I veteran, eligible for GI pension under the present law, and I want to know if I can buy a home with the money I collected from the insurance company.

A—No. Proceeds of fire insurance policies need not be counted as income to apply for GI pension.

Q—My husband has been granted GI insurance. He has deeds using them to pay my premiums. Can he now change that arrangement, and use the GI dividends for his own needs?

A—Yes. He may do so, if he wishes, subject to withdrawal on request. How do I go about it?

A—Write to the VA district office which services your GI insurance policy. Give them your claim number and tell them that you wish to change your dividend plan.

Q—I hear people talking about the "equalization clause" in the new pension system. Just the widow of a Korea veteran who does not remarry draws pension?

A—No. Widows of all veterans of all wars will benefit by the equalization clause. Under it, widows will get pensions according to their own incomes, plus $400 for each dependent child under 18 years of age.

Q—I am a veteran of World War II. Can I get a GI loan to buy a farm?

A—Yes. Veterans benefits are the same for World War II veterans as for Korea veterans.

Q—I got two VA benefits; my disability compensation check and compensation for a service-connected disability. Can I have both checks sent to the state treasurer post.

Foot Ills Listed by Medical Assn.

Doctors Warn People Against Buying Remedies

Don't abuse your feet. Because they're the part of the body that does most of communications and transportation, they get more than their share of abuse. Most foot ailments can be prevented by following a few simple rules, according to the Minnesota State Medical Association.

Good shoes are important. Shoes should be comfortable from the start. Shoes should be long enough and wide enough for the individual foot. Shoes should be fitted by a competent salesman. Shoes should be bought late in the day when the feet are the largest. Shoes should be worn in accordance with the individual's activity.

Good hygiene is important. Feet should be washed daily with soap and water. Feet should be dried carefully, especially between the toes. Feet should be kept free from excessive perspiration. Socks should be changed frequently.

Sufferers of this painful condition can substantially relieve their foot troubles by staying off their feet whenever relief can be obtained by administering hot applications and massage.

Urges Observance of Wildlife Week

Marshall County Sets District Aids Speech

A tour conversationist who cares or operates land will not overlook his responsibility to provide food, cover, shelter and water needed by useful wildlife, Ralph Hendrickson, Jr., Director of the Minnesota Department of Conservation told the Marshall-Pennington Soil Conservation District Supervisors today.

Mr. Hendrickson, who is also Commissioner of Conservation, urged the observance of Wildlife Week and that conservationists, farmers, sportsmen and other interested persons in the state join with the Minnesota Department of Conservation in emphasizing the importance of wildlife to the economy of Minnesota.

Mr. Hendrickson said that the fact that the nation this week is observing "Soil and Water Conservation Week" and that conservationists, farmers, sportsmen and other interested persons are joining public agencies in emphasizing the importance of keeping wildlife on the land, is encouraging. Wildlife is a crop that can be harvested from soil, he said.

Game populations, songs birds and other wildlife flourish or dig alone from the effects of many practices that are a part of good land use, he said.

Good land use practices of the past few years have resulted in the one-best way to assure less loss of soil by water and wind and kind of habitat they need living space, food and cover, he said.

Many farmers have found that good wildlife habitat can be established right in the soil conservation plan that sets the land use. Many soil conservation districts have established practices to encourage certain kinds of wildlife, he said, and by so doing also make his farm attractive to sportsmen.

The Golden Time

When Mom and I got married, golden weddings seemed just as remote to us as they probably do to you. Matter of fact, folks celebrating them seemed like museum pieces!

Now here we are, posing for our fiftieth anniversary picture! Funny part of it is that we don't feel a bit like "old folks!"

Still, a couple can't be married for half a century without putting in a lot of living. Mom and I have. There were times when we were so happy we thought we'd burst . . . other times when it didn't seem as if we could find the strength to keep going another minute.

Through it all, we've had our church. It's hard to put into words how important that's been. Maybe you'll get an idea when I tell you this. When Mom asked me what I'd like to do to celebrate our anniversary, I said, "First of all, let's go to Church. I want to say a little prayer of thanks."

Mom smiled at me. "So do I," she told me.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Our Trip to California

We left Thief River Falls Jan 14 by train and arrived in Minneapolis the next morning where we were guests at the home of our daughter, Lydia and also went out to Oak Knoll to visit Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kjome and family. We left Minneapolis on Jan. 11 via the Golden State Route to Los Angeles. We had a very pleasant journey on the train; met many wonderful people and the train personnel tried to make us as comfortable as possible. Arrived in Los Angeles Jan. 16 at 8:30 a.m. Our son, Victor, and his family were there to meet us. Victor and his family live in Buena Park and we were their guests part of the time and were also guests of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. Boyd (Clara) at Santa Monica. We saw many interesting things while were out there; orange and lemon groves for miles along the highway and so many dairy cows around Los Angeles; you can drive for miles and see nothing but big dairies. The cows are fed in pens in feeders the year around. One man milks about 80 cows a day. We went to see the tar pits in L.A. where big animals that used to roam the country had been mired down. We also went to see the big museum in L.A.; so many wonderful things to see. We also went to see the zoo with all kinds of interesting animals and visited the Will Rogers ranch in the Santa Monica Mountains. It is now a state park. The house and furniture stands just the same as when he lived there; the stables and horses are still there. Another interesting place was the Knotts berry farm. If you go to southern California, go and see it. The Farmers Market in Los Angeles is supposed to be the biggest of its kind in the world and shopping centers and super markets where you could shop and get anything you need just by parking your car only once. Southern California has a nice, warm climate in the winter. The smog was not bad when we were there, only downtown. Los Angeles was quite bad at times. California has too many people and cars; the highways are jammed full all the time. We met many fine Christian people while we were there. We went to worship at the Christian Reformed church in Buena Park where Victor and his family are members. I had the privilege to go along with some people of the church to hold services for the prisoners at the Orange county jail. It was wonderful how eager some of the prisoners were to hear the word of God. We also visited brother Alex at San Jacinto. It was nice to see him, he is fine and working as painter and carpenter. We also visited with his son, Bob, and family. California is OK but for a more quiet place to live I prefer Thief River Falls or better still, Rosewood, where we now live. Well, our stay in California has come to an end. The most pleasant memory of our trip was the time we spent with our children and grandchildren. It was hard to leave. They all came to the station to see us off. We left March 5 at 1:30 p.m. and arrived in Minneapolis March 7 at 7:30 p.m. We stayed one day in Minneapolis visiting our daughter, Lydia, and Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kjome and family. We arrived in Thief River Falls March 8th and our good friend, Arthur Swenson, came to meet us and took us home.

Census Count to Start Here Friday, April 1

Advance Report Forms Were Mailed out Last Friday

The 1960 census of population and housing, the nation's 18th decennial nose count, gets under way on Friday morning, April 1, with 160,000 census takers starting their rounds, which will take them to every dwelling unit in the United States. In covering the 3½ million square miles of land area of the 50 states, the census takers will travel an estimated distance of more than 1,000 times around the world, or approximately 28 million miles.

District Supervisor C. M. Carlson of Crookston pointed out that residents of this area can speed up the big count by having their advance report forms filled out and ready for the census takers. This action will save time for both the householder and the census taker, the census official said.

The advance report form was distributed to local households Friday, prior to the start of the house-to-house canvass. It contains the seven population and six housing questions which are asked of all persons. The advance report form gives the family a chance to assemble information about each member in advance of the census taker's visit. It's use is expected to speed up the field canvass and provide more accurate statistics. At every fourth household, the census taker will seek the answers to additional questions covering population and housing characteristics which are being asked of a 25 per cent sample of the population.

The district supervisor emphasized that all information about individuals and their homes furnished to the Census Bureau is held in absolute confidence under federal law. It is used only to provide summary figures such as totals, averages, and percentages. The information about individuals cannot be furnished to any one other than sworn census employes and thus cannot be used for investigation, taxation or regulation.

Local Man and Sister from France Visit in City after 50 Years

HEADS ELKS E. A. Hamerski, superintendent of the Winnipeg division of the Soo Line, was advanced Thursday evening to the office of exalted ruler of the Thief River Falls Elks lodge, succeeding Gordon Relerson.

Music this month reunited a resident of Thief River Falls and his sister from Connerre, Sarthe, France, after a separation of 50 years.

Albert Horter, 708 Knight av. N., saw his sister, Madame Seraphine Mackel, for the last time in Paris before he came to the United States. Natives of the Alsace Lorraine area, they had first been separated when Madame Mackel went to Paris in 1903 to accept employment as a housemaid.

Since then, many years have passed, and Horter, a farmer, retired with his wife from a farm in the town of North. Neither the brother nor sister had any hope of seeing the other again.

Recently, the world-famous Lamoureux symphony orchestra of Paris made its plans for a tour of the United States. One of the members of the orchestra was a son-in-law of Madame Mackel.

When the orchestra flew to New York, one of the passengers on the plane was the local man's sister. Arrangements had been made by her two daughters and her son. From the east coast, she flew to Minneapolis and then to Thief River Falls March 8.

Conversation in the Horter home this month has been in German and French as news of the families is exchanged and the Mackel farm implement business (which sells and services American-built machinery), is discussed.

Madame Mackel will rejoin her son-in-law, Jacques Royer, and the Lamoureux orchestra April 10. They are now on a tour of 27 cities in the east, south and midwest.

Professional Men Meet with Board of Local Chamber

Discuss Adoption of More Inclusive Name for TRF Organization

A special meeting of the board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce was held Friday evening with local professional men. The results were so outstanding that this meeting will serve as a pattern for a series of meetings to be held, said Don M. Olson, president.

One of the items discussed was the proposed name change whereby the Chamber would be known as "The Greater Thief River Falls Area Chamber of Commerce." This proposal prompted many of the professional men in attendance to suggest that a special committee be organized to visit all the communities in the area and participate in their various functions. One of the names suggested was the "Sod Busters Club".

The Board will have their regular monthly meeting this evening in the Chamber office at coming meetings with representatives of the various types of business. The first of these meetings will be held Thursday at 8 a.m. at Inga's Cafe with the lumber yard dealers, paint and glass dealers and hardware stores.

It is hoped, said Olson, that the results will provide the board of directors and the program of work committee with the views and desires of all members regardless of the type of business they represent.

Scattered Light Snow or Rain Is Predicted for Area Tonight or Tuesday

The warmest temperature of 1960, a 44, was registered Saturday following a snowfall of two inches the day before.

Like any normal northwest Minnesota spring, the weather doesn't seem to be able to make up its mind. During the past week, readings have ranged from —8 during the early morning hours of Thursday to Saturday's 44. Last week's 3.3 inches of snow brought the month's total up to an even 4 inches.

The KTRF forecast is for occasional cloudiness today with mostly cloudy promised for tonight and tomorrow. Scattered light rain or snow is likely late tonight and tomorrow and warmer temperatures are predicted for tonight.

Winds today and tonight will be from the east and southeast at 10 miles an hour increasing to 15 to 20 late today and tonight. They are expected to become northwesterly tomorrow afternoon.

Temperatures today will be in the 30's and tonight from 28 to 35.

Convention Backs St. Paul Leader for the Governorship

Republicans at the biennial Pennington county convention Thursday night, March 24, went on record as favoring the passage of amendment No two for the reapportionment of state legislature, and selected delegates and alternates to the district and state conventions.

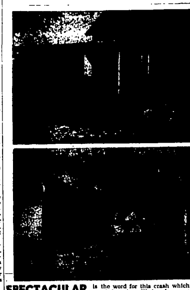
Heading the delegation will be Stanley Mortenson, county GOP chairman. Other delegates will be W. E. Dahlquist, Mrs. Robert Bredeson and David Brown. Alternates selected were John Keck, Gordon Relerson, Albert Roop, Dale Folger and Jon Metusalem. The county committee was given the authority to name other alternates.

The convention also endorsed candidates for state and national government office including Richard Nixon for president, Elmer L. Andersen for governor, Leonard Dickinson of Bemidji for lieutenant governor, Odin Langen for congress, Val Bjornson for state treasurer and Gaylord Saetre of Moorhead for attorney general.

Candidates endorsed were the same as those named by the Marshall-Pennington Young Republican club March 21 with the exception of the candidate for lieutenant governor. William J. Erickson had been endorsed at the earlier meeting.

It was announced at the convention that Elmer L. Andersen, Republican candidate for governor, would be in the area March 29-31, and the possibility of a breakfast in Thief River Falls Wednesday, March 30, was discussed.

The district convention will be in Bemidji April 22 and 23 and the state convention at the Leamington Hotel in Minneapolis June 2.



Marshall Co. GOP Backs Andersen for Governorship

Marshall county Republicans endorsed Elmer L. Andersen, St. Paul, former state senator, for governor and Mayor P. K. Peterson of Minneapolis for U. S. senator at the county convention held in Stephen Saturday, March 19.

The convention also gave its endorsement to Leonard Dickinson of Bemidji for lieutenant governor, Gaylord Saetre of Moorhead for attorney general in addition to praising and urging reelection of Val Bjornson as state treasurer and Odin Langen as the ninth district congressman.

Named as delegates to attend the Ninth District convention to be held in Bemidji April 22 and 23 and the state convention in Minneapolis June 3-5 were A. O. Hamnes of Stephen, Mrs. Alfred Olson of Argyle, Neil Mattson of Warren, Lee Selnes of Alvarado and W. C. Searles of Middle River.

Prowlers Lose in State 1st Round

SPECTACULAR is the word for this crash which occurred late last Wednesday evening when a former city resident now living in East Grand Forks apparently lost control of the car just inside Middle River.

Lee Grindeland was the driver who struck an approach on the outskirts of Middle River, bounced several feet into the corner of another residence, demolished a well pump with another bounce and finally crashed into the Bud Gram residence, causing over $500 damage.

In the above photos, Marshall county sheriff's deputy Milan Sorenson inspects the wreckage caused by the careening car — which investigation revealed was stolen by Grindeland earlier, in East Grand Forks. Grindeland admitted the theft to East Grand Forks Police Chief Wm. Strait after questioning the past week-end, local police reported today. (Middle River Record photos).

A tournament-wise and mature Austin team, sparked by the all-round play of six-foot three-inch forward Clayton Reed, took the Region Eight Prowlers out of championship competition in the Minnesota state high school basketball tournament by scoring a 55 to 41 win in a first-round game played on Thursday afternoon.

In a game preceding the Prowlers vs. Austin tilt, Granite Falls eliminated Melrose, 44-42. Thursday evening's play found Edgerton defeating Chisholm, 60-54, and Richfield defeating North St. Paul, 60-51.

In the Prowlers vs. Packers game, coach Hartley Story's club moved into a 2-0 lead in the opening minute when Bob Pearson hit on a jump shot from the right. Reed evened the game with a field goal, and then a pair of two-pointers by Austin's Don Bulger pushed the Packers into a 6-2 lead, and the Region One titlists never looked back. With Dick Schumacher and Reed rippling the net with five field goals, Austin climbed to a 18 to 7 lead at the end of the first period.

The Prowlers, who had been extremely erratic in their basket shooting in the opening stanza, came back in the second period to play the Austin club on even terms. Lanky Ron Hanson, maneuvering well in the pivot, rolled up four field goals and a pair of free throws in the second period. Don Ulferts added a pair of Prowler field goals, and Pearson tallied on a rebound shot.

The well-balanced Austin team, continuing to score field goals at 40% pace, "insured" their victory in the third period when they limited the Prowlers to a lone field goal; that by Hanson, while adding 13 points to their game total, to gain a 45-25 lead at the close of third period.

The Prowlers, playing considerably below the form they exhibited in defeating Bemidji in the regional finals, attempted to deflate that 20-point cushion that Austin had gained, and the locals did succeed in outpointing the Packers, 16-10, in the final stanza. But the result was never in doubt, and Austin deserved the 55-41 victory that they marked into the state tourney record book.

Austin's Reed won the game's scoring honors with nine field goals and a pair of free throws for 20 points. The Prowlers' Ron Hanson had seven field goals and four free throws for 18 points. Bob Pearson looped in four field goals and a pair of free throws to score 10 points for the locals.

Oak Grove Choir Pleases Audience

Many Enjoy Concert at Zion Church Wednesday

The appearance of the Oak Grove Lutheran high school choir from Fargo last Wednesday, March 23, at Zion Lutheran church of this city was enjoyed by the large audience which gathered to hear it. The vigor and vitality of this youthful group of singers was apparent to all who listened.

Under the direction of Professor Calmer A. Elness, its treatment of numbers worthy of a college choir was to be noted. Included were selections by Bach, Gretchaninoff and Cherubini, as well as by modern contemporaries such as Leland B. Sateren, Paul Minz, and M. B. Southall.

Among those particularly pleasing to the audience were a group of encore numbers which included Negro spirituals and some traditional carols, concluding with the presentation of a gay carol from France.

Christmas Seal Group Lauds Drug Treatment for TB

29 Pennington County Reactors Are Detected Last Year, Report Shows

Drugs that fight tuberculosis in the individual patient can wipe out this highly contagious disease in Pennington county if every person with active TB is treated adequately with drugs now available. Drug treatment coupled with a stepped up program to detect tuberculosis can mean elimination of this disease.

This statement was made yesterday by Mrs. Clifford D. Bjorkman secretary of the Pennington County Tuberculosis and Health association in urging an intensified TB detection program for the coming year.

Her statement follows the national recommendations that drug treatment be used nation wide as the spearhead for a knockout assault on tuberculosis in the United States.

In Pennington county, 29 reacted to the tuberculin test in a sampling testing survey last year, according to the Minnesota state department of health. Statistics show that many of those who react to the test will at some time in their lives break down with active TB.

The new approach, "detect and treat", calls for full cooperation of everyone interested in eliminating tuberculosis as a public health menace in this county, Mrs. Bjorkman reported.

HOBBYISTS HUNT RARE HARBINGERS OF SPRING

Bird watching is believed to be one of the fastest growing hobbies in Minnesota, perhaps in the entire nation. The advent of spring stirs this widespread interest to high pitch and stimulates the urge of the watchers, like the birds to band together in their mutual interest. With the annual winged migration approaching its peak watchers are organizing for trips—from brief local jaunts to organized excursions across the state. Minnesota bird watchers who may feel utterly isolated might easily find close neighbors with like interests through MOU—Minnesota Ornithologists Union. Confirmed hobbyists or interested beginners are invited to write for information, and for details of the spring field trip to the Albert Lea area May 21-22, to MOU Museum of Natural History, University of Minnesota, Minneapolis 14.

Physical Therapy at N.W. Hospital Topic of Session Thursday

Physical therapy and rehabilitation facilities at Northwestern Hospital were inspected Thursday evening by a group of state and county hospital and welfare officials. Among them were Miss Lake and Miss Marshall, state supervisors, and following a dinner program were Miss Edith Billar, R.N., and Harry B. Dando, R.P.T., both from the rehabilitation center of Fairview hospital in Minneapolis.

The visitors, numbering about 30, were taken on a tour of inspection of various phases of the service and the facilities available for the treatment of patients were explained by Norman Perrault, hospital administrator. Frank Peterson, R.P.T., who has charge of the therapy, and Mrs. Edith Wold, acting director of the nursing service.

Miss Laura Hegstad of the state department of health, reported on the work of that department in relation to the establishment of rehabilitation facilities and services. Marvin O. Rosen of Bemidji, district supervisor of the department of vocational rehabilitation, explained the work of that division. Miss Billar, who is also a polio patient and a double amputee, had received treatment at the Northwestern hospital and as outpatient beats while he was receiving vocational training at the Area Vocational School. He is now operating his own radio repair and refinishing shop at Bemidji.

Mrs. Laura Hensley of the state welfare department explained children's services, explained the program for aid in placing crippled children for treatment and corrective measures.

Dr. Ralph Miller of the Fairview Rehabilitation center, spoke of the progress that is being made in treating stricken people and those afflicted with disease or injury. Chronic illness and accidents were discussed and the benefits of early work in the interests of making it possible in many instances for persons to resume a gainful employment, or to enable many of them at least to become able to help themselves and thus not be a burden to their family or county care. They also emphasized the need for such rehabilitation wherever possible from a humanitarian standpoint.

The Falls hospital officials and the visitors dined in conference with hospital officials and members of the rehabilitation service staff.

Dinner was served in the hospital cafeteria, the waitresses being the student nurses who form the hospital's student division of service here is nearing its final two-year training course.

Northwestern medical and hospital staff members established the hospital here about a month ago. Mr. Perrault states that it is the intention of the staff to expand the hospital's rehabilitation facilities and services. This department is now equipped to handle a limited number of cases but the services will be more generally used as the public gains understanding of what it is being offered.

The business meeting will start at 2 o'clock in the Red River Room of the student union. The first part of the meeting will be devoted to training of Scouting personnel, discussing the types of materials available, and establishing goals for the District Committeemen in Finance, and Organization and Extension. Other meetings will be conducted simultaneously for Cub Pack, Scout Troop and Explorer Unit personnel, including unit leaders and assistants, committeemen and den mothers. The group will assemble later for a report of the Council nominating committee, election of officers, finance report, and a campaign report of the Council.

Ladies attending the meeting, will assemble at Walsh Hall on the University Campus at 2 o'clock for a tour of that dormitory. This will be followed by a program of entertainment by the University students and faculty. The Dakota Playmakers under the direction of Henry Lee, associate professor of speech, will present comedy selections; Gayle Sheard and Mildred Gratz, vocal solos; Leora Wiseman, piano solos. Accompanist for the program will be Paul Lundquist, University faculty. A tea at Bek Hall will follow the tour and entertainment.

A new Scouting film, "Trail of the Pioneers", will be shown to the Scouters and their wives in the Education Building at 5 o'clock.

The banquet will start at 6 p.m., with the presentation of colors, followed by a smorgasbord dinner. Entertainment will be provided by Miss Carol Skjerven and Robert Norton, who will sing selections from the opera, "Die Fledermaus."

One of the highlights of the evening will be the presentation of the Silver Beaver recognition for outstanding service in the Boy Scouts of America, service to boyhood, regardless of its being a part of the Boy Scout movement, and standing in the community, including business and professional affiliations. This award is the highest that a Scout Council can confer on any Scouter. Since 1931, fifty-one men have received this recognition.

The speaker of the evening will be Dr. John J. Neumeier president of Moorhead State College. His talk is entitled, "The Totalitarian Mind and Our Freedom of Thinking".

Henry Schreiber, regional executive of Region Ten, Boy Scouts of America, will be present and participate in the afternoon and evening programs.

'60 Census Count Starts Thruout Nation on Friday

in the 1960 census to make sure that all transients are counted, Carlson said.

Transients will be counted on the night of March 31. This census operation is known as "T-night." A supply of individual census report forms will be left at hotels, motels, and other large transient places to be distributed to transient guests staying at these places during the night of March 31. Census Bureau employes will be on hand during that evening to assist transients in filling out the forms. The purpose of the special canvass is to account for every person staying such places on the census date.

After the individual report forms have been collected, they will be screened to determine what names should be included in the local census counts. Persons enumerated on "T-night" will be counted as part of the local population only if they have no usual place of residence elsewhere. Names of transients will be allocated back to their usual place of residence.

Information on permanent residents of these special dwelling units will also be obtained by means of individual census report forms, and the information about their housing accommodations will be furnished by the resident managers of these places.

Our LAND

Appearing in newspapers of the Minnesota Editorial Association through the cooperation of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service and the University of Minnesota Institute of Agriculture.

How to get a bigger farm without buying more land. Turn to a conservation plan, like Norman Torbenson, Northfield, did. His farm was badly eroded by water and wind. His 160 acres hardly produced enough grain and hay to feed 23 head of cattle. Then he put in 69 acres of contour strips and 11 acres of strips across open, wind-blown fields. He adopted a corn grain hay-hay rotation, seeded 23 acres to permanent pasture. Now he produces feed enough for 46 head and has bought no hay since 1957 and needs very little extra grain, according to Clarence Quie, Dakota county agent.

Terraceville 1959 didn't stop in the Lac qui Parle soil conservation district. Harvey Eichstadt, Walnut Grove, is a cooperator in the Redwood county district. After visiting Terraceville, he decided to build a diversion terrace of his own. He told Robert J. Feldt of the Soil Conservation Service that terracing answered his particular problem nicely.

* * *

Here's how one farmer reduced fertilizer needs and improved soil structure. Joe Warmka, Easton, seeds alfalfa with grain, and plows the alfalfa under in fall when it's 12-16 inches high. Then in making soil test recommendations, Faribault county soils agent Francis Januschka reduces amount of nitrogen accordingly. The system works well. Even with low moisture last summer, Warmka had corn yields averaging 80-90 bushels per acre.

* * *

"Terracing is the practice we need" says Don Wilford, Canton, farmer in the East Fillmore soil conservation district. He terraced a field last year and had the best yield it ever produced. "I'm hoping more farmers in this area will do the same thing," he says. He farms 200 acres and is planning another 1¼ miles of terraces in 1960, according to SCS technician Arnold Aakre.

Tips on Income Taxes

By Minnesota State Bar Assn.

(This is the eighth in a series of articles on Income Tax made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar association, Public Relations committee.)

The Sick Pay Exclusion

If you were sick or were injured during 1959 and your employer continued to pay your wages while you were away from work, you may be entitled to exclude from your gross income the amount you received as pay during part or all of the period you were away from work. The law also provides that health and accident insurance coverage provided by your employer or payment of medical expenses by your employer is not includible in your gross income.

Normally, insurance benefits received and medical expenses paid while you are sick or injured will not appear in your reported income. On the other hand, your W-2 record of total wages paid will generally show the amount of wages which you received during the entire year without consideration of possible exclusions based upon this provision of the law.

The sick pay exclusion is allowed whether or not you itemize your personal deductions and is removed from gross income before arriving at the amount of your adjusted gross income. This exclusion is limited, however, to $100 of wages received per week.

If you are injured, the period during which the exclusion is applicable begins on the date of injury and terminates on the date you return to work.

If, however, you are absent from work due to sickness, the exclusion does apply during the first calendar week you are absent from work unless, during the period of sickness, you are hospitalized for at least one day. If you are sick and are hospitalized, the computation of the sick pay exclusion begins with the day you become sick and terminates with the day you return to work.

The computation of the proper sick pay exclusion must be based upon the facts of your actual employment and the amount of wages your employer actually pays you while you are absent. Thus, if you are sick on Saturday and Sunday and normally do not work on these days, no sick pay exclusion can be taken. It is allowed to you only for those working days you are not at work and this absence is the result of your sickness or injury.

The sick pay exclusion is allowed on both your Federal and Minnesota tax returns. You must, however, substantiate your right to the exclusion by submitting adequate information to justify the amount of the exclusion taken. This substantiating information normally includes a statement as to your normal work week, the actual days you were absent, the rate of pay you receive from your employer, the cause of your absence from work and the actual amount you received as pay from your employer during the period of absence. In addition, a statement from your employer should be attached showing the amount paid to you as wages during the period of absence and also the period during which you were absent from work due to sickness or injury.

The Federal Revenue Service now provides Form 2440 to assist you in making the proper computations of the exclusion in lieu of submitting the documents and information discussed herein.

(This column, based on Minnesota and federal law, is written to inform, not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of a trained expert who knows the facts, because the facts may change the application of the law.)

DOG TIRED — New York — Jeff Sigler, six months, has a soft spot but a tough baby-sitter in five-year-old thoroughbred boxer King Von Bodenheim. The stern-looking pooch is on hand to make sure nobody interrupts the tot's moment of relaxation.

DUTCH TREAT — Lansing, Mich. — Dressed in the costumes of the old Netherlands, these singing belles are actually from Holland, Mich. They traveled to the Michigan capital of Lansing to open the 1960 session of the State House of Representatives.

GOT THE SHAKES — Chicago — A mop that shakes itself clean is easy to handle as demonstrated by model Rorsika Carroll at the National Housewares Exhibit in Chicago. An adjustment of the sliding metal glide on the handle turns the trick, and the mop shakes itself free of dirt automatically.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor Times:

At the meeting of Dec. 4th at Grygla, to determine if the people in the area were still interested in supporting the application for planning assistance thru the small watershed act, there were 57 votes to go ahead with a survey and study of the watershed, and five votes against.

This alone should indicate pretty well the desire of the people to go ahead and get a planning party started to make a complete detailed study of the watershed, to determine costs, benefits ratios, soils study, engineering study on present drainage with recommendations for improvements and also determine the income feasibility of such improvements. This study is absolutely without cost to the taxpayers of the area, so I want to say a word of warning; that if we turn down this survey at this time we may never get this chance again.

There are dozens of watersheds waiting eagerly for a planning party. These surveys and plannings are made by the Soil Conservation Service and this service does not have a large staff to make all of the studies that are requested.

I believe that in justice and fairness to all people concerned that we should withhold all "criticisms and opinions" at this time as to what is good or bad until there is a plan made and recommendations presented to the people of the area. That will be the proper time for us to express our views and propose any changes we feel would be desirable.

We all know that the best plan may need changes to better fit particular areas and still may not satisfy everyone one-hundred per cent. We know from experience that our drainage system needs some changes and improvements. This can well be substantiated by the large number of petitions, springing up all over the area for ditch cleanings and improvements but that still does not solve the real problems of the watershed.

It is my belief that we all need to work together on this big job of improving farming possibilities over this entire area, if our children are going to have a better chance of making a living and further the building and upkeep of this entire community. And this applies to the planning now under way for the Thief River Watershed as well. Now is the time to be patient in the hope that when the plans and the recommendations are submitted we can consider them on their merits.

Oliver P. Howland

WEDDING BELLS RING LOUD AND LONG

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Frutiger, Pine Island, recently passed their 60th wedding anniversary. At Hasty, near St. Cloud, the L. G. Eversons celebrated their 63rd wedding anniversary with a quiet family gathering. In the city where they were married February 28, 1889, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bixby, 96 and 89, celebrated with relatives their 71st wedding anniversary . . . In and around Rochester and Ellendale, three Zeman brothers, Ray, Leo and Richard, married three Walker sisters, Susanne, Joanne, and Bernice; Ray and Susanne, Richard and Joanne participated in a double wedding six years ago, and recently Leo and Bernice made it an unusual sextet. . . . Guests at the Sleepy Eye wedding of Bernadette Braulik and Myron Schneider included eight especially interested ladies and gentlemen: the four grandparents of both the bride and the groom, all residents of that immediate vicinity.

Melrose Edges Locals in State

The luckless Prowlers were shunted to the sidelines in the Minnesota state high school basketball tournament when, in a first round consolation game on Friday afternoon, the Melrose Dutchmen of Region Six came up with a 17-point fourth period to overcome a Prowler lead and defeat the locals, 48-38. Melrose went on to win the consolation title, defeating Chisholm of Region Seven, 65-57, on Saturday evening.

In their game with Melrose, the Prowlers, after trailing by one point, 9 to 10, at the end of the first period, moved into the lead in the opening minutes of the second period when Ron Solheim, Ron Hanson, and Don Ulferts scored field goals. But that lead was short-lived as Melrose, getting a pair of field goals and notching seven free throws in seven tries, held a five-point lead, 23-18. A three-point play by Hanson, a field goal from the outside by Steve Embury, and a pair of free throws by Bob Pearson gave coach Hartley Story's team a 25-23 lead at the intermission.

In the third period of play, the Prowlers outpointed Melrose, 9 to 8, to add a point to their margin and hold a 34-31 lead entering the final period of play.

Eddie Lietzow scored a pair of points on a one-and-one free throw bonus to open the final period's scoring. Marv Ostendorf dropped in a Melrose field goal, paring the Prowler lead to three points. Lietzow, with 6:36 to play looped in a pair of free throws, the final points scored by the Prowlers and giving the locals a five-point bulge.

Gerry Arvig and Marv Ostendorf marked up three points for Melrose on free throws, and at the 3:56 mark, on Hanson's fifth personal foul, Sieben sliced the lead to one point, 38-37. And at the 3:52 mark, on Lietzow's foul, Sieben evened the game score at 38-all. A field goal by Sieben and a pair of fielder's by center Mel Beste pushed the Dutchmen into a 44-38 lead. Beste, with Hanson out of the lineup, was able to use his height to advantage around the offensive board. Beste's four free throw points closed out the game's scoring.

The Prowlers were handicapped greatly in the fourth period by the absence of Steve Embury. The Prowlers' co-captain and play-making guard was forced to the sidelines by a leg injury.

Plan to Note Civil War Centennial

Five- year Observance to Start Next January

The largest gathering of Civil War buffs in history is expected to mark the third nationwide assembly of National Centennial Commission when it convenes in St. Louis, Co., May 5-6 for its final meeting before the formal opening of the commemorative observances next January.

Twenty one speakers, headed by Bruce Catton, Pulitzer-prize-winning author, will appear on the program. Each a specialist in his field, their subjects will cover a widespread range of subjects, all intended to assist states and local groups in their planning of a proper Centennial.

All sessions will be held at the Sheraton-Jefferson Hotel. Major-General U. S. Grant, 3rd, chairman of the Commission, will preside. The annual meeting will take place at the end of a little more than two years of work on Centennial planning and is projected as the most important to date. The first assembly was held in Washington, D. C., in 1958 and and the second at Richmond, Va., last spring.

A Salutary Effect

We must mention that the winning of the Region Eight basketball championship by the Prowlers had a couple of healthful effects on the cage sport here. First, it was a boost for Region Eight basketball, for it proved that the Bemidji Lumberjacks aren't invincible, and we hope that it will encourage other teams to help in burying the Bemidji "jinx".

Second, it will serve to resurrect basketball interest here by the grade school boys. It's a fact that hockey has made inroads on the athletic interest of the youngsters to quite a degree.

And one of the appeals of hockey is that Prowlers have, since 1945, made eight trips to the state hockey tournament. This fact isn't lost on the youngster, for they realize that by playing hockey their chances of appearing in a state tournament are quite bright. That appeal has been dimmed somewhat by this season's Prowler basketball team who gained a berth in the state tournament.

It's true, too, that playing in a state basketball tournament is a more exciting and colorful and memorable experience than playing in a state hockey tournament.

The Prowlers returned home Sunday afternoon, and were given a welcome home reception at the high school gymnasium. It's probable that the Prowlers, except for a couple of cold and low-scoring periods would have gained the semi-finals in the championship round or the consolation title. Against Austin in a first round game, the Prowlers turned in a 2-point third period, and that proved costly; and against Melrose, in consolation play, the Prowlers chalked up a 4-point fourth period to lose the decision. To be a winner in state tournament play a team cannot afford such low-scoring periods.

Hassle

We wonder how many of the fans who were in attendance at the Region Eight finals last week noticed the hassle between the Bemidji and Prowler coaches over the choice of the benches that the two teams were to occupy? Both teams wanted the west bench, and the Prowlers, by a quick maneuver, secured the west bench and held it throughout the pre-game warm-up period. The two clubs left the court five minutes before game time for their final instructions from the coaches.

Ordinarily, the Bemidji Lumberjacks take their time in returning to the court, and often it is necessary to whistle the Jacks to the floor. But not this time. They hustled back real quick, and then made a mass move toward the west bench, and took over possession. The Prowlers returned to the floor, and were forced to accept the east bench.

Athletic director Ralph Skay made a protest to the officials and the game was held up for several minutes, but Bemidji retained possession of the west bench. That's all they won, though, for the Prowlers beat them quite badly, 60-53.

On the Button

To our knowledge the only fans in these parts to pick the correct score for the Edgerton team in its state championship effort against Austin on Saturday night was Bob Craik. He had Edgerton scoring 72 points in the finals on Al Holzknecht's state tournament sweepstakes.

Unfortunately, Bob has to share his first prize with Gordon LaBree. Gordon had Edgerton winning the final by scoring 65 points, and the two experts, Bob and Gordon, agreed to a combination effort to squeeze out Redie Stromberg, who had Edgerton scoring 67 points.

Happy Holz had Austin winning the title, for which profound prediction he received nothing but abuse. Incidentally, this has been a cruel March for Al. Not only did he pick Austin for the state cage title, but he picked Bemidji to win the Region Eight basketball honors, and Roseau to win the Region Eight hockey title. He'll be making another trip to Hawaii, and on his own money.

A Recommendation

The members of the American Hockey Coaches Association, by a 19 to 5 vote at a meeting held last week, recommended to the National Collegiate hockey rules committee that "players who had competed in a league that paid any of its players be ineligible for college hockey".

This resolution is aimed at colleges who invade Canada's Junior "A" hockey for players. The Junior "A" leagues, which are training grounds for Canadian hockey players from 15 to approximately 21 years of age, are said to be sponsored by the National Hockey league. It has been established by champions of amateur hockey, in this country that many of the players in the Junior "A" receive up to $60 a month.

Edgerton Wins State Cage Title

Before a crowd of more than 15,000 fans in Williams Arena in Minneapolis on Saturday night, Edgerton of Region Two won the 48th annual Minnesota state high school basketball championship by defeating Austin of Region One, 72-61. Edgerton exhibited remarkable poise as they moved through the championship round.

In a first round game Thursday night, the Dutchmen defeated Chisholm 65 to 54. In a semi-finals tilt on Friday night, and which required an overtime period, Edgerton, by converting thirty five of forty-three free throw attempts defeated the tournament favorites, Richfield, 63 to 50.

In the championship finals, Edgerton moved into an early lead, having a 15-8 first period lead and a 36-21 advantage at the intermission.

Dean Veenhof, Edgerton's splendid center, an all-state tournament selection and perhaps the tournament's most exciting player, sparked the Dutch men to their state title and their 27th successive win without a loss this season, by scoring 27 points on 13 field goals and a free throw. The Edgerton guards, LeRoy Graphenteen and Darrell Kreun, both of whom were selected to the all-state squad, were vital factors in the win. Graphenteen scored 15 points, while Kreun had 11 points. Veenhof, Graphenteen, and Kreun are juniors and will return for next season's play.

The powerful Richfield team, with their 6 foot, 6 inch center Bill Davis scoring 10 points, defeated Granite Falls, 77-50, for third place honors.

Selke and Sheriffs Confer on Boat Law

A committee of Minnesota state sheriffs on boating conferred with Conservation Commissioner George A. Selke in St. Paul Wednesday, March 23. Sheriffs are charged with the enforcement of the Minnesota boating act.

Recommendations submitted by Commissioner Selke on the appointment of a water safety coordinator, standards for the uniform marking of waterways and an information center on boat ownership to assist sheriffs in law enforcement were unanimously endorsed by the committee.

In reporting on the administration of the boating act Selke said it was unfortunate that any confusion should have developed between the provisions of this act and personal property taxes. The legislature enacted this law to comply with the Federal Boating Act of 1958 which required registration of watercraft. The legislature acted wisely for those states failing to pass such legislation would be subject to registration under the U. S. Coast Guard.

To avoid any misunderstanding the law specifically states, "the license fee on watercraft as imposed herein is not to be considered in lieu of personal property taxes thereon." Incidentally, however, registration of boats has for the first time made the names and addresses of boat owners available to the assessor through the office of the county auditor.

Selke concluded by congratulating the legislature on the passage of an essentially good boating act. It was not only one of the first to be passed by the states, but also one of the first to be federally approved. Our neighboring states have all passed similar legislation.

Members of the committee are: Peter Lahr (Pres. M.S.S.A.) Stearns county sheriff; F. B. Simpson, Cass county sheriff; Paul M. Zillgitt, Goodhue county sheriff; Lorne Erickson, Isanti county sheriff; Howard Urness, Douglas county sheriff; Sam M. Owens, St. Louis county sheriff; Marvin W. Mitchell, Itasca county sheriff; and Carl G. Williams, representing Ed Ryan, Hennepin county sheriff.

Drugs Reduce Turkey Loss from Blackhead

While there's still no total cure for blackhead disease in turkeys, several drugs can reduce losses from the ailment by 50 per cent or more.

That was the finding in studies with 100 turkeys at the University of Minnesota's Northwest Experiment Station, Crookston.

A. M. Pilkey, station poultry husbandman, and Dr. B. S. Pomeroy, veterinary scientist, found that of the untreated turkeys infected with blackhead, 24 per cent died.

But in six of seven groups of turkeys fed anti-blackhead drugs in their diets, death losses were no more than half as great. In two groups, only 2-4 per cent of the birds were lost.

Drugs also lowered feed requirements. Untreated birds required 5.08 pounds feed per pound of gain, while those on drugs varied from 3.91 to 4.67.

Fleshing and feathering were better on treated turkeys, too.

Pilkey and Pomeroy used several different drugs — Histostat 50, Hepzide 30, NF 64, NF 179 and NF 180. Drugs were prepared in a pre-mix and put in soybean meal, which in turn was mixed with a Minnesota Standard Turkey ration.

Blackhead is one of the more serious turkey diseases in the Midwest. National death losses from the disease total more than $3.8 million annually.

In addition, growers lose money from birds that survive but go down in weight and condition. Finally, some recovered birds may be condemned at slaughter because of liver lesions from the disease.

Since there is little or no immunity to blackhead, the best answer so far is a preventive program, based on drugs and careful, sanitary flock management.

IMPRESSIVE ADDITION TO MINNEAPOLIS HORIZON

Recent occupation and public opening of the First National Bank Building in Minneapolis brings to light impressive statistics. The 28 story edifice towers 383 feet above the Mill City sky line, while the elevator pits descend 46 feet to make the overall height 429 feet; more than 50,000 cubic yards of mother earth came out of the basement and sub basement, and more than 19,000 cubic yards of concrete along with 5,100 tons of structural steel went into the structure; largest beam is a 48 foot column weighing 24 tons. The 1,955 windows contain nearly two acres of glass. Banking operations utilize the 227,125 square feet of the first five floors, leaving 179,391 square feet of tower space for office use. Founded as a private bank in 1857 and chartered as the city's first national bank in 1865, the First National now ranks 62nd in size in a nation of big banks, with resources well over half a billion.

Youths Reminded to Register at Age 18

Lt. Colonel Murley A. Reep, state director of selective service, today called attention to the fact that all young men (including those who are or who become members of a reserve component, to include National Guard) must register with their nearest local selective service board when they attain eighteen years of age or within five days thereafter, and that failure to register is a violation of the law and makes the delinquent liable to penalty.

"All a young man has to do," Colonel Reep said, "is to present himself to the local board or registration place designated in that particular area most convenient to the place he happens to be when he becomes eighteen. The registration process is simple and requires only a short time."

"The law is specific," he said, "and provides severe penalty for failure to comply," adding that the law is also specific in its requirements concerning the obligation of a registrant to keep his local board informed as to any change in his address — where he may be reached by mail, that it — or any change in his occupational, marital, family or military status.

Colonel Reep also stated that the Selective Service regulations provide that every resident must have in his personal possession his registration certificate prepared by his local board which has not been altered or changed in any manner after its preparation by the local board, and a registrant who has in his possession an altered registration certificate may be declared a delinquent and ordered for induction ahead of other registrants by reason of the delinquency.

Colonel Reep emphasized the fact that requirements to register and legal obligations of registrants were in no way altered because selective service calls have been low in the past few months.

Registration for those in Pennington county may be accomplished at one of the following places:

Local Board No. 82, basement of Auditorium, Thief River Falls; Mrs. Irene Ellingson, postoffice, Goodridge, or Miss Barbara Peterson, office of Rullen & Wurst, Northern State Bank Bldg., Thief River Falls.

"We praise the man who "has the courage of his convictions," but every bigot and fanatic has that; what is much harder, and rarer, is to have the courage to re-examine one's convictions and to reject them if they don't square with the facts.—Sydney J. Harris.

Let Them Compete

Canadian railroads report piggyback carloadings up 75 per cent last year, the number increasing from 7,000 in 1958 to 131,000 in 1959. Both railroads offer extensive service to independent truckers as well as carrying their own trailers.

Canadian railroads are not handicapped in their operations by restrictive legislation to the extent that our railroads are. American railroads are still regulated by laws passed back in the days when they had a monopoly in the field of transportation. Now, in a highly competitive field, they are fighting other forms of transportation with their hands tied.

It would be in the public interest now to give our railroads greater freedom in this struggle for survival. Recent decisions by the Interstate Commerce Commission indicate that this need is finally being recognized.

Alaskan Lotteries

Gambling of a type that has been accepted traditionally in Alaska was legalized recently by the enactment of a bill that became law by overriding the Governor's veto. The law will permit "guessing" lotteries on such questions as when will the ice go out in the spring break-up. It legalizes fish derby raffles, church beano games, dog-musher contests and the like. Organizations wanting to conduct such activities are required to purchase a state permit.

Last year the Nenana ice lottery distributed $85,000 to the winners after the federal and state governments and the community of Nenana had taken their shares of the 170,000 tickets sold.

Here in Minnesota we have legalized bingo for benevolent and charitable purposes but the purpose of the law has been ignored and the game is now commercialized. Maybe we should take another look at our laws pertaining to gambling with a more realistic approach to what actually is being done.

The best way to get better laws probably is to enforce strictly the laws as they are now written. Strict enforcement would bring to our attention some of the absurdities.

Big Pressure Group

A study of Minnesota employment security department statistics reveals a big increase in the number of people in the state on public payrolls. During the past ten years government employment increased 34.5 per cent while the number of all employees increased only 20 per cent.

These figures tell only a part of the story in considering the growing number of our people who are on the receiving end of government pay checks. In this group must be included those who receive government retirement pay, social security and public assistance checks of various kinds, and the large number of people employed in jobs dependent on public spending.

All of these people are on the receiving end of the spending procedure and have a special interest in government spending that no doubt influences to some extent their attitude toward goverment. These good people are not likely to vote for any program of increased efficiency or curtailment of services that will effect them adversely. They are well-meaning parts of a growing pressure group that asks constantly for more for themselves and a larger share of the national earnings.

There is no reason to believe this trend will level off. On the contrary there is reason to fear that it will move on at an accelerating rate until it becomes too heavy a burden for the economy of the country to carry. Good management of our affairs in any form requires a lot of restraint. Government by the people can be successful only to the extent that the people recognize their own responsibilities and are willing to exercise reasonable restraint. But it appears now that we are going to keep on voting ourselves dividends that have not yet been earned.

The big increase in the percentage of our people who are on the receiving end of government pay checks is an alarming trend.

Tempest In A Teapot

(Art Suel in the New Prague Times)

Neighboring communities,—just as neighboring families in a community,—should live together in peace and harmony, neighborliness and friendliness.

Such course of action does not preclude but rather encourages a lively spirit of competition in commercial fields, athletic activities and over the entire range of community enterprises.

If and when partisan enthusiasm gets out of bounds, it is the duty and responsibility of community leaders to restore calmness, common sense and forbearance to overwrought situations.

* * * *

It is the policy of this newspaper that when the official gives the signal ending an athletic contest, that game is over, and there is nothing further to be done about it except to congratulate the winners and to give a pat on the back to the losers.

True sportsmanship is exemplified by being gracious in victory and gallant in defeat.

There is growing anxiety among those deeply concerned with the welfare of education over what may appear to be over emphasis of competitive sports, particularly in secondary schools, to the detriment of the scholastic program.

In times when taxpayers are digging deeply into their pocketbooks and making financial sacrifices to provide the greatest possible educational opportunity to our youth, all phases of the educational program including the athletic curricula can be expected to bear close scrutiny and careful appraisal.

The taxpayers who are footing the bill have the right to expect that each and every segment of the educational program shall be instructive, constructive, and elevating to the youth,—and it is the responsibility of administrators and instructors as well as community leaders and adults, here and elsewhere, to quell the outbursts of hotheads and to demonstrate that the game is for the students.

Tariff Debate

(New York Times)

The age-old debate of the protectionists versus the traders developed an interesting point in Washington the other day. The occasion was a Tariff Commission hearing on further restrictions against imports of cotton textiles. The witness, pleading for more protection, was Governor Ernest Hollings of South Carolina.

Governor Hollings cited impressive figures on the rise of imports from 73,000,000 square yards in 1954 to 240,000,000 square yards last year. This 240,000,000 square yards, he said, represented the loss of 5,526 American jobs.

Think of that figure for a moment. In an ordinary month in this economy the number of jobs rises or falls by half a million or more. The total is now about 65,000,000. The number of people who find jobs in New York City alone in a single day is probably not far below 5,526. Employment in the textile industry is just under a million, meaning that the "lost" jobs represent about one-half of 1 per cent.

In short, the figure is so ridiculously small that it destroys the Governor's case. If this is the best "disaster" the protectionists can produce, then we can all relax and go about the profitable business of lowering our tariffs further.

Three R's at Home

(Capper's Weekly)

I think we at home are responsible for "three R's" as much as the teachers at school. The three I would choose are religion, respect, and relax. I think it is most important to teach our daughters:

Religion. Deep faith and trust in God. Good moral standards are set for a girl by her family.

Respect. For family, friends, foe and most of all, self respect. If you have no prejudices, your daughter should have no basis for any of her own.

Relax. Learn to enjoy life in this busy world. A love of beauty around us, appreciation of music, a sense of humor. Happiness is a light we turn on within ourselves. I want my daughter's happiness to radiate to the whole world.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

A rather crusty old man invested in one of the new hearing aids that are almost invisible. A few days later he returned to the store to express his delight.

"I'll bet your family likes it too," said the salesman.

"Oh, they don't know I've got it," said the old fellow. "And in the past two days I've changed my will twice!"

In a special session Saturday, Marlene Elg, Goodridge, pleaded guilty to drinking by a minor, in connection with the same group in court last week as a result of arrests by Sheriff Charles Richards following a beer party in which a girl was knifed some weeks ago. She was given a $10 fine, suspended.

There were three highway patrol cases Monday. Glen R. Jorde, rt. 2, pleaded guilty to going through a school bus stop signal and was fined $15. David A. Berg, city, paid a $10 fine after pleading guilty to failure to display 1960 plates.

All other cases were brought by city police. Millard A. Nelson, city, was fined $10 after pleading guilty to driving without 1960 plates. Loren D. Klopp, city, pleaded guilty to possession of beer by a minor and was fined $10.

Christine A. Sheridan, rt. 1, Goodridge, was fined $10, suspended, after pleading guilty to making an improper U turn.

GOP Aspirant for Governor Speaks Here Wednesday

was demanded by the candidate who pointed to Governor Freeman's imposition of marital law in the packing house strike at Albert Lea as an example of yielding to mob violence. This, he said, has had an adverse effect on those who seek new locations for their businesses.

Continuing on the subject of business development in the state, Andersen said that the governor had "talked a lot" about his program of encouraging industry but that no single program has ever been put into operation for that purpose. "The present administration has been characterized by tax increases on the mining industry of Minnesota which have resulted in the state furnishing a smaller amount of the ore in comparison to foreign countries," he said. Despite the poor competitive position of Minnesota which has resulted in fewer job opportunities in the mines, miners have voted in favor of the ones who have caused decreasing mine output and fewer jobs.

"Constructive action" to attract industry and increase the state's population were called for by Andersen who said that a preliminary report of the 1960 census shows that Minnesota with a 14% increase in population will fall behind the national average of 17%. "This means that we will lose a congressman and will lose a voice in our federal government," he said.

"Young people don't find an adequate number of jobs in the state while those in the over-65 bracket have increased to a point where we have a greater percentage than California or Florida," Andersen said. He called job opportunities for the younger, income producing age group an important problem which must be solved.

The Republican candidate said that there is too much taxation on property and that there is a need for relief from burdensome personal property and property taxes but only if there is a complete revision of the state tax structure. "I would veto a sales tax unless it were a part of such a revision," he said.

Tax reforms as a means of industrial development were advocated by Andersen who proposed that there should be more industries attracted to the state which would process agricultural products and promote the welfare of both the agricultural and urban areas, the candidate said.

Turning to education, Andersen declared that the present administration has always been in favor of the centralization of facilities for higher education while the Republicans have favored decentralization. He favored the continuance of the state college system as an entity separate from the University.

During a question and answer period, the question of the interstate highway system was raised and Andersen said he believed the program in many places showed indications of "political taint." The uniformity of the system of taxation in comparison to neighboring states was urged from the standpoint of competition by the candidate.

Spring Bonspiel Ends with Finals Monday

To the accompaniment of Monday evening's lightning and thunder the three finals matches in the curling club's spring bonspiel were played. The Len Furuseth rink — Dick Kelly, Gursten Skomedal, Rich Jorde and Furuseth — defeated the Lyle Liden rink, 8-5, to win the first event honors. In the second event, the Hans Newman rink — John Lubitz, Bob Benke, Herb Hartje, and Newman — scored a 7-3 win over the Harold Halvorson quartet. And in the third event finals, in a match that required an extra end the Allen Mortenson rink — Roger Ruprecht, David Schwartz, John Mortenson, and Allen Mortenson — edged out the James Muzzy rink, 5-4.

The first event finals was in doubt until the 8th and final end, with the skip rocks being the vital stones. Len Furuseth, who is usually a blasting take-out man, drew a pair of rocks into the four-foot, and when Lyle Liden couldn't reach the rocks, being a bit wide on his shots, the Furuseth rink won the match.

In the third event Allen Mortenson, on a rock that required measurement, evened his match with James Muzzy on the 8th end, and then won on the extra end.

The ice was soft and swingy, and the curlers were forced to cast "heavy" rocks in order to reach the "house."

The line scores:

Len Furuseth	302	001	12—8
Lyle Liden	010	220	00—5
Hans Newman	001	112	20—7
Harold Halvorson	110	000	01—3
Allen Mortenson	101	011	01[illegible]	1—5
James Muzzy	010	100	1[illegible]	0—4

Fargo Man Gives Rotary Program

Milton Larson Describes Recent Trip to Alaska

Milton Larson of Fargo, formerly of this city, gave an illustrated talk on his trip last year from Seattle to Alaska and the Arctic region of Canada at the Monday luncheon meeting of the Rotary club.

Larson, his wife and son left Seattle with an outboard cruiser club bound for Alaska but abandoned the trip at the halfway mark and returned to Seattle from where they went by air to Fairbanks. From there, they went to McKinley park by train, to Point Barrow, Whitehorse, Skagway and Juneau.

The speaker illustrated his talk with colored slides taken during the trip.

Jarvis Prichard, vice president of the Rotary club, read an invitation to the members to attend the 25th anniversary celebration of the Bemidji Rotary April 11. Several members of the local club plan to attend the event.

Andy Williamson and Dr. Ralph Helm were elected to represent the Rotary on the committee to prepare for the annual athletic banquet.

Wally Tunberg reported on the recent Red Cross informational meeting which was attended by representatives of several organizations in the city.

Pupils of Grades 1-3 Invited to Story Hour Apr. 2

Story hour for pupils of grades 1-3 will continue at the public library at 1:30 on Saturday with the reading of "A Tree Is Nice" by Janice May Udry. Some of the reasons Mrs. Udry feels trees are a good thing to have around are funny, some are facts. But all are presented so simply they are sure to entrance any child.

The illustrations done by Marc Simont won him and the book the Caldecott medal. Mr. Simont, a French artist who now lives in Connecticut, has illustrated numerous children's books including those of Ruth Krauss and Margaret Wise Brown. He has also written and illustrated several books of his own.

In loving memory of Paul Schenke who passed away 7 years ago, March 31.
Though his smile is gone forever,
And his hand we cannot touch,
Still we have so many memories
Of the one we loved so much.

With which we'll never part;
God has him in his keeping,
We have him in our hearts.
Sadly missed by his wife, Gladys, and daughters, Gloria and Bonita. 1t26p

Soft Ice

We closed out the 1960 hockey season last week by making the short jaunt to Roseau where we witnessed the Winnipeg-Roseau series. Roseau won the series, which was won by the Lakers, 8-4, with Roger Christian playing a starring role for the Lakers.

We had an opportunity of renewing acquaintances with a number of "boys" who, in the past, performed for Roseau in hockey with the Thiefs. Playing with the Maroons were such former local luminaries as Sim Christian, Ken McKenzie, Bill Hallstrom, and Tom Marshall; and with the Lakers, Murray Balaguer and Dave Gunderson.

Balaguer seemed to enjoy himself with his many friends down here, and particularly to Tony Doan, Harry Hendrickson, and Russ Embury. We were to inform Russ that he, Balaguer, and Embury are the only three Balaguers who has been a high-scoring center with the Lakers for the past two or three seasons. Russ is employed in the Winnipeg office of the Sovereign Life Insurance company.

The Fort Frances Canadians won the Thunder International hockey title by defeating the Steelton Mercuries, three games to two. The Canadians returned to Fort Frances trailing the Mercuries two games to zero in the best-of-five series, but rallied to win the next three games at Fort Frances, and playing similar role in the Canadians' victories were Guy LaPrance, who concluded his college career with the North Dakota Sioux this season, and Bill Hay, who starred with the high scoring Gophers of Minnesota. Gophers this season. The two men are Fort Frances natives and therefore are eligible to play in the International playdowns.

It is reported that Jack McCartan, the former Minnesota goalie who played as spectacular a game as any goalie ever performed in the Lakers' cage, for three games that he played with the New York Rangers. The New York club wanted to give Jack a tryout, after the United States team won the Olympic title, and the Lakers won the Allan Cup.

After covering the Ranger offer, Jack contacted Johnny Mayasich, another former United States Olympic player who also went to Minnesota and who knows his way around. Mayasich told McCartan that he could get Jack a job, if he signed for $1,000 per game. He did, and he did.

McCarten, of course, isn't limited to hockey as a means of making a livelihood in professional sports. He is a crack golfer and a fast pitcher on the baseball champion Gophers a couple of years ago.

Says John Kundla

The Minnesota Gophers' basketball coach, John Kundla, was an interested spectator at the Bemidji-Thief River Falls tournament last week and he had some nice comments to make on the play of the various teams and players. He rated as the best all-around player there, that is, players who could do everything that good basketball ever meant, Dean Vereshof of the state champion Edgerton team and Ian Hanson of the Provico. Vereshof is a 6-foot 5-inch veteran who can play either as a center, nice to height of 6-foot 6-inch Hanson.

Ian, who handles himself extremely well, and who is adept at scoring on layup shots, has tremendous potential. As Ian becomes more experienced and his strength and aggressiveness will become a greater basketball player, he has all the qualifications.

According to Kundla, the two most promising prospects for the Gophers next year are Ron Erickson, 6-foot 4-inch guard from Bill Davis of Richfield, both of whom were all-state tournament selections.

Just a Mention

We will make a brief note here of the effort that Glenn Anderson and his Schroeder's bowling team made in the Thief River Falls-Crookston match with Babe Julien's team. The Julien's scored 2,787 pins in the six game, declared total in one game, defeated the Schroeder's by 26 pins in the three-game total-pins match.

Prowler Quint Sets Score Mark in '59-60

During the 1959-60 basketball season the Detroit Pistons' veteran forward, Dick McGuire, scored 1,245 points setting a new record for the 14-4 team (the previous mark set by the Philadelphia 76ers' 5-9 team (787) points a total that was amassed in twenty four games.

Ray Richards, the Pistons' 6-foot 4-inch guard, was the second high scoring person for the 1959-60 season, scoring a total of 867 points in twenty games. His total is considerably below the record mark of 577 points which was established by Dolph Jamison of the Fort Wayne club in the 1954-55 season. Jamison, Bob Harrison scored at an 19.35 points per game average. Dave Bing, in his second best-selling season, scored at a 17.64-points per game.

The highest score posted by the Pistons this season was 136 points, which was made against the Los Angeles Lakers. The lowest high score record is held by the Pistons of 1952-53 when they defeated Dallas, 92 to 11.

Bemidji Liquor Store Cash Short

Public Examiner Finds Shortage Totals $7,484

Shortages totaling $7,484.50 in the Bemidji municipal liquor store were disclosed by the state examiner, Raymond B. Vecchio, state public examiner.

In a report to Mayor Chester T. Berg of Bemidji, Vecchio said the shortages to Harry M. Gilbertson, former liquor store manager, for the period from Sept. 30, 1957, to Oct. 28, 1959.

Grindall was charged with reimbursement of public funds in a complaint signed by the above on March 3. He pleaded innocent to the charges against him.

The Bemidji city council selected Minneapolis accounting firm to examine the city's records for 1958. Its audit showed $7,486.50 unaccounted for in sales of beer, with a cost value of $5,306.

Gilbertson resigned as state liquor store manager March 7, admitted he had been taking money which he had collected from beer sales, amounting to Vecchio's report.

Insurance Firms Pay $5.1 Billion in Health Benefits During '59

In 1959, the American public paid $5.1 billion in premiums for their health insurance benefits from insurance companies, the Health Insurance Institute reported today.

This was an increase of $7½ million a day over the amount paid in 1958 by insurance companies to help policy holders offset the costs of ill health, sickness or injury.

The annual amount of health insurance benefits distributed by insurance companies climbed from $1.2 billion in 1949 to $5.1 billion in 1959, an increase of 325 per cent in issuing final 1959 insurance payment figures.

An estimated $5.1 billion in benefits were paid last year by all health insuring organizations, commercial insurance, Blue Cross Blue Shield and other groups.

The 9¢ per cent increase in insurance company benefits from 1958 to 1959 surpassed the record growth of benefit payments in 1957 over 1956 when the insurance business had its previously ever since records of benefits were collected on an institutional basis in the postwar period, said the institute.

The 1959 benefit payments by insurance companies totaled $5½ million, by Blue Cross plans, more than 500 per cent to $275 million. The total amount of health benefits distributed by insurance companies in the past decade—1950 to 1959—is nearly $30 billion, said the Institute.

The growth in the total benefits has been marked in all three of the major categories for the three groupings of expenses — hospital expenses, surgical expenses and loss of time benefits of income. The first two groups have included expenses which under many circumstances would be considered as medical payments and have been included in the loss of income payments.

An examination reveals that the hospital expenses have risen in loss of income as the leading factor in the growth of insurance benefits, the institute said.

Of the $1,296 million in benefits paid by insurance companies in 1951, $340 million went for loss of income and $370 million was for hospital expenses. In 1959, of the total benefits paid of $2,850 million in benefits, but hospital expenses jumped ahead to $915 million.

The amount of benefits distributed for hospital expenses have stayed ahead of loss of income every year since 1955 when benefits for loss of income totaled $580 million and $750 million in 1956, $1,036 million and $836 million, and in 1959, $1,310 million and $912 million.

Benefits for surgical and medical expenses have also increased steadily throughout the period, said the institute, but at all times have been exceeded by hospital and loss of income, totaling $261 million in 1951, $370 million in 1955, $463 million in 1956, $623 million in 1958 and $800 million in 1959.

All indications are that more than $06 million Americans are now purchasing by automobile insurance.

Superior Smelt Season Opens Soon

Run Expected to Start Between April 15 and 20

"Many people will be looking for the smelt fishing season on Lake Superior within a few weeks," says Hjalmar Swenson, state conservation agent. "Some conditions are favorable for a good run, but the smelt may not start running in numbers before April 15 and April 20."

The regulations pertaining to taking smelt, remain the same as they were last year. Smelt may be taken with dip nets and can be used effectively, more persons voters not more than 25 feet in length nor more than four feet in depth.

Smelt may also be used in any manner except they may be taken by means of spears or hooks in any area except the St. Louis river.

Smelt may be caught and preserved without limit and may be bought and sold at any time, Swenson added. However, "they may not be transported from one point to another unless they are packed in containers limiting the size of the water which can be used in shipment." Open April 15 and April 20."

February Traffic Increases 5 Pct.

February highway traffic in the state was up five per cent over February, 1959, according to figures released by Commissioner Irvine Dahl. Dahl said the increase for last year, the Minnesota highway department reported.

East-west traffic in the northern section remained high the report said, with traffic on Trunk Highway 10 about 20 per cent over average in preparation for spring shopping.

The 27 automatic traffic counters throughout the state showed a general increase for February, but the most consistent gain was on Trunk Highways 169 and 12 near the Twin Cities

"Americans who died in 1929—just three decades past—had never heard of jet airplanes, the 'sound barrier,' split-level houses, Polaroid cameras, food freezer, guided missiles, radar, Dacron, bulldozers, V-8 engines, electric typewriters, color television, chlorophyll toothpaste, foam rubber, drive-in movie theaters, bobby soxers, toreador pants for women, Fiberglas, automatic transmissions for the family car, electric razors, the United Nations, frozen vegetables, the four-minute mile, formica, bubble gum or the atom bomb."

Is It Our Business?

Our country probably is not justified in pointing the finger of shame at the white people of South Africa for the manner in which they handle their race problems. Our criticism of them will bring to the minds of many people our own shortcomings.

But it is not right either to sit back and ignore conditions in Africa that are dangerously explosive. The natives of Africa are moving toward self-government. The white settlers cannot stop this movement. The penalty for trying to stop it will be extermination. They are a very small minority.

The white settlers can assist the natives to an orderly development, or perhaps it would be better to say a more orderly development. The natives will not emerge suddenly from their primitive state to orderly self-government as we think of it.

And our country, along with other countries of the Western world, have a direct interest in the development of Africa and the progress of its people. Soviet infiltration already is far advanced and it is a fertile field for Communism. For us to ignore the South African incidents would be very helpful to the Communist agents.

A Better Leader

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt is quoted as saying that with the exception of Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic candidates for president, ". . . all look too much like vice-presidents to me." That was a sage observation.

Considering this problem of electing a president who will be good for the country rather than one who would be good for the party, there is much to be said for Stevenson. The next congress, in all probability, will be Democratic. President Eisenhower has gotten along well with a Democratic congress but our experience with presidents of a party that does not also control congress has not been good.

President Wilson did not get along with a Republican congress and our country drifted into a depression that was worsened by the fact that President Hoover and a Democratic congress could not agree. Our guess is that a Democratic congress, that has gone along surprisingly well with likable Ike, would derive considerable satisfaction from disagreement with Nixon.

Stevenson, twice defeated by Eisenhower, probably would have little difficulty in winning over Nixon. He would have the support of many Republicans who would look upon him as a better leader, under the circumstances, for the nation as a whole.

Let's Have The Facts

In his budget message President Eisenhower asked for new taxes on cooperatives and hearings on his proposals are now being held by the House Ways and Means Committee. It would be well if a thorough and objective study of this problem were made and the facts given to the people. Too many of the arguments we hear on the taxation of cooperatives are conducted by the you're-a-liar method and develop no light but lots of heat.

The question does not involve farm cooperatives alone. There are many other forms of cooperatives and mutual organizations serving business groups and investors. They are rapidly expanding and becoming increasingly competitive in the fields they serve. Do they enjoy special tax considerations that give them unfair advantages in the market? Is the share of the tax burden that is rightfully theirs, shifted to others? These are questions that cannot be answered unless the facts are available.

We know that in taxing privately owned operations the government recognizes a difference between small business and big business. The small operator is given more favorable consideration. Is there a penalty for growing big for the cooperative? We would like to know.

We do know that at the local level the cooperatives are not favored. In our community some of the largest contributions toward the cost of local government are made by the co-ops.

A Farming Community

At the present time our oil industry is plagued with a surplus problem. A noted economist stated recently however that by 1970 oil production in Canada and the United States would not be adequate to take care of the needs of North America and we would have to rely on imports to meet our market demands.

At the present time our agriculture has a serious surplus problem. The cause and the effect of this surplus was summed up realistically in the U.S. News and World Report in a recent issue. It stated:

"The American farmer, on the average, has increased his efficiency by 65 per cent in the past 10 years. He has done this by investing his own money, or borrowed money, in new machinery and improved methods. This improved efficiency has been accompanied by a drop of 7 per cent in farm prices.

"By contrast, the city worker in office and factory has had raises far greater than his increase in efficiency. While efficiency in offices and factories has gone up by 21 per cent in the past 10 years, pay has risen by 58 per cent. The increase in efficiency by city worker was due largely to investment by employers in new equipment and methods.

"Consumers, however, have not enjoyed lower food prices as a result of declining farm prices.

"The food from U.S. farms that goes into the market basket of the average housewife now returns the farmer 12 per cent less than it did 10 years ago. The housewife, however, has to pay 9 per cent more than she paid 10 years ago. Increases in 'middlemen's' costs have more than offset the farmers' loss.

"Farmers, as a result, get a smaller percentage of the consumer's food dollar than at any time since 1939.

"Another comparison watched by the farmer is the 'parity ratio,' official measure of his buying power. It has dropped nearly 20 per cent since 1950, to the lowest point since 1940.

"All this has put the farmer on a treadmill. He has increased efficiency, enlarged his farm, sold more products. But his income for a year's work has remained virtually the same in 1959 as in 1950—about $2,500 for the average U.S. farm. Those dollars, today, are worth 18 per cent less than in 1950."

Throughout the world the business of producing food has been, and still is, in a state of depression. Farmers have survived only because of increased efficiency, but most of the benefits of this increased efficiency in the production of food has been passed along to consumers and other segments of our economy.

But there is reason to hope that for agriculture, as for the oil industry, there are better days ahead. The immediate need is production control, and that is not as easily achieved in farming as it has been in the oil inustry. But production controls have been successful for certain crops and a practical way may yet be found.

In the meantime, here in our own community where farming is our basic industry, every effort should be made to keep the cost of goods and services at reasonable levels. And that applies to taxes too. In this respect the governing boards of our city and school district are to be commended for having resisted demands for salary and wage increases and at least slowed down the spiralling process. For too many years annual wage and salary increases have come to be looked upon as a necessary evil.

The present governing boards are at least asking "why?" Actually there is no justification for any across-the-board wage and salary increases in our community. Some merit increases no doubt would be justified, along with some substantial decreases. Our community is still basically agricultural and agriculture is depressed.

But things are looking up and better days, we are sure, are ahead.

(Hoard's Dairyman)

In the past 13 years Americans have stepped up their investments in foreign countries from $8 billion to $28 billion. According to U.S. Senator John L. McLellan (-Ark), this "represents one million jobs." He told the recent annual meeting of the American Farm Bureau Federation that companies building factories abroad are doing so to meet the competition of foreign manufacturers. In his opinion, American labor and industry are pricing themselves out of the market.

Farmers view foreign industrial competition with mixed emotion. For the past 10 years they have seen farm costs rise while farm income declined. Any promise of relief from the cost-price squeeze is welcome. On the other hand, lost employment opportunities in this country mean lower purchasing power and a more limited market for the products we produce.

Based on what we have read and what we have observed, our world competitive position can be retained or improved only on a productivity basis. This means that our increased productivity per man each year must not be exceeded by wage increases. As a matter of fact, some of the increased productivity per man must be invested in such a way as to regain world markets or prevent the loss of our domestic market to foreign manufacturers. If this is not done, unemployment must inevitably grow here in the United States.

Soviets Pay a Debt

(New York Herald Tribune)

By paying the United States $1.1 million to settle wartime shipping debts, the Soviet government gave a sign that it may be coming round to the orthodox view of international financial transactions. Debts are not something the Soviets have hitherto felt themselves obliged to honor. Perhaps they have realized that although this practice saves them some money, it prevents them from enjoying more valuable benefits of trade and confidence.

Now they should decide to pay the $800 million for postwar lend-lease which they still owe us, and which blocks any kind of commercial agreement. Only the other day, negotiations on this debt broke down because the Soviets blindly insisted that trade and credits be part of the settlement. There is a big difference between $1.1 million and $800 million, but, according to Mr. Khrushchev, the Soviet Union is now a rich country.

Borrowed Nonsense . . .

We like the one about the young man, leaving for college, who announced that he was going to study medicine. "I've decided to be an obstetrician," he said. "Well, I'd think twice about that," counseled his grandfather. "You spend all the time learning to treat just one ailment and bang! Six months later some fool comes along with a cure." —Dakota County Tribune.

6¢ feeds a chick thru first 4 weeks

Chick Starter "20" was formulated for higher nutritive efficiency at the start, of course. But that's only part of the story. Not one pound of this new feed was released for sale until its higher nutritive efficiency had been proved. Then it was researched again; its efficiency stepped up again. And then—again! That's why today it feeds pullet chicks for even less than 6¢, why it produces healthier birds, why it produces birds that develop to the limit of inherited laying ability. Try it!

Red Cross Responds to Numerous Appeals for Aid in Disasters

More than 1,300 disaster relief operations have been carried out by the American Red Cross in 54 states and territories of the United States including Minnesota, during the five calendar years 1950-58. A summary of Disaster Services released today in Minneapolis by Kingsley Day, Red Cross National Fund Vice Chairman for Minnesota, shows that $802,180 was spent by Red Cross to assist disaster victims in the state and $85,001,615 was spent nationally by the organization for emergency mass care for 1,490,881 persons and individualized aid to 269,203 families.

During the fiscal year July 1, 1959 to June 30, 1959 Mr. Day said two disaster relief operations were conducted in Minnesota at a cost of $1,629. Nationally the Red Cross conducted 298 relief operations. Expenditures totaled $6,901,982 during that year. Totals for the calendar year 1959 are still being compiled.

The figures represent the cost of providing emergency food, shelter, clothing, and medical attention and feeding emergency workers on the job immediately following disaster; and the cost of reestablishing homes and family businesses, and the cost of providing medical aid for those needing help to return to normal living conditions. Approximately 85 per cent of the total expenditure falls within the category of long-term rehabilitation assistance.

Such assistance is an outright gift. It may include food, clothing, and maintenance; rebuilding or repair of homes and family businesses; household furnishings; medical and nursing care; and occupational supplies and equipment.

Mr. Day noted that 146 homes were destroyed and 1,572 seriously damaged by the 61 disasters occurring in Minnesota during the period 1950-58. Throughout the U.S. and its territories during the same period, 28,254 dwellings were destroyed and 65,150 severely damaged by disasters which ranged from fires to tornadoes, floods, hurricanes, explosions and other major catastrophes. Every one of the 50 states, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands were affected.

Disaster for families and maintenance of a program of disaster preparedness, Mr. Day pointed out, are obligations imposed upon the Red Cross by its charter from the United States Congress. These programs are supported entirely by voluntary contributions from the American people. This year, through the March Red Cross Fund Campaign or through federated campaigns in which Red Cross participates, these contributions must total $95,000,000 to support the local, national and international services of the American Red Cross during the coming year.

Tips on Income Taxes

By Minnesota State Bar Assn.

(This is the ninth in a series of articles on Income Tax made available as a public service by the Minnesota State Bar Association, public relations committee.)

Reporting of Travel Expenses

A discussion of the concepts of gross income and adjusted gross income took place in previous articles in this series. Briefly, you read that the average wage earner must take his personal deductions from adjusted gross income rather than from gross income. You read, further, that deductions from gross income were generally limited to business expenses of self-employed persons.

This article will discuss deductions from gross income, by you as a wage earner.

In gross income, you must include the amount you receive from your employer for reimbursement of meals and travelling expenses paid by you. So that you are not forced to itemize your personal deductions in order to recoup this addition to income, you are allowed to deduct from gross income the expenses you incurred for which your employer reimbursed you.

Normally, this would require the reporting of income and an itemization of your expenses in connection with this reimbursed income. However, the regulations now allow you to forego the detailed itemization of this expense to you where your employer reimbursed you, your expenses incurred were substantially the same as the reimbursement received, and where you were required to account for the money spent to your employer.

If you received not more than 12½c per mile for travel and not more than $15.00 per diem for other travelling expenses, you are presumed to have accounted to your employer and, if your expenses were in an amount qual to the reimbursement from your employer, you need not report the income received or itemize these expenses on your tax return. You need only answer the two questions concerning expense allowance or reimbursement on the Federal tax return.

To this point, the discussion has dealt with expense reimbursement where your expenses are less than the amount received from your employer. However, it is possible that you spend more for certain expenses incurred in behalf of your employer than he repays you. Some of these expenses incurred by you when properly itemized on your return are deductible from gross income while the majority of them must be itemized as personal deductions where you are a wage earner.

For example you are allowed to deduct from gross income, whether or not your employer reimburses you for this expense, expenses of travel, meals and lodging incurred by you while you were away from home performing services for your employer. You are also entitled to deduct from gross income transportation expenses incurred by you on behalf of your employer, other than the cost to you of commuting to and from work, and expenses incurred by you as an employee where you are employed to solicit business for your employer at some other place than his place of business.

The Minnesota return will be filed following the same rules except that you are required to itemize reimbursed income and expense only where your deductible expenses are greater or less than the reimbursement which you receive from your employer.

TIMES SALES PITCH PROPERLY — Good timing is vital to successful selling. Any salesman would prefer to make his "pitch" when he can have the full, voluntary attention of his prospect. Which is one reason why newspaper advertising does such a good job. The newspaper is never an intrusion . . . is always a welcome presentation of buying information, timed to suit the mood and convenience of each reader.

Continent Duck Tally Down 20 Pct. Since '59

The total continental duck population in January 1960 is 30 per cent below the level of January 1956, according to a department of interior report by the Minnesota conservation department.

A slight increase in spring population, a 31 per cent increase in farm and a near peg relation which held steady, but there was a decrease of 17 per cent in the numbers of migratory waterfowl in Minnesota during January 1960 compared with January 1959.

This information is based upon the annual winter survey made by the bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife service and state conservation departments.

The survey showed that in general the Arctic nesters, which were not affected by the prolonged drought, were present in their usual numbers but that the mid-continent nesters, which had been hit hard by three successive dry years were in short supply. But these species which are reported to have "held their own" or to have increased slightly were not necessarily in any better condition than those of the very poor years for migratory waterfowl.

Previously, the winter survey shows, is in a precarious position as it is one of the diving ducks hit hardest by the long drought and one which has been afforded a high degree of protection during the past two hunting seasons. The 1960 redhead population is 1,100,000 birds, a record breaking low level of 1959. The canvasback, another diver which suffered the drought, was down 20 per cent from 1959, and a slight decrease, five per cent, was shown for the pintail. The 1960 spring breeding downward trend—mallards, 22 per cent; green-winged teal, 32 per cent; blue-winged teal, 44 per cent; and pintails 27 per cent.

Mallard breeding ground was slightly down but state production was up 13 per cent and the wildfowling up 10 per cent. The population of broad dissolved on the Arctic coast and that of the ally will count was up 10 per cent. The 1960 fall flight of migratory waterfowl that passed over is was about the same as last year.

Trial by storm is one way to put conservation practices to the test. So says Harry Johnson, Jr., Big Stone county agent. Quoth Bartholomeh says Johnson: "Some contour strips and diversions are only watershed fire protection; they're supposed to stop soil loss from every storm. Johnson explains further: "After a heavy rain, I do not find much evidence of soil loss in the row. Terraces seem to catch the soil before it gets that far. Some contour strips pictured recently on this farm day fully Johnson's supervisor is unfamiliar. Some choppy slopes in Clay county are often hard on drain tile, Bartholomeh says.

Conservation farming pays, according to Lloyd Schmidt, Dr. Lac Qui Parle county agent. Contour strips, James, Gordon, Hamerly and Lone Tree lakes, 10 Schmidt says they help hold some up and farm work is easier to manage. Also, more moisture and fertilizer no longer rush down slopes to waste. Yields are also increased his wapatoo, planted, Schmidt says, on contour strips between and a farm point the soil loss more acute for wildlife.

Stepping up the corn planting schedule will be necessary to increase seed disease. University of Illinois plant pathologists have found, in fact, they found that one seeding 20,000 plots in per acre has less smut than two seedings per acre. Also, the single seeding is more resistant to susceptible corn varieties. This finding is important for farmers considering higher populations, today, many of whom use more than six in thicker stands.

Fertilizing alfalfa boosted forage yield from two and a half tons to five tons per acre on Dr. Duane Sethe farm near Blue Earth, Faribault county agent, Lyle Hall reports. Hall says Dr. Sethe took a soil test two years ago, found low potash and 40 pounds phosphorus and 40 pounds potassium per acre.

FHA Farm Families Make Plans for '60

Supervisor Rosegren Cites Progress in 5 Years

Farm families in Pennington and Red Lake counties receiving Farmers Home Administration operating loans have completed or are making plans for 1960, according to plans for 1960 Joel C. Rosegren, supervisor, states this week.

As a result of this study of last year's operations, some of the planned practices for 1960 are: improved pasture, dairy herd improvement association, dairy herds, testing for butterfat production, pasture improvement, application of fertilizers based on soil test, production of 1,000 pounds of milk.

Comparing 1959 summaries with 1954 figures, Rosegren said the average size of farm unit has increased by 117 acres; investment value of livestock and equipment is up $1591, gross income from farming is up $3,000; family living increased $577; net income likewise increased $1726. The number of dairy cows increased 4 per farm, heifers 36 and the number of milking sows 3. Income from work off the farm averaged $1172 per unit.

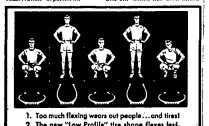
Continent Duck Tally Down 20 Pct. Since '59



The total continental duck population in January 1960 is 20 per cent below the level of January 1959, according to information released by the Interior department.

A six per cent increase in goose population, a 31 per cent increase in Scaup and a cent population which held steady, but 20 per cent less ducks were seen in the northern areas of migratory waterfowl in North America in January 1960 compared with January 1959.

This information is based upon the annual winter survey made by the bureau of sport fisheries and wildlife service and state conservation departments.

The survey showed that in general the Arctic nesters which were not affected by the previous drought, were present in about the same numbers as in 1959. In prairie nesting waterfowl, which were hit hard by three successive dry years were in short supply. But those species which are reported to have "held their own" in the drought years showed slightly are not necessarily in good shape because 1959 was one of the very poor years for migratory waterfowl.

The outlook for winter survey shows, is in a precarious position. It is aware of the drying duck hit hardest by the long drought and one which has been afflicted

ULY OLD GLORY — St. Louis, Mo. — Brasita only 43 when, this U.S. Flag was made before Oklahoma became the 46th U.S. State, back in 1907. Brasita, 96, lives at 3644 Russell Blvd. in St. Louis. Shown at home with Mrs. A. Sherwood Middleton, more than 100 years old miracle in front of the house.

Antique Car — Longview, Wash. — A small boy would find it harder today to "Take One" as he did in 1909 when this Model T Ford was made. Actually, the pups aren't up for adoption — they're just some of the new and used cars made for fun out of a cattle picked up in the local county scene.

25 Attend Patrol Recruit School

Dale Hosmer of TRF Among Those Chosen for Course

A ten week recruit school for prospective highway patrol officers opened Monday at the Southern School of Agriculture at Wanoa. Leo M. Smith, chief of the state highway patrol, announced that 25 applicants had been accepted invitations to attend the school.

The students who had been invited were those who received the highest ratings in a recent written examination, out of which more than 1,100 men had the written test.

Completion of ten weeks of intensive study in the recruit school will be the final portion of the screening procedure, after which successful candidates will be eligible for appointment as a highway patrol officer.

Captain James F. Stevens, plans and training officer, was named director of the school. Assisting him will be Sergeant Sergeant Bert Johnson, who recently graduated from the FBI academy, University's Institute of Traffic. Other instructors will come from allied agencies such as the state bureau of criminal apprehension, the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the office of civil defense, the attorney general's office, the drivers license division and other highway patrol officers.

Stevens said that instruction will be given in such subjects as police in the work of a highway patrol officer, including traffic laws, vehicle registration, traffic rules of evidence, court procedures, traffic direction and accident investigation.

FHA Farm Families Make Plans for '60

Supervisor Reasegers Cites Progress in 5 Years

Farm families in Pennington county have been working with the Farmers Home Administration to improve their farming and living and other activities.

Plans for 1960 were made in classes for 1960, Joel P. Rosegren, supervisor, stated this week.

As a result of this study of last year's operations some of the planned practices for 1960 are: Soil and water conservation, dairy herds, leveling for historical production, pasture improvement; application of fertilizers based on soil test, production of corn silage, and hay crops.

Comparing 1959 with 1954 Rosegren said it is noted that the average size of farms has been increased by 157 acres; livestock value of livestock and equipment is up $1191, gross income increased $3,000; the value living units now $437; farm expenses likewise increased $1726. The number of dairy cows increased 4 per farm; butterfat 70 pounds per cow. Income from work off the farm averaged $1272 per.

The Spell of a Story

Think back, grown-up! There haven't been many joys in life that compare to the thrill of being read to. Remember—we came to know most of those stories by heart—and we loved them more each time we heard them.

Robin Hood and Little John—King Arthur and Sir Launcelot—they became old friends. And the heroes of our Bible stories—David and Daniel and the Boy Jesus in the Temple—they lived before our eyes as though the centuries had melted away.

Those stories helped to mold our lives. They taught us courage and faith. We sought to be like the heroes we loved.

Today, grown-up, your child needs the right stories. Are you taking advantage of the Church's program of religious education for youth? Are you giving your youngster the best start in life by making yours a worshipping, a church-supporting home?

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Tuna In Flavor-Tune

Canned tuna's in tune with young Americans. They go for its flavor in sandwiches and salads. They will approve of it creole style since here tuna is combined with onion, green pepper and chili sauce . . . condiments familiar to every pizza and hero sandwich fancier. The tuna creole with rice also offers main dish variety to family Lenten menus.

Tuna Creole With Rice

- 2 cans (6½ or 7 ounces each) tuna-in-oil
- ½ cup chopped onion
- ¼ cup diced green pepper
- 2 tablespoons flour
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 teaspoon prepared mustard
- 1½ cups milk
- ¼ cup chili sauce
- 3 cups hot cooked rice

Drain tuna oil into saucepan. Add onion and green pepper and cook until onion is tender, but not brown. Add flour, salt and mustard; stir to a paste. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until mixture thickens and comes to a boil. Stir in chili sauce and tuna; heat. Turn rice on serving platter; spoon tuna mixture in center. Yield: 4 servings.

ASC Office Cites Provisions of Soil Bank Contracts

Culkins Warns Farmers Their Violation of Rules Will Entail Penalties

Every farmer who has cropland under a conservation reserve contract this year must be sure to comply with any acreage allotments on the farm and also to observe his permitted acreage of Soil Bank base crops, Patrick W. Culkins, manager of the Pennington county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation office, said today.

Generally speaking, Culkins said, the permitted acreage on a Soil Bank farm is the amount of land on which grains, oilseeds, and row crops may be produced. It consists of the historical acreage of such crops less the amount of land placed in the conservation reserve. A farmer who exceeds this permitted acreage allotment on the farm may lose his annual rental payment and also be subject to a civil penalty.

When all eligible cropland on a farm is in the Soil Bank, the permitted acreage is zero, the ASC official said. The home garden area on such a farm may be used to produce crops for home use, for setting out forest trees, or for non-agricultural purposes, but productin of a Soil Bank base crop on such land is a contract violation.

It's Library Week

Choice of Reading by Library Users Varies

In connection with the current observance of National Library Week, Mrs. Eleanor Olson has written for the Times the following article dealing with the reading habits of some of the patrons of the Carnegie public library.

David Lyle Lee, 211 Parkview Street, has a definite problem confronting him when he visits the public library, but it is one that he will grow out of. David, like many of the other very young readers, is so short that he has a hard time getting the librarian's attention at the check-out desk. But in spite of this difficulty, he comes to the Library often to carry home armfuls of books to read at home after a busy day at kindergarten.

When he was asked what was his favorite book, he answered "Super, the duper, likes Peter T. Hooper." Asked again, the reply was the same, so the mystery remained unsolved until the librarians explained that this was a quote from Dr Seuss. Dr. Seuss's books are among David's favorites; he has had "Scrambled Eggs Super" home many times and knows much of it by heart. Perhaps Dr. Seuss is fated to replace Mother Goose with rhyme straight from the space age.

Not every reader has the problem of seeing over the check-out desk. Phillip Hartley of 110 N Crocker, a student at Lincoln high, has no problem there. He has no problems finding books he likes to read either since this winter he has been concentrating on biographies dealing with history. He has picked a subject he enjoys tremendously and one which gives him added background for his school subjects as well.

Malcolm Stucy, who farms in the River Valley community in eastern Pennington county, has always been interested in history. This winter he has been reading almost completely on the Civil War period. His own grandfather served with Union forces as they made their famous March to the Sea with Sherman. Mr. Stucy added, that in spite of this, he especially enjoyed reading about Robert E. Lee and Stonewall Jackson, heroes of the Confederacy.

Mrs. Ed Swanson, rt. 2, finds time to sandwich reading into her busy life. "I like historical fiction," she said. "Lloyd Douglas is one of my favorite authors."

Goodridge PTA to Elect Wednesday

Danish Exchange Student Will Be Guest Speaker

The Goodridge PTA will meet Wednesday, April 6, at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium.

The business meeting will be presided over by the president, Mrs. Leo Ellingson. Election and installation of new officers for the coming year also will be conducted.

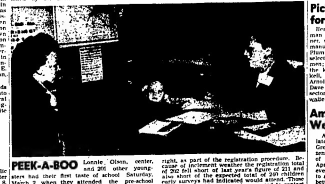
Meeting to Organize More Cub Packs Here Set Thursday Night



Parents of prospective Cub Scouts attended the Pack organization meeting held Thursday evening in the city Auditorium. It was the first of two meetings, conducted by Florian Kritz, district organization and extension chairman, and Ed Bilek, district Scout executive, to inform parents about the Cub Scouting program and the role the family plays in it.

The second meeting will be held Thursday, April 7, at 8 p.m in the city Auditorium basement meeting room. Parents of Cub age boys (8, 9, and 10) are urged to attend this meeting to assure placement of their boy in one of the new Cub Packs to be organized.

Thief River Falls presently has 146 Cub Scouts in Packs sponsored by St. Bernard's Men's Club, Zion Lutheran church and Trinity Lutheran Brotherhood. In a recent survey conducted thru the public schools, more than 40 boys not now in Cubbing indicated they would like to join. As a result of the survey several churches have indicated they would sponsor additional Cub Packs to provide opportunities for these boys and others to participate in the program.

At next Thursday's meeting the number of Packs necessary to provide for the available boys will be determined and dens organized.

Cub Scouting is the younger boy program of the Boy Scouts of America, made available by the Lake Agassiz Council, which is a participating agency of the Thief River Falls Community Chest.

PEEK-A-BOO Lonnie Olson, center, and 201 other youngsters had their first taste of school Saturday, March 2, when they attended the pre-school roundup at Washington school. Lonnie and his mother, Mrs. Henry Olson, left, of rt. 3, gave necessary information to Mrs. Andy Williamson, right, as part of the registration procedure. Because of inclement weather the registration total of 202 fell short of last year's figure of 211 and also short of the expected total of 240 children early surveys had indicated would attend. Those who were unable to attend are urged to contact Mrs. Margaret Race at MU 1-1336 to arrange for registration.

Chas. Kotaska New Chairman of County DFL

Mrs. Alfred Johnson Endorsed for Ninth Dist. Chairwoman

Aside from a good attendance despite extremely unfavorable weather, there were no surprise developments at the Pennington county DFL convention held at the court house Saturday evening. Ernest Swanson, Goodridge, was presiding officer

All the state DFL candidates won unanimous endorsements from the convention, including state Sen. Roy Wiseth who is seeking the DFL nomination for congress from the Ninth district.

Also endorsed was a Social Security hospital and medical plan for the aged. Such a plan has faced rough going in congress lately in the Forand bill, although the county convention did not mention the Forand bill specifically.

Elected to the county DFL committee were Charles Kotaska, chairman; Mrs. Alfred Johnson, chairwoman; Orlin Hanson, vice chairman; Agnes Israelson, vice chairwoman; Alfred Johnson, secretary-treasurer, and Charles I. Richards, publicity chairman. Alfred Johnson will also act as finance chairman, a duty he has performed several years.

Several committee vacancies in various townships were also filled. Of the above, Kotaska and Johnson will also be members of the state DFL central committee and state Sen. Roy Wiseth was elected as an additional member to the central committee.

Wiseth also made a motion, carried unanimously, that six delegates with a half-vote each

End Restrictions on Hospital Visits

With the decrease in the incidence of flu in the community, visiting restrictions at Northwestern hospital have been lifted, it has been announced by Norman Peterson, administrator.

The large number of influenza cases made it necessary for the hospital to restrict visitors to members of patients' immediate families March 7 to protect patients as much as possible.

In making the announcement, the administrator thanked the public for its cooperation and urged that those who visit hospital patients comply with the regulations which, he pointed out, must be enforced for the good of patients.

Visiting hours in the afternoon are from 2 until 4 o'clock and in the evening from 7 until 8 o'clock. No more than two persons may visit a patient at one time and everyone is urged to make visits as brief as possible. RETIRING After 46 years of service, first as deputy city clerk and then as city clerk, P. G. Pederson will retire May 15. During those years, "Pete" has seen the city grow from a community which had a police force of two men and a chief and a street department consisting of a superintendent and one or two day laborers to its present size. Plans following retirement are indefinite for the veteran employe but he will act as a consultant in the city clerk's office when needed.

P. G. Pederson, in City Clerk's Office Since 1914, to Retire in May

One of the mainstays of Thief River Falls government will be missing May 15.

After 46 years in the city clerk's office, 10 of them as deputy city clerk and 36 as the chief business officer, P. G. "Pete" Pederson has submitted his resignation.

The letter, read by the city clerk at an adjourned meeting of the council Thursday evening, March 31, came as a shock to everyone in the chamber altho it had been known for some time that Pederson would retire within a short time. Following the reading of the short communication, there was a complete silence in the room followed by a confusion of appreciative remarks, congratulations and a unanimous question, "What will we do without Pete?"

As an item on the agenda which required action, the resignation was offered as a motion "with regrets," seconded "with appreciation" and received individual votes by members of the council "with reluctance." Mayor Orin Green was directed to prepare a letter to express the city's and council's appreciation for the many years the city clerk had served Thief River Falls.

Here is the mayor's letter:

"I listened with sincere regret as you read your letter of resignation on Thursday evening.

"It is always hard to accept the resignation of a faithful employee, but when a man who has served the City diligently and faithfully for 46 years as you have, the Council and myself find it especially difficult. Although we all knew that you would retire sometime in the future, we all hoped that we

Accounting Is Council Topic Last Thursday

Homer Matheson, Auditor for City, Makes Suggestions

Among several items of business transacted by the city council at an adjourned meeting Thursday evening, March 31, plans and specifications for a new underground water storage reservoir were approved and a report by the auditor was made.

Bids on the reservoir will be opened May 3 at 2 p.m. and the unit is expected to be operative by Dec. 31, 1960. With the completion of the reservoir and the elevated tank for which the contract has already been awarded, the city's new water system authorized by the voters will be operative.

Other action on the waterworks improvement was taken when the council adopted a resolution accepting the offer of the Soo Line railroad to sell a tract of land west of the water treatment plant to the city as a site for the underground reservoir. The tract of about 60,000 square feet was offered to the city for $3,720.

In his report to the council, Homer Matheson, city auditor, said that the accounting system has broken down and is not doing the job it should. He credited the difficulty to the location of the new accounting machine in the Chamber of Commerce office and recommended moving it and necessary files to a basement location to make it possible to have the necessary privacy.

Matheson also suggested setting rental fees for Auditorium rooms now being occupied at no cost by various agencies and organizations. The fees should be at least high enough for the city to "recover costs" of furnishing the rooms, he said.

The report went on to say that it is necessary for the city to end the intermingling of public improvement, general and public service funds as has been done for many years.

First Easter Was No Fashion Parade

Dressing up for Occasion Is Recent Development

The first Easter Parades weren't the fashion shows Irving Berlin wrote about, but the celebration of a "new life".

The custom of wearing new clothes on Easter Sunday dates from the early days of Christianity, when newly baptized Christians were clothed in garments of white linen.

Researcher with World Book Encyclopedia reports that baptism has always been closely associated with Easter. Just as the Resurrection represents the new life of Christ, so baptism represents the initiation of the believer into a new life.

In the early Church, Lent was the annual season of preparation for baptism, and the sacrament was celebrated on Holy Saturday during the Easter Vigil.

Eventually all Christians began to dress up for a joyful parade through town . . . much to the joy of today's clothing manufacturers.

In fact, it might have been an early advertising executive who coined the English rhyme, "At Easter let your clothes be new, or else be sure you will it rue!"
